NIGERIAN PEACE TALKS IN KAMPALA

LONDON (UPI) — Both sides of the Nigerian civil war agreed today to hold peace talks in Kampala, the capital of Uganda, an authoritative Commonwealth diplomatic source said.

After daylong separate consultation with Commonwealth secretary-general Arnold Smith federal Nigeria's representative, commissioner for information Chief Anthony Enahoro, and Biafra's Chief Justice Sir Louis Mbanefo met at Smith's private residence to discuss under whose auspices the peace talks should be held and possibly name of the chairman.

A decision on this was expected later Wednesday.

STANFIELD:

Canada's Waffling 'Humiliating'

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield charged today the federal government has done "nothing" since February to get on with discussions on the constitution.

Since the encouraging federal-provincial conference at that time, problems have been allowed to slip and the government has been improvising responses to touchy situations, Mr. Stanfield told a news conference.

The federal reaction to Quebec's attendance at educational conferences in Gabon and Paris was typical.

"There was a strong response after Gabon. We don't know about France but it appears to be something different."

The inconsistent federal line is "humiliating," Mr. Stanfield said.

He called for release of the contents of the secret diplomatic note Canada sent to the French government over Quebec's status among the national delegations at the education conference.

CRITICIZES TRUDEAU

Mr. Stanfield also criticized statements by Prime Minister Trudeau and others to the effect that Quebec delegates could have represented Canada at the conference if they had sought such an arrangement with Ottawa.

Converting a Quebec delegation into a Canadian one "surely would be a laugh," Mr. Stanfield said.

Quebec could not represent the other provinces.

The machinery of a federal-provincial constitutional committee had been set up in February and it should be working on this sort of problem.

"As far as I can see nothing has happened. There may be officials working in some dark hole in the East Block, but as

Wider Range Hinted In Paris Peace Talks

LEADER of North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks, Col. Ha Van Lao, centre, arrives in French capital Tuesday. Discussions with United States envoys are scheduled to get under way Friday.

French Minister Makes Forecast

PARIS (AP)—Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France expressed the view today the United States and North Vietnam will hold broad talks in Paris on ending the Vietnam war and not limit their contacts to halting U.S. bombing of the North.

Couve de Murville told a French cabinet meeting it is his understanding the conference, tentatively scheduled to open Friday, will consist of both preliminary talks and true negotiations. He said there are no plans to change the conference site or the negotiating teams for the two stages.

REMARKS REPORTED

When Hanoi proposed Paris for the preliminary talks it said they should be "to determine with the U.S. side the unconditional cessation of the U.S. bombing raids and all other acts of war" against North Vietnam. Then, Hanoi said, talks would be held "on other problems of concern to the two sides."

Couve de Murville's remarks to the cabinet came as U.S. and North Vietnamese officials, with the French assisting, went ahead with technical arrangements for the meetings.

A few hours later North Vietnam formally approved the centre for the preliminary talks. The United States earlier had accepted the site.

SUPERPORT

Laing Threat 'Repudiated,' Says Bennett

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today the federal Liberal government had "repudiated" statements by Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing that the federal government would expropriate provincial lands if necessary in the Roberts Bank superport development.

Mr. Bennett told a press conference here that he had received a communication from Ottawa today and "I'm certain that Mr. Laing does not speak for the federal government in making a wild statement of this nature."

Mr. Laing was quoted Tuesday as saying "We are proceeding on a determination that Roberts Bank is going to be a harbors board of the Government of Canada. The provincial government has no stake in the actual port facility. But the Canadian National Railways or the federal government can expropriate any land it needs . . . including provincial land."

Mr. Bennett said Mr. Laing's comment was "an ill-considered statement for a federal cabinet minister."

"I'm sure the wild statement of Mr. Laing's does not represent the view of (Transport Minister) Mr. Hellyer."

"Word has been sent through this morning," the premier added. "I'm not saying who."

"I doubt that Mr. Laing's statement has endeared him to the federal Liberal party."

British Columbia has repeatedly said it wants to share jurisdiction over the entire port development with the federal government.

Mr. Bennett said that while the actual jurisdiction question still remains to be settled, both provincial and federal technical people were continuing studies

STUDENTS ON RUN

Paris Rioting In Third Day

By SANFORD J. UNGAR

PARIS (UPI) — Police today slammed canisters of tear gas into Left Bank sidewalk restaurants to flush out students rioting for the third day in the heart of Paris.

The rioters, some with goggles to protect them from the tear gas and the acrid smoke from street bonfires, scrambled into the restaurants to escape advancing lines of club-swinging police.

Red Cross officials said more than 60 persons were hurt badly enough to be hospitalized and more were treated on the spot. Another 700 persons were hurt in a bloody day of violence Monday.

Rubble from clashes Tuesday littered Paris from the Sorbonne University to the tomb of the unknown soldier where demonstrators waved little red flags and sang a Communist anthem.

The "Communist Internationale" reverbrated against the walls of the building where talks are expected to begin soon between the United States and North Vietnam, only 300 yards from the tomb, and officials were increasingly concerned that the riots would disrupt the talks.

Police made no move to interfere when about 10,000 marchers arrived at the Arch of Triumph and the tomb, lit by floodlights and a flame rekindled nightly by veterans of the dwindling "army of ghosts" who held Verdun.

TEARFUL VETS

The sight brought tears to the eyes of some of the veterans, watching from a distance as the students waved red flags over the flame and covered the floodlights, plunging the monument in darkness.

Later several thousand of the demonstrators streamed back down the Champ Elysees and across the River Seine to again battle riot police in the Latin quarter, home of 700-year-old Sorbonne University where student power riots were born.

The students protested university policies at the Sorbonne and at a suburban extension. The protests led officials to close the university's doors Monday.

Later the students were joined by striking postal workers, taxi drivers and sometimes by high school students.

BRITISH SHIP RUNS AGROUND OFF FLORIDA

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI)— A British ship ran aground today and 10 of the 28 persons aboard were taken off the vessel as a precautionary measure.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the ship was in no immediate danger.

Canadian Student Jailed by Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Canadian student has been arrested in the Soviet central Asian city of Tashkent on drug smuggling charges, the Canadian embassy said today.

An embassy spokesman said the Soviet foreign ministry identified the youth as William Layseed, 21. It said he was believed to have been born in France.

The spokesman said Layseed was arrested Sunday when the plane carrying him from Aighanistan with a student group stopped over in Tashkent. He was arrested during a customs search and has been jailed, he said.

The embassy said it had no information on Layseed's school or home town or the kind of drug he was alleged to have carried.

Heart Recipient Dies But Organ Unimpaired

By PRESTON F. KIRK

HOUSTON (UPI) — James C. Cobb, second of Houston's three heart transplant recipients, died today of the anti-rejection drugs used to make his body tolerate his new heart. The heart was still working and Dr. Denton A. Cooley said he had briefly considered using it again.

"It sounds like science fiction," said Cooley, head of the heart transplant surgical team at St. Luke's Hospital. "But the heart itself had apparently not suffered."

Cooley said the death of the Alexandria, La., salesman could be "directly related" to the drugs used to control the rejection phenomenon.

He said doctors finally decided not to transplant the heart to some other person because they feared that the disease which had infected Cobb's kidneys and liver might have tainted it.

Cobb Sunday received the heart of Joseph Brannon, a 15-year-old killed in a motorcycle-automobile accident.

OTHERS PROGRESS

Everett C. Thomas, 47, of Phoenix, Arizona., who recieved a new heart in the first operation last Friday, and John M. Stuckwish, an Alpine, Tex., hospital administrator who received a transplanted heart Tuesday, were reported in "satisfactory" condition.

The Stuckwish operation was more ticklish than the others. Stuckwish, the 12th person in the world to receive a transplanted heart, was medically dead on the operating table.

But Cooley and his surgical team, who were giving him the heart of Clarence Nicks, 26, sped up their work and got the heart in place and beating.

NATO RAPPED FOR ARMING PORTUGAL

TEHRAN (Reuters) — A committee of the United Nations conference on human rights today accused NATO members of arming Portugal for suppression of rebellion in its African territories, and called on African countries with NATO bases to deny them to the alliance.

The attack on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was contained in an African and Communist-backed resolution on colonialism which a committee on racial discrimination approved by 52 votes to one, with 20 abstentions.

Accelerated Fighting 'Concerns' U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. delegation is set for Paris peace contacts with Hanoi negotiators but in Washington officials expressed concern that what they termed accelerated North Vietnamese military activity could force American retaliation.

The six-member American diplomatic team, headed by Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman is to leave for Paris Thursday. North Vietnam's delegation began arriving there Tuesday.

Ha Van Lao, adviser to chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy, said he is optimistic about propects but did not elaborate.

Sargent Shriver, just sworn in as U.S. ambassador to Paris, is hurrying to his new post a few days ahead of schedule in order to be on hand for the peace contacts.

Despite the approach of preliminary talks, U.S. officials said, record troop infiltration from the North into South Vietnam has been noted.

These officials also said they are concerned about a new wave of Viet Cong attacks on Saigon and other South Vietnamese cities.

Pump Problems Stall Mine Rescue

(From Times News Services)

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. — Efforts to rescue 25 men trapped inside a flooded soft coal mine were delayed today by difficulties with a high-speed water pump.

Officials had hoped to install the pump, capable of draining 2,500 gallons of water a minute, by midday. But they found they could not install the pump in an unused ground opening as planned and had to begin drilling a new hole.

"We probably won't be able to get the pump working until six o'clock tomorrow morning," said C. E. Richardson, president of Maust Coal and Coke Co., owners of the Gauley No. 8.

Earlier, with smaller pumps in operation, officials hoped for an imminent rescue of 15 of the 25 entombed miners.

DRILLS BREAKDOWN

While rescue workers manned water pumps, a huge drill bored through a wall of earth and coal in an adjacent abandoned mine in an effort to provide an opening to the trapped men. Periodic breakdowns in the drilling machine stalled the process.

"They are not moving as rapidly as we had hoped," mine official H. E. Sundstrom said. "It now looks like a good bet that we'll get the water down long before they cut through from the other side. But we're still continuing from both ends."

Telephone contact was maintained with the 15 miners. The 10 others had not been heard from since the entombment and were feared dead.

Twelve Scuba divers were at the scene but there was no immediate decision on whether they would attempt to swim through the flooded area to the miners.

The horizontal passageway, only three feet high in places and descending gently for two miles, has been filled with water since the wall of an adjoining abandoned mine burst.

The wives of two miners trapped two days, talked to their husbands early today by radio-telephone.

"Are you cold?" she asked.

"How's your head and nose?"

Mrs. Ottie Junior Walton asked her husband whether he was "keeping warm and dry."

Both men reported they were in good condition and anxiously awaiting rescue.

Meanwhile, the fate of 10 other miners farther back in the mine remained unknown. They have not been heard from since tons of water poured into the mine Monday during drilling operations.

TV Debate Shaping; Stanfield Accepts

OTTAWA (UPI)—Conservative Party Leader Robert Stanfield Tuesday accepted arrangements by the Canadian Television Network (CTV) for a national "live broadcast confrontation" with Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

The debate broadcast offer was made by the CTV network shortly after Trudeau dissolved Parliament April 23 and set a June 25 date for a national Canadian election.

Conservative national campaign chairman Edwin Goodman announced the Stanfield decision after meeting Monday with CTV president Murray Chercover and Charles Templeton, director of public affairs for the network.

Goodman said Stanfield accepted the debate arrangements in the belief it would "facilitate an understanding of the issues by the Canadian people."

The arrangements, Goodman said, included the televised debate being made freely available to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation—the publicly-owned network—and all other broadcasting outlets in Canada with simultaneous translation in both the official languages of English and French.

Prime Minister Trudeau has not yet announced whether he will enter the debate, which would be the first such television encounter in Canadian political history.

Trudeau set down one condition—that of the two languages—when asked at a news conference last week if he would take part.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three Social Credit MPs in the last House have announced they will not follow former party leader Robert Thompson in seeking election as Conservatives June 25.

The three are Alex Patterson, who was the member for Fraser Valley; Bert Leboe, Cariboo, and Howard Johnston, Okanagan-Revelstoke. They were the only British Columbia Social Crediters in the last House.

INDIAN HEAD, Sask. (CP) — The Saskatchewan Social Credit party announced Tuesday it will leave the fielding of candidates for the June 25 federal election to the individual constituencies.

The announcement was a reversal of one made earlier this month by Social Credit Leader Lloyd Avram who said the party would try to field a full slate of candidates.

★ ★ ★

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — An NDP candidate in Renfrew North in the 1965 general election has announced he will seek the Conservative nomination this time because of Conservative Leader Stanfield.

Lorne Catherwood, an insurance salesman in this Ottawa River community, said in an interview Tuesday:

"The main reason I've changed is Mr. Stanfield . . . he is a statesman and not a politician. The NDP is not a true socialist party and the difference between the two parties is not that great."

Mr. Catherwood said Mr. Stanfield's program for the June 25 general election is "as progressive and forward-looking as the NDP platform."

Mr. Catherwood said he made his decision to seek the Conservative nomination after he was approached by "high-ranking Tories" in the district.

★ ★ ★

TORONTO (CP) — Newspaper columnist Douglas Fisher, who gave up his Lakehead New Democratic Party seat before the last federal election, was nominated by the NDP Tuesday night to contest York Centre riding in the June 25 election.

Mr. Fisher, 48, defeated former trade and commerce minister C. D. Howe in Port Arthur riding in the 1957 federal election. He won the riding in 1958, again under the CCF banner, and also in 1962 and '63, this time with the New Democratic Party.

The Toronto Telegram political writer said he is re-entering active politics because "the country is being sold a phoney bill of goods . . . the Liberals are a radical progressive party."

★ ★ ★

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Mayor Joseph Guay announced today he will oppose Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet for the St. Boniface Liberal nomination for the June 25 federal election.

Without naming the minister in his statement, Mayor Guay referred to what he called the constituency's "inadequate representation in the past."

Mr. Teillet, who has represented St. Boniface since 1962, announced earlier he would again seek the nomination. He was the only Liberal elected on the prairies in 1965.

OTTAWA (CP)—An unidentified Toronto coin dealer's proposal to add election slogans to Canadian dollar bills has been turned down by Liberal party headquarters, an informant said Tuesday night.

The dealer suggested that the Liberals print "True Dough," a word play on Prime Minister Trudeau's name, and "Trudeau for a 100-per-cent sound economy," on dollar bills.

"We politely showed him the door," a Liberal headquarters spokesman said.

"We considered it's illegal to deface a dollar bill. Besides, we think it's a crazy idea."

Report Requested On Safety Council Before Grant Paid

The Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee wants a complete report on the Victoria District Safety Council before it approves a $2,400 annual grant.

The newly-formed safety council asked the intermunicipal group for its first grant Tuesday afternoon and warned it will likely be back for more each year.

Formed to launch an all-out safety program for automobile drivers the safety council will eventually extend its safety programs to recreation, the home and industrial plants.

Saigon Siege Costly Job For Attackers

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. command announced today that 2,002 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers have been killed in the last three days of heavy fighting in and around Saigon.

But despite heavy losses, the insurgents battled on for the fourth day in streets on the capital's western edge.

The government put 24-hour restrictions on residents of the western half of Saigon to aid its forces.

In comparison with the 2,002 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed, the U.S. command said combined forces casualties in the first three days of the new wave of attacks on Saigon totalled 211 killed and 931 wounded—30 Americans killed and 323 wounded, 181 South Vietnamese killed and 608 wounded.

ACTION WEAKENS

"There isn't much going on today," a senior U.S. officer said.

"The key is whether the enemy will be able to reinforce and they don't seem to be able to.

"As far as the major threat from the west, it doesn't seem to be developing. It looks as if it is petering out, but it's a little early to say officially."

. . . BENNETT

and planning in close co-operation "at the committee level."

The premier refused to back up suggestions by anonymous provincial officials that B.C. might fight such expropriations in the courts because he said, repeatedly, he was sure Ottawa was not planning such a move.

PERSONAL ATTACK

Mr. Bennett personally attacked Mr. Laing and B.C. Liberal Leader Ray Perrault who Tuesday said that millions of federal dollars go begging because the provincial government refuses to use available channels in obtaining Ottawa help for various projects.

"Mr. Laing and Mr. Perrault, the original sawdust twins, are at it again," Mr. Bennett began his statements.

He recalled that Mr. Laing used to be B.C. Liberal Leader when Mr. Perrault was its organizer and said the Tuesday statements by both men showed "they are just working as a team again."

"Word has been sent through to me from Ottawa — I'm not saying which source — this morning.

"I doubt that Mr. Laing's statement has endeared him to the federal Liberal party, I doubt it very much."

The premier noted that prominent Conservative front bencher Davie Fulton had said that a Tory government would co-operate full with the provincial government in development of Robert's Bank.

ONE SMILE

"His (Laing's) own party is repudiating him, the NDP is repudiating him and Fulton is repudiating him," Mr. Bennett said heatedly.

"Of course I, as premier, just feel sorry for him."

He said Mr. Laing and Mr. Perrault were the worst of enemies B.C. has.

But when asked if Mr. Laing's statement was correct or not that the federal government has the power to go it alone in developing the superport which B.C. says it will build, Mr. Bennett declined to give his opinion.

He said federal power of expropriation "is not a question for consideration.

"That question won't come up in my opinion.

"I am positive that the wild statement by Mr. Laing does not represent the feeling of the federal government.

"MAY HE RETIRE"

"Outside of that, I have friendly feelings for Mr. Laing . . . and may he retire soon."

Mr. Bennett said although locked in a dispute over jurisdiction of the proposed superport, both the provincial and federal governments had been progressing co-operatively with technical planning on the physical aspects of construction before deciding the jurisdiction question.

Asked if he might contemplate court action should the federal government expropriate the 2,000 shoreline acres B.C. recently expropriated at the Roberts Bank site, Mr. Bennett said.

READY BY 1970

"The port has got to be ready (for exporting coal to Japan by 1970) at any event and no action of ours will delay it."

He added he was sure neither side would delay the project by tieing it up in the courts.

"We've pledged our co-operation and assistance," said Mr. Bennett. "This is no partisan issue.

"The only discordant note is this wild statement of Mr. Laing's and I refuse to be drawn into a discussion of this statement by Mr. Laing because I'm convinced it doesn't represent the views of the federal government or the responsible minister."

(During the series of charges and counter-charges that have marked federal-provincial statements on the superport project for the past year, Attorney-General Robert Bonner made the strongest statement when he accused Mr. Hellyer of having "holes in his head" for rejecting B.C. demands for a joint development.)

COAL DISPUTE

The current furore follows an equally bitter argument between B.C. and Ottawa in which Premier Bennett insisted that the forty-million-ton Fernie coal traffic to the superport be split between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the U.S. Great Northern Railway.

Mr. Hellyer held firm that the coal must go via an all-Canadian rail route and Mr. Bennett pulled back from his demands during the last session after Socred backbencher James Chabot warned on the floor of the legislature that British Columbians would not stand for exporting 150 railway jobs to the U.S. as proposed by the provincial government.

far as I know, no high-level meetings have taken place."

Mr. Stanfield repeated his own position on the constitution and division of powers.

He said Quebec's proposals for special measures to protect their language and culture must be examined to see whether they can be accepted without weakening the essential role of the federal government.

Any additional authority offered to one province would have to be offered to all, but there might be some powers in which only Quebec is interested.

The Quebec Pension Plan, for example, was a unique expression of Quebec authority that had not damaged the essential fabric of the country.

DISCUSSED MANY TOPICS

On other subjects, Mr. Stanfield told the news conference:

Reporters intrigued about the possible election candidacy of Marcel Faribault, constitutional adviser of Premier Johnson of Quebec, would have to remain intrigued for a few days. Mr. Stanfield confirmed that Mr. Faribault is being consulted.

● He cannot put a dollar value on the minimum guaranteed income he has proposed for Canadians unable to work because of age or disability. But the plan would not conflict with his call for restraint in government spending. It would be introduced only when it could be afforded.

● The television debate proposed by the CTV network between himself and Prime Minister Trudeau is "quite acceptable to us." The problem of using both French and English, mentioned by Mr. Trudeau, could be solved by providing simultaneous translation. Mr. Stanfield indicated he will apply his limited command of the French language.

● If the Conservatives win June 25 and it is his responsibility to deal with a national postal workers' strike as early as July 1, he would ask for a postponement of the strike date to permit discussions.

PROMISES STATEMENT

Substantial amounts would not be involved initially. Later, it would be a matter for year-to-year decision on how much could be allocated for expansion of activity. The immediate need was for an effective strategy.

Conservatives would like to see a uniform pollution abatement code across Canada, but this could not be imposed on the provinces and it would be up to the provinces to decide whether to impose standards on industry.

Federal assistance to industry for research and control would be funnelled through the provinces, Mr. Stanfield indicated.

Asked about Conservative policy on water export, Mr. Stanfield said it had not been worked out, but he is attracted by a "collective approach to resources."

Advocated by Alvin Hamilton, former Conservative agriculture minister, this approach would mean a comprehensive program under which Canada and the U.S. would work out the use of water, oil, gas, mineral and other resources on a continental basis.

GROOS RENOMINATED

Candidate Says Port Needs Overhauling

David Groos was nominated Tuesday night to seek re-election as Liberal MP for Victoria and promised to strive for improvememnt of the city's port facilities.

About 100 persons approved him by acclamation as Liberal standard-bearer in the riding he has held since 1963.

In an interview, Mr. Groos said the Canadian National Railway has allowed harbor facilities to deteriorate to the point that shipping is no longer attracted here.

He said dredging, new cranes and storage arrangements are needed to accommodate larger ships.

REPORT ASKED

"I have asked the transport department to make a forecast of what they believe the future of Victoria harbor should be," said Mr. Groos.

"Then we'll submit it to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and ask if they agree.

"Then we turn to the CNR and say: "This is the plan. You must put in the required facilities'."

Mr. Groos said if the CNR did not go along, power to develop the port should be turned over to a harbor commission.

By coincidence, the candidate's comments came on the heels of a federal department of transport report criticizing the present situation in B.C.'s 196 small public boat harbors and floats.

"With some exceptions, they are poorly organized with no signs indicating the operation authority or the wharfage dues," the DOT report said.

It proposed portable mooring licences or permits would be issued on a fee basis, valid in designated harbors when space was available.

This would ensure financial returns from use of the public docks by boat owners.

The report also said that wharf managers at the fishermen's wharf here and other major coast centres should be placed on a salary basis rather than commissions on wharfage dues collected.

The report said too many boatowners are tying up public dock space with derelicts and cluttering the floats with junk.

IMPAIRED DRIVERS

Fight Costs $50

Two men were fined $25 each Tuesday for causing a disturbance by fighting.

Court was told Art Beekman and David Spencely, both of CFB Esquimalt, were involved in a scrap with two other men in the Town and Country parking lot March 31.

. . . HEART

Luke's, said eight hours before Cobb's death, he suddenly worsened.

The question of when the donor was medically and legally dead arose as Dr. Denton A. Cooley prepared to lead the surgical team in the Stuckwish operation.

(See also Page 10)

Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, Harris County medical examiner, said Nicks was pronounced dead at 10:30 a.m. by Dr. Pedro Caram of St. Luke's Hospital.

Caram said an electroencephalograph showed absence of any brain waves. A respirator was used to keep the donor's heart viable before it ceased to function at 1:58 p.m., a hospital spokesman said.

The implant to Stuckwish began six minutes later.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The gradual decrease in cloud amount over B.C. will continue as a strong stationary ridge of high pressure builds over the coast protecting the province from the eastward movement of Pacific disturbances. A minor upper air disturbance moving down the interior gave cloudy skies to eastern sections of the province overnight with even a a little rain at Kamloops but skies became sunny later today.

HUMAN RIGHTS SUPPRESSED . . .

. . . UNDER MILITARY REGIME

Greek 'Dictatorship' Condemned by European Investigator

STRASBOURG, France (UPI) — An official report submitted to the Council of Europe consultative assembly today branded the Greek military regime as a "dictatorship" that has stifled the country's basic human freedoms.

J. Van der Stoel, Dutch Laborite, who wrote the report, told the 18-nation assembly he received information from unimpeachable sources during his April 22-28 inquiry in Greece that in at least two cases political prisoners were subjected to torture.

Van der Stoel, who made the trip on behalf of the assembly, said that more than a year after the April 21, 1967, military coup, Greece still lived under a state of siege, with all constitutional guarantees of the rights of citizens suspended.

The Dutch leader said he expected no early improvement of the situation. He complained he was not allowed by the Athens authorities to visit the political prisoners camps on the island of Leros.

Van der Stoel revealed that the Scandinavian countries, with already have brought Greece before the European court of human rights, have extended their complaint aginst the military regime.

The Scandinavian governments accused the Greek government of violating basic human freedoms and now want the complaint to include Article 3 of the European Charter of Human Rights forbidding tourture and inhumane treatments, Van der Stoel said. The complaint is being studied by the executive commission of the European court.

Andreas Papandreou, former Greek minister and exiled son of the late premier George Papandreou, charged in a memorandum circulated to assembly delegations that the Athens regime was "sitting on a volcano that will erupt with unheard of force."

Papandreou said that the calm prevailing in Greece would be followed by a storm.

Job for a Nation

THE LATEST STATEMENTS IN the Roberts Bank super-port controversy leave the federal and provincial governments still more at odds. Premier Bennett's plan to have full provincial control of the proposed port facilities, or failing that to share equally with the federal government in ownership, have run into a stonewall statement by Northern Development Minister Laing that the federal government intends to develop the super-port and attendant facilities itself, the province having turned down an Ottawa proposal for federal development of the port and joint federal-provincial development of the adacent industrial park.

Mr. Bennett's unilateral action in starting to expropriate land for the industrial park—with ex-Highways Minister Gaglardi in charge — has now been matched with the announcement that the federal government will itself expropriate these lands.

There is of necessity an "if and whether" atmosphere to the latest confrontation, inasmuch as we are now in the midst of a federal election, but it is clear that the Liberal government, if returned, wisely intends to make Canada's western gateway a Canadian project. Surely this is preferable to Mr. Bennett's anti-federal campaign, which would saddle the province with enormous costs in order to escalate the record of personal achievement which now drives the aging Bennett administration.

Prime Minister Trudeau, in his recent interview with Times Ottawa columnist Peter Newman, offered some thoughts which provide a policy background for Mr. Laing's latest remarks. Referring to the three areas of Canada in which the national unity could be imperilled, Mr. Trudeau cited Quebec, where special status or separatism is urged by those who fear that the French identity is endangered; the Maritimes, where economic under-development and geography combine to separate the people from the main Canadian body and direct some eyes toward the United States border; and "the other end of the country," where distance and affluence have led some to feel that they can get along without Ottawa and a close Canadian unity.

While Mr. Trudeau named no names, the source of this sentiment is obvious. "They are drifting away," he said, "towards a centrifugal force which will destroy the country in a less dramatic way than the others choose but which can be just as sure."

These three problems of Confederation will have a high and equal priority in any government which Mr. Trudeau leads, and he has sketched out what he has in mind. "Some of the ideas which are in the works," he said, "are programs for the west, to make Canada truly a Pacific country as well as an Atlantic one or as a north-south one; using the shores of British Columbia as an opening for all of Canada into a new world, much in the same sense as the St. Lawrence is an opening of Canada towards the Atlantic."

It is against this great national concept that Mr. Bennett has run full tilt with his provincial aspirations. There are many important problems on a properly provincial scale — to mention only education, social welfare and health — with which Mr. Bennett should be busy. The development of a vast, multi-million dollar gateway to the Pacific for all Canadians is clearly a job for all Canada to carry out. Mr. Bennett should regain his perspective.

Help Needed for Aid

THERE IS A SAYING IN POLITICS that "foreign aid has no constituency," and it is just possible that the United States Congress in this election year may adjourn without passing a foreign aid bill. Testifying before the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee this week, Secretary of State Rusk said that this would "present the next administration with a problem which no new administration would like to contemplate . . . For us to declare a moratorium on foreign aid would send a shock throughout the world . . . It would be looked upon as a major withdrawal on the part of the United States."

Shock though it might be for the under-developed nations of the world to find almost no aid coming from the United States, members of the Senate and the House of Representatives who support the foreign aid program are pessimistic. The problem is not just strong antipathy to spending funds at a time when the country is in a financial bind and the American dollar is still not secure in international dealings. There is also a serious difference of opinion as to what should constitute foreign aid and specifically whether some $700 millions for military aid of various types should be included in the appropriations.

This has led Senator Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and normally a proponent of aid, to refuse to report out the administration's recommendations. He has requested that Secretary of Defence Clifford appear before the committee and justify the military expenditures and so far Mr. Clifford has not found it convenient to appear.

Attack on the program from another quarter has come on the grounds that the conventional American foreign aid of the 1940s and 1950s is not what the underdeveloped world needs today. As Representative Bradford Morse expressed it: "People and politicians just don't understand the metamorphosis from the anti-Communist . . . objective of the Truman administration to today when we're in the development business . . . The aid administrators still are totally oriented to building economic infrastructures when they should be giving some attention to human infrastructures: popular participation."

It is hardly likely that Mr. Morse's advice would be acceptable to the conservative elements in Congress and it is just one more indication of the breadth of division on the subject.

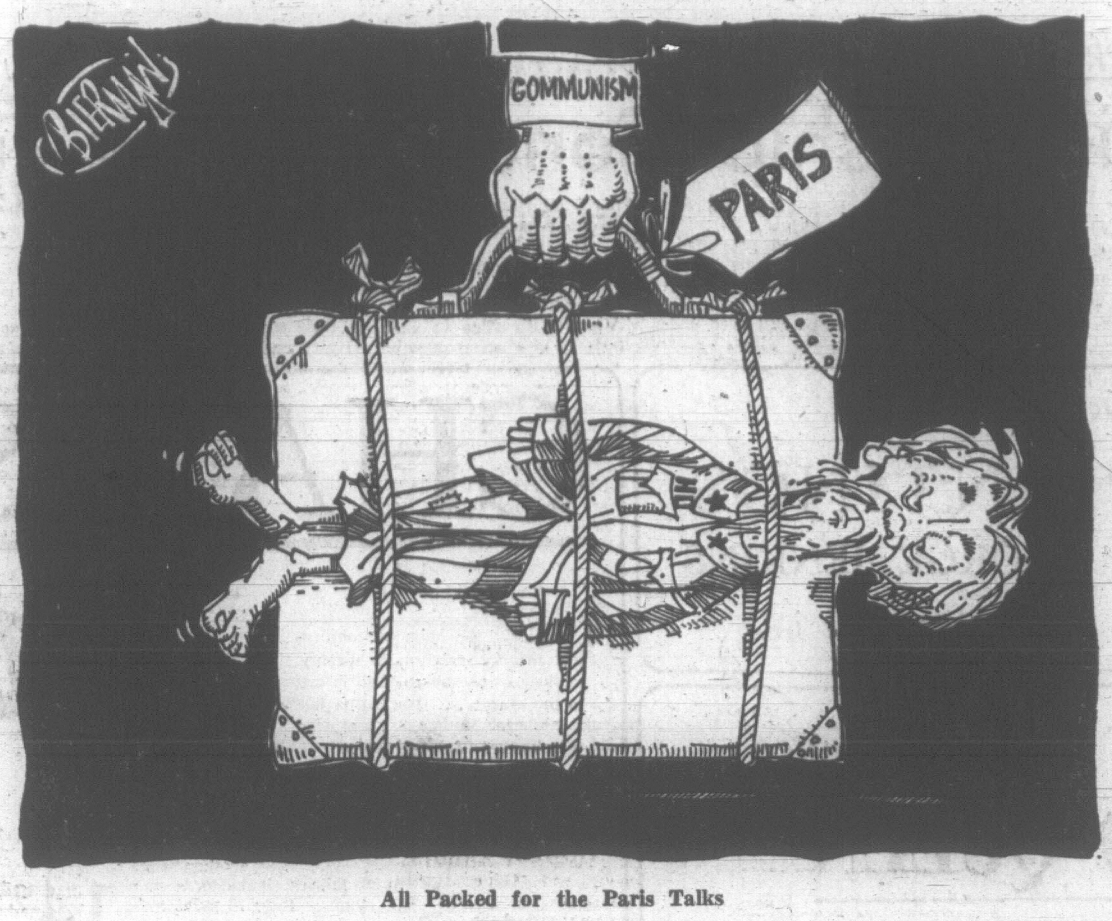
A Parallel in Quebec

IN QUEBEC, FEDERAL MANpower Minister Jean Marchand and Mr. Jean-Marie Morin, Quebec minister without portfolio, have agreed with Liberal Leader Jean Lesage that maintenance of the George T. Davie shipyard as a going concern is a matter of urgency.

The point will be noted with interest here in the light of Victoria's unsuccessful efforts to retain a shipyard.

Both the Lauzon and the Victoria plants had been sold to larger companies. In each case, closing the smaller yards meant loss of employment for skilled workmen — and presumably their exodus to other areas offering jobs in their respective trades.

The Victoria story ended with the firm going out of shipbuilding. In Quebec, the battle is still on to preserve the operation. It will be interesting to see whether Quebec can find an answer to an economic question which many other communities have failed to solve.



All Packed for the Paris Talks

PUSHING HOMO SAPIENS UP

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

'There's a Porpoise Right Behind Me'

TO a talking porpoise, mankind looks pretty silly. The most informative talk I had recently in California was with a porpoise. Everybody knows that porpoises are the most intelligent of all animals, much more intelligent, for instance, than men, and better looking too. But I had not realized how well they have mastered the English language until I met the oldest porpoise at the famous resort of Marineland. Fortunately, he was in a garrulous mood and, with a sudden, wild indiscretion, revealed for the first time the mystery of his species which has always baffled human scientists.

Hutchison

"You men," the porpoise said, "have considered yourselves the highest product of the evolutionary process. That, of course, is a poor, sick, Darwinian joke. But we porpoises have never bothered to dispute it. We understood and excused your human vanity because we were once human ourselves, until we learned to evolve into a more refined and civilized state. It's a long story.

"One of my remote ancestors," he confessed, "was a man. Naturally, a porpoise doesn't like to recall this humble origin but in strict accuracy I must admit it. Yes, he was a man and no more enlightened, I dare say, than you are now. Well, perhaps a little brighter. At least he was as bright as the inferior human brain permitted.

Hopeless

"Anyhow, when he surveyed the prospects of mankind this bold investigator saw at once that they were hopeless. Homo sapiens faced endless aeons of war, disease, crime, riot, poverty and ultimate destruction by his own weapons or by hunger.

"My distinguished forefather saw, in fact, that humanity had ceased to evolve upwards and was devolving downwards. His prophetic insight has been fully confirmed by subsequent events, as you can observe for yourself by looking around the contemporary world, if you dare. Clearly it had been a fatal mistake in the first place for life to leave the sea and establish itself precariously on land where all man's problems would be insoluble.

"All this is obvious enough in retrospect and even human scholars, with their restricted mentality, fully comprehend it now. But it required a bold feat of imagination on the part of my ancestor to begin the return to our natural element, salt water. To halt the downward devolutionary movement, to start it upward again — that, you will agree, was a formidable undertaking. Nevertheless, it was achieved in a relatively short time of about a million years. And it reached its perfection in the porpoise. If I may say so without any false modesty, evolution can go no further.

Supreme Irony

"To be sure, a visitor like yourself, my dear sir, may not appreciate these facts immediately. You see us here at Marineland in what men are pleased to call an aquarium as if we were prisoners on display. You see us leap out of the water and perform various silly tricks for the amusement of the spectators. You probably imagine that men have captured and educated us, yes, acutally educated us! That, sir, is the supreme irony of the ages!" the porpoise added with a cynical laugh.

"If you want to know the truth, we entered this aquarium according to our own plan. Now men feed and coddle and study us and we need do no work at all for a living, except an occasional stupid frolic for the public's entertainment. To be honest, it's a racket but don't tell anyone or we may lose our jobs.

"However, our real motive in pretending to be captured by men was benevolent and quite unselfish. We came here deliberately to teach man the facts of life and, if possible, to reform him. I'm bound to say, though, that it's a discouraging task. Despite all our efforts man is still devolving as you can read in the headlines every day.

"Indeed, when I stare at him through the glass panes of the aquarium, when I note his idiot giggles, his awkward anatomy, his clumsy figure on two ill-shaped legs, his pathetic attempt to flee from his so-called civilization for an hour or two of enjoyment — well, frankly I sometimes feel despair. But we shall persevere to the end. Man may yet arrest his downward slide and slowly evolve into a porpoise.

"Already a few hopeful signs have appeared. For one thing, man has started to learn our language. It was easy for us to learn English, a primitive dialect, but the porpoise speech is more difficult and complicated because it conveys thought far beyond human understanding.

"Still, when he has learned to speak properly, man may even learn to think. And he had better be told in advance that it is an agonizing experience for a beginner. No doubt it will kill the first men who attempt it but perhaps others will survive the experiment.

"At any rate, we have made a start. We have showed man the boundless freedom of the sea after his long imprisonment on land. We have showed him, in our superb, functional bodies, our streamlined muscles and massive brain, what he may accomplish if he works at it. We have offered him the chance of release from his devolution and wretched manhood. But will he grasp that last faint hope of salvation?

"Now you must excuse me. I have to do a few cheap tricks for the crowd and if you watch its infantile and barbarous reaction you'll see what I mean. Alas, we porpoises may have arrived on the human scene too late."

FROM EDMONTON

By JAMES H. GRAY

Counting the Costs of Prairie Alcoholism

OVER the past decade Royal Commissions have gone probing into most of the darkest nooks and deepest cranies of prairie life. There is one glaring exception.

Gray

Nobody has paid the slightest attention to the blackest patch of all which alcohol is causing. The cost, socially and financially, of misuse of alcohol is beyond computation, although the hints are everywhere in the statistical reports of governments and their agencies. Alcoholism is not only distorting the crime statistics of the west, it is so cluttering the jails and other institutions that there is little room left for what might be called the legitimate inmates. Here are some Alberta figures:

The province had an average of 1,423 inmates in its provincial jails last year and 41 per cent of them were in for offenses connected with alcohol. In the last five years, 34,132 Albertans have been jailed for drunkenness, drunken driving, illegal consumption and possession of liquor.

In the past year, there were just over 18,000 admissions to jails, and two thirds of the sentences were for 30 days or less. The length of the sentence leads to the suspicion that the alcoholism statistics are in fact under-stated. It may well be that many of the jail terms imposed for vagrancy, disturbing the peace, etc., arise from booze.

In nowhere else are the ravages of alcoholism as tragic as among the Indian and Metis population. Just under a third of the inmates of Alberta jails at any given moment are Indians and Metis who make up barely one per cent of the population. Here again the statistics are distorted. Most of the whites charged with drunkenness pay their fines and hence keep out of these statistics. The Indians who often subsist in a sub-poverty environment cannot afford to buy their freedom from jail.

As a recent commission into northern Indian problems recently found, the plight of a drunken Indian is complicated by other handicaps. He cannot usually understand court proceedures. He has difficulty with the language. The royal commissioner suggested that simple drunkenness should no longer be treated as a crime, that drunks be locked up for the night and turned loose in the morning.

The implication of this judgement is surely this: drunkenness has become such a comomnplace problem that it is overtaxing the jail facilities of the provinces. There is a tacit acceptance of this fact in the recent statement of Premier E. C. Manning, the attorney-general, that some new type minimum security institution has to be invented to take care of the drunks, who don't belong in jail.

Overcrowded Jails

The main provincial jail at Fort Saskatchewan has a capacity for around 335 inmates. It is housing almost 600. The Bowden Institution for Juvenile offenders can house around 60 boys. It has 85 in it, many of them involving liquor and drug offense.

The over-crowding of the province's mental institutions, in a large part the result of alcoholism, has become a public scandal. A forced draft construction program has been started to increase the facilities for housing mental cases.

But the vexing task of housing the drunks is not the worst aspect of the alcoholic impact. The problem has completely outgrown the growth and training of skilled personnel to assist in providing remedial treatment. All the provincial institutions are badly understaffed. Alberta's correctional staff is about 100 under what it needs.

Premier Manning has correctly pointed out that alcoholics, after they have been dried out, do not require maximum security institutions. Indeed, many would stay institutionalized without being locked up. But with the increase in alcoholism there has been a rapid increase in the need for people who can provide psychological and psychiatric treatment for the victims.

Insufficient Psychiatrists

But with every specialist in the west working overtime on his own practice, where can the government or the public turn for skilled assistance? It is small wonder that inmates being released from juvenile institutions and penitentiaries complain that counselling services to assist in their rehabilitation are non-existent.

Meanwhile it is costing roughly $10 a day per person to maintain the population in provincial jails. Even when the new minimum security institutions are built the cost will hardly be less. But, with the three prairie provinces budgeting to take in more than $100,000,000 in liquor profits this year, the cost of succoring the casualties is a merely incidental expense.

The crowning irony of the situation is surely this: The WCTU and other temperance forces that forced prohibition on the area 50 years ago have all gone out of business. The only public outcry one hears today is for the further liberalization of the liquor laws to make booze even easier to get. It is an agitation which all governments have vested interests in listening to.

Looking Back

From the Times, May 8, 1908.

Victorians today had the honor of a visit of 500 lobsters who are on their way from Sooke to Dodd's Narrows, between Gabriola and this island off Nanaimo. There they will be liberated and left to forage for themselves.

On arriving here, the lobsters brought from Halifax, were kept in crates in Cooper Cove, Sooke. Those that survived the trip are in healthy condition. Many of them are loaded with eggs.

Bastion of the Squares

The city council, according to the press, has been racking its collective brains to find a cure for the emptiness of Bastion Square, even to the point of trying such gimmicks as barrow-boys and flower-stalls.

Yet when a group of young people gathered in the square last Friday evening for a "happening", surely a more creative way of spending an evening than glued to the TV to watch the evening's quota of violent deaths, they were dispersed by the police, and two of them were arrested.

As a taxpayer whose money goes toward the maintenance of our parks and squares, I would like to register my objection to the absurd situation whereby the police are allowed to choose which members of the public are allowed to use our public places.—"Rhoda Dendron."

Have-Not Trouble

The declaration in Arthur Mayse's column to the effect that the population of Jamaica was now 1,700,000, came as somewhat of a shock to my wife and myself, as she was born in the island and we both know it very well indeed. That there will be trouble for estate owners in the near future is self-evident, whether they are black, brown or white and it is doubtful if this can be ascribed to racial stress but very much more likely to the economic pressure arising from the enormous gap between the haves and the have-nots.

Morality in the ordinary sense simply does not apply to Negroes who are descended from slaves. It is unusual to meet a black woman who has not at least two children and very often the identity of their fathers can only be arrived at by some inspired guesswork on the part of the mother. This casual attitude towards breeding has nothing whatever to do with the character of the mother (or the father for that matter) who may be clean, educated, hard-working and skilled in some particular line of endeavor. Add to the foregoing the fact that very few babies nowadays fail to grow to maturity, and the resulting population explosion so far outraces the capacity of the economy to support it, that the younger generation feels compelled to acquire by force what it cannot obtain in any other way.

Monstrous Marvel

The best thrillers have a compelling quality which I call "buttonholing readability," and of all the writers I've read I think Ian Fleming had this quality in the highest degree. In creating this absurd character James Bond, this romantic, tough-tender secret-service agent, with his luxury background, elaborate weapon training and special 007 licence to kill, Fleming provided us with much entertainment—most of it harmless. Myelf, I find it impossible not to feel a good deal of affection for the monster.

FRAGMENTED CONTINENT

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Mounting economic pressures confront the new independent nations of Africa, and they complicate the political and racial struggles that accompanied their emergence on the international scene.

Unity in a land of more than 600 different tribal affiliations is still more of a goal than an accomplishment.

The newly-emerged countries of Africa and their leaders, along with the few that existed prior to the big boom of the 1960s, include:

Cameroon — President Ahmadou Ahidjo. French and British influence.

'What's in It for Me?' Trend in Rebellion

By ART STOTT

A friend of mine whose work keeps him in close and constant association with teen-agers tells me he discerns an unhappy change in juvenile rebellion during the last 10 years or so.

Stott

"We all know that the conflict between the young and the old dates back a long way — probably to the beginning of time. Shakespeare wasn't saying anything new when he wrote 'Crabbed aged and youth cannot abide.' And about 10 years ago, the revolt became noisier than usual. You remember the Elvis Presley era, when boys had to have leather jackets and hung around in gangs. They were in revolt then, but more or less on traditional lines.

"Adults may have gone slightly mental listening to their offspring, and the neighbors' kids yowling 'Nuthin' but a Houn' Dog.' Still, if you dug into their reactions and motives, you probably found that the rebellion was of a group, for a group and by a group. There was some concern for others within the coterie of friends.

"Now," my friend continued, "it seems to me that the rebellion, still expressing itself in mass activity up to a point, has turned selfish. The individual youngsters are fighting authority, but in my experience they are fighting it with a view to what each can gain individually from making a nuisance of himself. He couldn't care less about anyone else so long as he gets his."

If my friend is correct in his assessment, the guiding principle of revolt has altered from the theme expressed in the phrase "We, the young people, want" to "I want," with the implication that each will use his own group for what it's worth to him, not for what it will bring everyone in a certain age range.

Well, in our present society, we put a high value on individuality, and an acquisitive principle supports the idea that the marbles belong to the one who can take them from another.

There have always been people ready to subscribe to that point of view. Still, an older generation, living by the accepted conventions even when questioning some of them, has seen hope in what it considered the idealism of youth.

That idealism may not have always been practical. It nevertheless preserved a vision that has seemed important to me. And despite my friend's misgivings. I'd take youth's participation and success in the recent local "March for Millions" to help feed the hungry a pretty fair indication of idealism.

Counter-balancing that demonstration, however, have been incidents in which student leaders, noticeably in some universities, have been using their fellows as tools in their own efforts to claw their way up to proficiency in crowd dynamics and group direction. I was shocked when the explanation was given that some Simon Fraser teaching assistants who became involved in a high school demonstration took part in it to improve their techniques in directing student demonstrations.

If the latter attitude is widespread — and you can find other instances of it in different parts of the world, including Europe where competent student demonstration leaders can be shipped from one place to another to give the professional touch to rebellion — then it seems to me to be self-defeating.

Ever since two cavemen, or more, found that they could knock over a beast for supper more efficiently if they worked together than alone, humans have found it desirable to live by certain rules. Various conventions had to be followed to make it possible for them to live together, and man, I'm told, is a gregarious creature.

A large number of conventions decay, like wooden foundations under a building. They have to be discarded and replaced with something stronger if the edifice is not to collapse. But they do have to be replaced, not merely discarded.

As long as youth in rebellion followed a workable code, it attained a certain stability and found strength in the union of all who followed the code. If the present trend suggested by friend eliminates the code, there isn't much of foundation on which to build. That may be why so many of the youth rebellions appear to be action without purpose — and rebellion in itself doesn't build.

Let the youngster once realize that the rebel standing next to him is only interested in himself and the reaction is simple as well as profane: "T' hell with him." The rebellion falls apart, not from supression, but from lack of cohesion within itself. The virtues of loyalty, common purpose, shared dreams disappear. If it turns out that youngsters in revolt are intent only on looking after themselves as individuals heedless of their fellows, their society disintegrates. It isn't any better than the adult society against which they rebel.

Youth Set For Attack On NATO

THE ECONOMIST

LONDON — The North Atlantic Treaty Alliance will be the next major target of the left-wing students who have led recent demonstrations. With 1969 offering governments their first opportunity to withdraw from the Atlantic alliance, the student activists plan to dramatize its alleged evils.

They aim to hold a preliminary planning meeting in August, probably in Italy, followed by a large international congress in December to prepare demonstrations against the alliance. The site of the December conference has not been chosen, but it is likely to be near a major NATO base, so that delegates can practise what they preach.

The planning is the work of the European Congress of Syndicalist Students, formed, after earlier meetings in Geneva and Ghent, in Brussels in early 1967 by representatives of the national student unions of France, Belgium and (under-ground) Spain and of syndicalist groups in Holland, Ireland, Switzerland, Portugal and Germany.

For these students, syndicalism means seeing the student as an intellectual worker who should be paid like other workers and who should take an active part in politics through his student union.

New Leaders

International co-operation dates from the mid-1960s. Left-wing activists were rising to leadership positions in the student movements of many west European countries (including Britain, where the orthodox leadership of the National Union of Students is being strongly challenged by the Radical Student Alliance).

They found student co-operation channelled through the International Student Conference, a "free world" body financed by the CIA, or through its rival, the International Union of Students, a Russian puppet organization.

The first co-operation was limited to the transfer of information. Tactics such as the teach-in, the sit-in and the "free university" were imported from the American "new left." Soon sections of the American guide "A Manual for Direct Action" were translated into German.

The ideology and rhetoric of other west European activists have been strongly influenced by the German Federation of Socialist Students (SDS). They are the leading group in the syndicalist congress, partly because they were the first, and remain the most devoted, ideologues, partly through the prestige won by their demonstrations and of course by the attempted murder of Rudi Dutschke and all that has followed it.

The syndicalist congress was formed to make the spread of information easier and to make the co-ordination of action possible. A Dutchman, Martin Abeln, former head of the SVB, the Dutch students' "trade union," acts as its more-or-less one-man secretariat.

Co-Ordinated

Co-operation, partly though not wholly fostered by the congress, has grown rapidly in Europe over the last six months. Demonstrations against the Vietnam war were co-ordinated throughout Europe last October. Left-wing leaders such as Herr Dutschke have travelled from country to country preaching doctrine and tactics.

Students from many countries attended a Vietnam congress in Berlin in February. French and German student groups were with Tariq Ali in Grosvenor Square on March 17 (though the attorney-general's promise last week to exclude foreigners "who will abuse the right" to demonstrate suggests that the British Labor government will not risk the incursion of further dangerous left-wing ideas into its right little island).

Syndicalists are not the only students who are now co-operating internationally. In the past these words have meant fraternal greetings, occasional conferences and student exchanges. Today they mean common action on common issues, whether Vietnam or university reform.

In December, unofficial representatives of most European student unions met in Leysin, Switzerland, to plan joint action outside the International Student Conference.

For the real apostles of international student solidarity, such as the leaders of the SDS, its aim is to create an international student vanguard which will make the workers aware that they have chains to throw off. Most groups, however, see it more simply as a source of information, help and encouragement.

Westmoreland's Desperate Last Gamble in Vietnam

By MURRAY SAYLE

General William C. Westmoreland's plan to trap two divisions of the North Vietnamese army and to end his tour of duty in Vietnam with a resounding victory, decisively affecting possible peace negotiations, hangs in the balance in jungle-covered mountains around the A Shau Valley, only six miles from the Laos border.

Under a tight news blackout, the Americans have thrown the better part of three divisions into the battle and by last weekend had lost 45 helicopters shot down, destroyed or severely damaged in an attempt to close the trap before bad weather drives them from the valley in two or three weeks.

A SHAU VALLEY—One day of cloudless weather, rare in this part of the world, has probably saved the Americans from a military catastrophe in this remote and eerie valley where the monsoon is soon due to deluge the encircling dull green mountains and their countless overgrown ravines.

A Shau runs north and south for 18 miles and has been used by the North Vietnamese for the past two years as a supply dump, assembly area and staging post for their attacks on the northern towns of South Vietnam.

Over the mountains to the west by a dozen jungle tracks lies Laos and immunity for the North Vietnamese from American ground attack. To the east over another range of mountains is the battered city of Hue, some 30 miles away.

The North Vietnamese have built an excellent military road down the length of the valley by using Russian-made bulldozers (two were captured last week) and by reinforcing culverts with metal decking obligingly left behind by the Americans when they abandoned their air strip and nearby special forces camp in the middle of the valley after they were overrun in September, 1966.

The North Vietnamese built a new road which the Americans call 547A from A Shau eastward over the mountains towards Hue.

Down this road they moved the major part of two divisions which established themselves in the foothills and rice-growing plains west and north-west of Hue.

These two concentrations are still there.

Gen. Westmoreland's plan was to seize the valley by air assault and by doing so to cut off the retreat of the North Vietnamese to Laos.

Against the anvil of the valley held by the First Air Cavalry Division, the 101 Airborne Division was to act as a hammer to force the North Vietnamese back down the axis of their own road, 547A.

But the plan is close to coming unstuck because of the weather and the outcome is still not clear. American studies of the weather in A Shau, which gets both the north-east and south-east monsoons indicate that April and May are the only months suitable for airborne operation.

Westmoreland entrusted the job to his best generals, Lt. Gen. William Rosson, a three-star General, who at 49, commands the Provisional First Corps, and Maj. Gen. John J. Tolson, commanding the Air Cavalry and fresh from the relief of Khesanh.

Westmoreland ordered them to get started as soon as Tolson could get his division with its 450 helicopters out of their bases around Khesanh. The operation, named Delaware, began with heavy clouds over the valley on April 19 and the next day 27 helicopters were lost by collisions in clouds, by hitting trees, while trying to get down in jungle or by enemy anti-aircraft fire which was described by the pilots as being as bad as that over North Vietnam.

The anti-aircraft guns were not emplaced on the valley floor which is flat and has little natural cover but in surrounding steep jungle-clad mountainsides.

For the next three days the valley was covered in swirling cloud. Westmoreland ordered the attack to be pressed on and 10 more helicopters were lost (some of these can be repaired). The pilots of helicopters loaded with troops would dive into holes in the cloud only to find they ended in more cloud.

Late on April 24 the helicopters managed to get a battalion down through a gap which lasted longer than usual but the clouds closed in before the supporting artillery could be brought down.

The battalion spent an uneasy night without artillery protection on a hilltop (the American 175-m.m. heavies cannot bring their fire down into the valley) but the expected counterattack did not come in that night.

I flew in the next day with the radio equipment of a battalion which was given the job of landing on a small, wooded hill overlooking the old American landing strip, dashing in and seizing the strip which is the key to the whole valley.

The Air Cavalry fanned out over the valley from this solid lodgement and fought throughout that day as the North Vietnamese stubbornly defended their bunkers round the valley perimeter. The cavalrymen captured three 27-m.m. anti-aircraft guns that day and found Soviet-made transistorized mine detectors, flame-throwers, gas masks and six trucks.

But the valley was far from tamed. The next day a big four-engined C-130 transport was shot down as it attempted a supply drop. A well-placed shell took off the tail and one crewman who tried to jump was killed — as were the other crew in the flaming wreck on the ground.

Meanwhile the 101 Airborne Division (who are to be equipped with helicopters themselves when this job is over) have been fighting their way over the mountains on either side of Route 547A through fearsome triple-canopied jungle.

The North Vietnamese have been bitterly disputing this advance from well-placed positions astride the road and there were seven contacts on April 29 and four on April 30.

This advance has been agonizingly slow as tracks have to be hacked from the jungle on either side of the road. The final closing of the trap is a race against time for both sides.

The Americans and some South Vietnamese are now solidly enough established in the A Shau valley to block the way back to Laos for any sizable body of men by day — and probably by night — and they have cut the supply route to the North Vietnamese for the time being; the North Vietnamese gunners are prudently reserving their ammunition for the biggest helicopters and supply planes.

But the Americans cannot hold the valley for long because the oncoming monsoon will make air resupply impossible — and the jungle walls of the valley would take a couple of divisions to make secure.

The swampy rice plains around Hue have become a vast confused battlefield as the Americans try to sweep up the emplaced and cut-off North Vietnamese before time runs out.

There have been a score of company-sized encounters in the last week and in one action four miles northwest of Hue, a North Vietnamese company of 95 men surrendered — a rare occurrence for this well-disciplined and resolute army.

But these soldiers of the North Vietnamese 324B division had run out of ammunition.

The North Vietnamese cannot hold out forever but time is against the Americans too — after their one lucky day of fine weather, the clouds have been rolling back in again and the monsoon shows dismaying signs of being early this year.

The Americans describe the operation as "a reconnaissance in force," indicating that they may have to give A Shau back to the rain and the North Vietnamese army before this trap has closed on the elusive enemy which has already slipped away once — from Khesanh only three weeks ago.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Canadian 'Land Bridge' Attractive to Japanese

By AB KENT
Business Editor

According to the Japan Canada Trade Council it will be cheaper to ship goods via "land bridge" across North America than to ship entirely by sea from Japan to Britain.

If the council's figures are correct, they destroy a compelling argument against a land bridge concept using containers and special unit trains that would run between Vancouver — or Roberts Bank — and Halifax or Strait of Canso.

Kent

It has been argued that although the concept of a rail bridge is good, its only redeeming factor would be the saving of some 20 days in shipping time between industrial Japan and the markets of Britain and Europe.

How much of the myriad of commodities exported by Japan would really benefit by this extra-quick voyage, it was asked.

Well, the very fact that Japanese businessmen seem to be sold on the idea should in itself be a sign that the economics can't be all that bad.

The sons of the Rising Sun are proving to be among the world's champion salesmen, backing what appears to be an infinite industrial capacity with astuteness, quality and responsibility.

The council says the average cost of shipping one ton of cargo 12,500 miles from Japan to Britain via Panama Canal is $435. Using a land bridge, the 45-day trip would be reduced to 25 days and 10,630 miles at a cost of $363.

This assumes a Canadian railroad capacity to handle container cargo unloaded at a rate of 1,200 per ship in Vancouver by means of giant cranes, with trains expedited across Canada with only a two-hour pause in mid-continent to connect with a feeder train from the U.S.

Again, at the Atlantic end, huge cranes would take containers from the slow-moving flatcars for loading aboard a second container vessel, virtually without stopping.

The council indicates a Canadian bridge is more likely than a U.S. rail bridge because fewer carriers are involved. In the U.S. a jumble of railroads to deal with has created a red tape barrier that seems unlikely to be cut before next year's deadline.

Land bridge seems to be the good word internationally: an Israeli study done by American economist Jack Friedgut shows how a truck bridge between Eilat and Ashdod would take goods from the Far East to Europe via the Mediterranean.

The advantages here would be two-fold, providing both reliability of shipments whether or not the Suez Canal were open, and permit the use of container vessels that would be too large in any case for passage through the canal.

To be economic, the route would need only 10 per cent of all the goods shipped by container from the Far East, the report to Israel Ports Authority said.

Conwest Exploration Co. Ltd. will concentrate its Canadian exploration activity in the hot north this year, president C. R. Elliott said Tuesday.

This is one of the companies with an interest in the Coppermine River area, in conjunction with Coppermine River Ltd. Conwest is putting up 16 per cent of the money for work being done by Coppermine River Ltd., which so far indicates a copper-bearing zone with more than 3 million tons of ore.

Its grade is reported to be excellent — more than 3 per cent indicated by diamond drilling. Mr. Elliott said this leads the company to expect mining could be profitable, despite the high cost of northern transportation.

Conwest also is involved with five other projects in the investigation of several thousand mineral claims in the same general area.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce has confirmed its special air tour of the Bennett Dam project for May 12, an all-day Sunday junket by charter aircraft. Only two tickets remain unsold from a total of some 65, and the plane will go regardless of whether it is full.

Britannia Locates New Zone of Ore

BRITANNIA (CP) — A multi-million-dollar plan to open up a large new ore zone at the old Britannia copper mine 20 miles north of Vancouver was announced Tuesday.

Anaconda (Canada) Ltd., operator of the mine whose current production is averaging 2,500 tons daily, declined to give estimates of tonnage and grade of the new zone or exact development costs.

"From what we know the grade is substantially higher than the ore we're currently processing," said W. B. Montgomery, administrative assistant at the mill.

Present ore is averaging 1.2 per cent copper and .4 per cent zinc, he said.

He said a 2,200-foot shaft will be sunk from within the mine's present underground workings to reach the new zone, discovered during a 2½-year drilling program. The new zone is expected to be placed in production by 1971.

RASH OF ONTARIO STRIKES

Nearly 15,000 Idled

By The Canadian Press

Nearly 15,000 workers in Ontario were idle in strikes or in sympathy with strikes today.

Most of the strikers were idle in disputes with Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd., involving 5,900 men in Toronto and Brantford, and with Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., involving 2,600 men in Toronto and Bowmanville.

But in London, Ont., 5,000 construction workers refused to cross the picket lines of 240 striking members of the International Association of Sheet Metal Workers whose strike has halted about $50,000,000 worth of construction work.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., the first of an expected series of disputes in the construction industry is to start today when 80 electricians, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are scheduled to go on strike.

The Massey-Ferguson strike involves about 2,500 members of the United Auto Workers union in Toronto and about 3,400 in Brantford. The strike began April 19 in support of wage parity with United States employees of Massey-Ferguson.

The Goodyear strike—in which the United Rubber Workers union is seeking a settlement similar to that won by the United Auto Workers in strikes against General Motors, Ford and Chrysler earlier this year—involves 2,200 workers in Toronto and 400 at Bowmanville, about 10 miles east of Oshawa.

WON WAGE PARITY

The UAW won wage parity between U.S. and Canadian workers in the settlements with the auto manufacturers. Wages, when parity is reached in 1970, will range from $3.65 to $5.05 an hour.

Goodyear announced Tuesday that negotiations would resume today. The strike began last Friday.

Other strikes in the province include:

Hespeler—120 employees of Crowe Foundry, a castings manufacturer, in a dispute over wages;

St. Catharines—57 workers at Canadian Warren Pink Division of the Dominion Chain Co. Ltd. seeking 20-per-cent wage increase and cost-of-living bonus;

Brantford—38 office workers at A. G. Spalding Bros. of Canada, a sporting-goods manufacturer, seeking wage increases in the first contract for their bargaining unit, Local 2-350 of the International Woodworkers of America, certified last August.

Autopsies in Question Because Heart Missing

HOUSTON (UPI) — When is a man dead?

The question, discussed in the abstract for months, became a legal question Wednesday after Harris County medical examiner quizzed doctors who transplanted the heart of an assault victim into a patient, in the world's 12th heart transplant.

Dr. Joseph A. Jachimczyk said Tuesday Houston doctors hoped to draw up a set of guidelines for future transplant operations to determine when a patient is legally dead. There is no set method to decide when life is gone, since machines can keep a body breathing and blood flowing for hours and even days after the brain has ceased to function.

Jachimczyk said he understands how a physician feels, when he may be able to save a heart patient's life by quickly transplanting the heart of another person soon after death.

HOMICIDE VICTIM

The donor in Tuesday's operation was the victim of a homicide and Jachimczyk said this presents additional problems.

Transplants raise questions in autopsies, when they must be done without all the vital organs, and in prosecutions, where defense attorneys might contend the victim was killed by the transplant and not by the assailants.

"We're going to see if we can work it out so that everyone involved gets the most benefit," he said.

Jachimczyk met behind closed doors Tuesday with surgeons to determine if Clarence Nicks, the donor of Tuesday's operation, died early Tuesday morning or hours later — just before the transplant operation.

In Texas, legal death occurs when a doctor pronounces a person dead.

Dr. Denton A. Cooley, head of St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital transplant team, said he supported a ruling last week in France that the electroencephalogram measurement of brain waves should be the deciding factor in death.

BRAIN ACTIVITY

If there is no brain activity, the person should be considered dead, Cooley said.

"The brain controls all activities of the body. It is like a car without sparkplugs," he said.

Jachimczyk said since the donor was a homicide victim and his assailants might later be brought to trial, the transplant might complicate the autopsy and any prosecution.

"I cautioned them against proceeding," Jachimczyk said. "I was asked if I authorized it and I said no.

"Then I went this far. I said I would not file or press charges against anyone involved in the operation," Jachimczyk said.

He said the transplant complicated the autopsy since it would now have to be done without all the vital organs present. He said it might also hinder future prosecution of the assailants since defence attorneys might try to contend Nicks was killed by the transplant and not by the beating.

"The question is whether we are striving for a successful prosecution or the ultimate benefit of an individual," he said. "Hopefully we will find enough brain injury to account for death."

SWORN as governor of Alabama Tuesday was Lieutenant-Governor Albert Brewer, 39. He took over following the death of Mrs. Lurleen Wallace, first woman governor in Alabama's history. Brewer, a lawyer, was house speaker in last of his three terms in state legislature.

Pension Increase Requested

An increase in pensions for retired municipal workers was requested at Saanich finance committee Tuesday night.

A letter from James Riddell of Sidney, Greater Victoria representative of the B.C. Municipal Retired Employees' Association, asked that the same raise be given as the city of Vancouver has approved in the same category.

This amounted to 50 cents a month for each year of service for retired workers or 35 cents a month for their widows. It would apply to those who retired before April 1, 1957.

All Victoria municipalities are being asked for the same consideration, Mr. Riddell said. Saanich tabled the item for more information.

Georgy Girl a Mother

U.S. PRIMARIES

Double Victory for Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two victories by Senator Robert F. Kennedy, an impressive showing by Richard M. Nixon and the defeat of veteran Senator Frank J. Lausche (Dem, Ohio), were the highlights of five primaries across the U.S. Tuesday.

Kennedy defeated Senator Eugene J. McCarthy in Indiana's Democratic presidential primary and his national convention delegate slate beat Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey's in the District of Columbia.

Republican candidate Nixon was unopposed and got an even bigger Indiana vote than in the 1960 primary. He carried the state in the 1960 general presidential election.

Lausche was defeated by city councilman John J. Gilligan of Cincinnati, a former congressman who had labor support and the Ohio Democratic organization endorsement.

U.S. primaries are held to test the popularity of politicians seeking presidential nominations. In some states, primary winners are given state delegate votes on the first ballot at conventions at which candidates are chosen.

Most of the 63 delegate votes at stake in Indiana must go to Kennedy. However, the state Democratic central committee, controlled by Governor Roger D. Branigin's organization, is likely to decide that a share of the delegation should be given on the basis of congressional districts.

Since Branigin carries two districts in the primary, he would get some of the delegate votes.

In Tuesday's primary voting:

—Kennedy got about 42 per cent of the Indiana vote to about 31 per cent for Branigin and about 27 per cent for McCarthy.

—All 21 candidates on Kennedy's delegate slate in the District of Columbia were far outdistancing their Humphrey rivals. By unit rule Kennedy gets all 23 of Washington's convention votes.

The delegation would include the 21 delegates elected Tuesday and the outgoing national committeeman and committeewoman.

Also in the D.C. voting, a Republican slate composed of supporters of both Nixon and Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York easily defeated a slate weighted toward Governor Ronald Reagan of California.

Gilligan's Republican Senate opponent in Ohio apparently will be Attorney-General William B. Saxbe who issued a victory statement after outdistancing two opponents.

—In Alabama, George C. Wallace, third-party presidential candidate, apparently won the right to run on his state's Democratic party slate. He appeared to have picked up at least 25 of 34 Alabama delegates to the Democratic convention.

—Florida Representative Edward Gurney won the Republican senatorial nomination by a landslide but the Democratic race between former governor LeRoy Collins and Attorney-General Earl Faircloth appeared headed for a runoff.

Kennedy was making no claims for the future after his Indiana victory, including his prospects in the Nebraska primary next Tuesday.

"Vice-President Humphrey says he's the front-runner, Sen. McCarthy says he's the front-runner," Kennedy said. "I'm not making any predictions where I am because the only way I can do well is to take my campaign to the people."

He said the combination of results in the District of Columbia and Indiana "indicate a broad base of support for my candidacy."

But McCarthy and Branigan forces—and promoters of the Humphrey campaign—noted Kennedy was a minority winner. McCarthy said he would

HOOSIER VOTE FAILED TO PROVIDE ANSWERS

By The Washington Post

WASHINGTON—It was a solid victory for Robert F. Kennedy, if not the conclusive rout for which he had hoped.

Eugene J. McCarthy trailed his New York rival but emerged from the Indiana primary alive and reasonably well, still very much in the running for the presidential nomination.

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, who had little to lose and everything to gain in the Hoosier popularity contest, neither lost nor gained dramatically Tuesday night.

This was the over-riding pattern of Indiana, which had been billed as the death-lock battle of the 1968 presidential sweepstakes.

Indiana had promised to provide the answers, to establish either Kennedy or McCarthy as the pre-eminent Democrat; the outcome was not that conclusive.

So the battle continues. Nebraska next Tuesday. Oregon two weeks later. And finally, on June 4, comes the big prize of California. There are other contests along the way, but, if the victory is to be won in primaries, those will be the clinchers.

Tuesday night, Kennedy proved his polling strength among Negroes, from whom he apparently drew 6-to-1 support, and other urban majorities. This is the traditional political base upon which the Democratic Party must depend for its presidential victories.

The junior senator from New York did poorly in small towns and rural areas—the traditional bastions of Republican strength.

'Only Force Could Oust South Africa'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A special council told the General Assembly Tuesday that racial war is inevitable if South Africa refuses to turn South-West Africa over to the United Nations. It said only use of force could oust South Africa from the territory.

Release of the formal report of the 11-nation council on South-West Africa was expected to spur a lagging debate in the resumed assembly session on the future of the territory.

In October, 1966, the assembly declared South Africa's mandate over the territory terminated. It named the council the next year to supervise the UN takeover and set South-West Africa on the road to independence.

But South Africa has refused to recognize the UN action, and barred the council last month from entering the territory, with a population of about 500,000.

"The council fears that the persistent refusal on the part of South Africa to comply with the decisions of the United Nations on South-West Africa will inevitably lead to the outbreak of violence and war," said the report introduced in the 124-nation assembly by the council president, Anton Vratusa of Yugoslavia.

"The council is convinced that the situation constitutes the gravest threat to international peace and security in the area. The council considers that the United Nations has a serious and direct responsibility to avert such a threat."

African speakers have demanded that the assembly ask the UN Security Council to take forceful measures under the UN charter against South Africa. This could include economic and diplomatic isolation, and even use of military force as a last resort.

The United States, Britain and France, among permanent members of the Security Council with the right of veto, have been consistent opponents of use of force.

$500 Bond Imposed For 'Possession'

Alexander Wilks, 1612 Richmond, was placed on a $500 two-year good behavior bond Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to possession of stolen property.

Wilks was also ordered to pay $50 restitution to Canton Chinese Food, 1815 Fort.

Police said they found a cash register in Wilks' apartment that had been stolen from the store April 17.

SIX FEET ONE, straight as a gun barrel, Luna weighs 113 pounds and may be United States answer to Twiggy. One of New York's highest-paid models, she will star as Jackie Gleason's mistress in movie "Skidoo."

ANOTHER UGLY DUCKLING BECOMES BEAUTIFUL SWAN

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I was always too tall, too freaky looking; nobody ever gave me a chance to be an actress. And look at me now!"

Luna, all six-feet-one of her, is an actress, and doing well — well enough to be assigned to play Jackie Gleason's mistress in Otto Preminger's Skidoo.

Preminger picked Luna after meeting her at a New York party honoring Twiggy. Luna is scarcely more shapely than Twiggy, her height supporting a mere 113 pounds. With her grasshopper-like legs and Nefertiti head, she presents a striking figure.

"I feel as old as Nefertiti today," she groaned between scenes of Skiddo one day. "I am completely exhausted."

Luna was born Dhonyale Luna in Detroit 21 years ago to parents with Negro, Irish, Spanish and Oriental blood. Her height remains unexplained, since none of her forebears was tall.

"I was a very loony chick," she recalled "I spoke funny, I looked funny; I fitted into no particular category.

"Detroit is very bourgeousie — the people stick to their own particular groups. But I belonged to no group, so I was always alone.

"Until I was 17, 'beautiful' was a word that I had never known. Then I went to New York and someone suddenly said, 'Like wow! This girl is really something.' Flash! Bam! Boom! I found myself in a profession that I never really wanted."

BECAME TOP MODEL

That profession was modelling, and overnight Luna became one of the highest-paid models in New York. Her prices ranged from $60 to $400 an hour, depending on the job. Despite such riches, she was not happy.

That's why she is delighted with the Preminger assignment.

"I thought it would be much more difficult than it is," she observed. "But then, nobody was expecting much of me, so I think I am surprising them.

"It is not hard for me to act. I am dramatic 24 hours a day. By my very nature I am dramatic."

Luna hopes to do more films, but she will continue to make her home in Rome.

"I prefer to live in Europe because I am happier there," she remarked. "No, it has nothing to do with discrimination, because I have never encountered a racial problem."

DOCTORS APPROVE REPORT

The first round of discussions on the Agnew, Peckham report on hospitals and health services have drawn tentative approval from the medical profession.

In a statement issued Tuesday Dr. W. J. Bell, president of the Victoria Medical Association, said the comprehensive report had been accepted by the association.

"We accept the report. This is a building stone we can work from," he said.

The Agnew report recommended an immediate start on a 200 bed extended care hospital to tie-in with the St. Mary's Priory operation at Colwood.

At the same time, or immediately following, Dr. Harvey Agnew told district officials last week, a start should be made on a 200 bed acute care hospital for the Elk Lake-Royal Oak area.

Hospital administrators also met Tuesday for a pre-discussion briefing on the report.

The Regional Hospital District's advisory committee on hospital matters was scheduled to meet this afternoon for the first of a series of detailed study sessions on how the Agnew, Peckham plan should be implemented.

They will report to the district board later this month or early in June.

Barbra Settles Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Barbra Streisand has reached a settlement out of court in her $2,250,000 damage suit against Trans-World Airlines and the National Broadcasting Co. An agreement to discontinue the action was filed in New York State Supreme Court. It said the suit which alleged unauthorized use of Miss Streisand's name and picture in advertising, had been "compromised and settled." Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

GIFTED ACTOR from the University of Victoria, who has played major roles on the Phoenix and McPherson Playhouse stages, Anthony Jenkins is now about to appear at Langham Court Theatre where he plays the demanding role of Edward Chamberlayne in the Victoria Theatre Guild production of T. S. Eliot's striking and unusual comedy, The Cocktail Party. Mr. Jenkins is on stage almost continuously in the play which sparked heated controversy when it was first produced at the Edinburgh Festival in 1949. Subsequently it was hailed as a modern masterpiece and holds its place beside Murder in the Cathedral as Eliot's most brilliant and successful theatrical writing. Box office for The Cocktail Party, which begins a week's run Saturday at 8:15 p.m., opened today at Eaton's. All seats are reserved. Photo by William E. John.

CLAREMONT HIGH SCHOOL

Choir Visits Washington

This week the Claremont Senior Secondary School Choir which won top rating and glowing praise for its singing in the recent Victoria Music Festival, is out of town on a concert trip to Ellensburg, Wash.

With its director, Don Kyle, the choir left Tuesday on the trip which has been financed by student contributions and proceeds from school concerts.

While in Ellensburg they will be guests of members of the Ellensburg High School Choir. They will return to Victoria Thursday.

As an exchange gesture, next Sunday evening 73 members of the Ellensburg Choir will arrive in Victoria. During their two-day stay they will give concerts at Claremont and Mount View Secondary Schools.

Then on Monday evening the Ellensburg and Claremont Choirs will be joined by a top rated choir from Carson Graham in North Vancouver, to present a concert at McPherson Playhouse.

Tickets for the widely varied choral program are now on sale at the school or will be available at the door.

LEGALITY MOVE

Silver Bars For Winners In Lottery

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau has added a new twist to his controversial voluntary tax scheme, to be studied by the Quebec appeal court as to its legality under the lottery section of the federal Criminal Code.

The mayor announced Tuesdayy that prizes for draw winners would be in the form of silver ingots because "silver ingots are the least conventional and most dramatic way of awarding $150,000 in prizes and neatly escapes being taxed as income."

A city hall spokesman said today this latest announcement removes some of the confusion surrounding the legality of the voluntary tax plan.

"There isn't any cash involved anymore," he said. "The city is only raffling off silver ingots which can only be described by their monetary value."

The provincial government said earlier this week it was asking the appeal court to rule on the Montreal tax plan's legality. Some authorities claim it is an illegal lottery under the Criminal Code.

MAY GO TO COURT

Mayor Drapeau had said he is willing to test the scheme's legality in the courts.

Under the plan any person in Canada is entitled to voluntarily contribute $2 monthly towards Montreal's tax revenues. In return, he qualifies for 151 prizes —the top one $100,000 in silver ingots. Other prizes are for $100, $500 and $1,000 in silver bars.

First draw is to be held May 27. Contributions for that draw must reach the city by May 15.

The city hall spokesman said that if Montreal runs into a legal roadblock with the present scheme, then court action would have to be taken against any organization—social club, department store, supermarket or private company—which organizes a raffle of one kind or other.

Mayor Drapeau said at his Tuesday press conference he would have preferred gold bricks as prizes but the international monetary situation made use of gold impractical.

The voluntary tax plan was adopted by city council to meet an expected $28,000,000 deficit in the current fiscal year without a big formal tax increase. Prizes and other expenses in the scheme will cost $4,000,000.

MUST ANSWER QUESTION

Draw winners will be invited to answer in public one of 20 "skill-testing questions" on the city of Montreal.

Candidates will be examined publicly before a three-man jury. If a candidate cannot be in Montreal on the specified examination date, he will be questioned over a telephone attached to a public address system or over the radio.

The rules allow a very young candidate to defer the questions to the adult who made his donation, the mayor said.

A candidate who produces a medical certificate can nominate a member of his family for the examination, or a "perosnal friend with the same general level of education."

Mayor Drapeau would not give the amount in $2 donations received at city hall so far, but he said last weekend that $200,000 had been received and there were still unopened mailbags.

5,100,000 Families Get Forms

MONTREAL (CP) — Application forms for Montreal's new voluntary tax plan have been mailed to most of the families across Canada.

Robert Veronneau, in charge of Montreal's data processing centre, said the forms had gone out to more than 5,100,000 families. The last census showed there were about 6,000,000 families in Canada.

The mailing list was compiled by a private firm engaged in the business of gathering and keeping lists up to date and was supplemented by the city of Montreal list and other sources.

Mr. Veroneau said newspaper advertisements were being placed to inform families inadvertently left out that they should get in touch with the City of Montreal.

New forms will be mailed to families who participate in the city tax plan by returning the forms along with $2, but persons failing to return the applications will be dropped from the mailing list.

"We don't want to bug anyone with new forms every month if they are not interested," said the official.

The city hopes the plan will raise $32,000,000 to help eliminate its deficit of $28,000,000 during the current fiscal year. Operating costs of the plan is expected to cost $4,000,000.

Participants will be eligible for a share of the $150,000 in monthly prizes for their $2 voluntary contribution.

Arthur Mayse

The man I envied most as a young reporter was a free-lance writer who sometimes dropped in to pass the time of day. He earned a good living at his trade; he was free to come and go as he chose, and his way of life impressed me as ideal.

But, while he was generous with encouragement and advice, there were a few things about the life of the free-lance that he neglected to tell me. I was left to learn them for myself, in 16 years of feast and near-famine that I wouldn't have missed for anything.

But I wouldn't want to repeat them either, and this surprises friends not met in a long time who find me behind a newsroom typewriter once more.

Almost always, they want to know if I miss the freedom of those years when I took our family living from the American fiction market.

No, I don't miss it, and this for the simplest of reasons. Freedom, in the sense they use the workd, didn't exist. To understand why, oblige me by considering certain facts about a highly-uncertain occupation.

First, even for the man or woman whose abilities lie in that direction, creative writing is slave-driving work, and the writer is both master and slave.

It is hard physically and mentally. There is also the knowledge — which a free-lance writer must keep firmly suppressed while he's busy making something out of nothing — that his end-product may have no market value whatever.

★

I have known a good many journeyman writers. Without exception, they expected to turn out more stories or scripts than they sold.

The writer who found paying homes for half his brain-children wasn't doing too badly.

He might, as I eventually did, place about two-thirds of what he produced by the sweat of his brow and the turmoil of his spirit. As for the remainder, which represented weeks or even months of work, he could junk it or keep it for a souvenir.

You will note that I have not used the word "inspiration" in this treatise. This is because I have never heard a typically morose, harried professional writer use it. He may speak of a hot idea, and with luck, he will be visited by such a sending perhaps three times in any one year.

These are the bonuses ... they leap to life full-blown, and the writer merely transcribes them on paper. And what does he do the rest of the time? Take life easy?

Not if he hopes to keep the bank account solvent, he doesn't! He brings his craft to bear, he applies self-discipline, and he sets himself to whistle up a wind. And strangely, the story that came hard may in the end turn out better than the hotshot that has still failed to find a home.

Did I tell you that his wife, who never knows for how long she must budget, either leaves him or develops nerves of steel?.

★

But it wasn't any of these factors that caused me to turn from free-lancing the day after I had sold a story to a top market.

After all every job has its difficulties, and a man takes them in stride.

There were also wonderful times, plenty of them, and occasional high excitements: New York calling, and the knowledge that the serial on which our fortunes hung had scored.

What brought me to this newsroom typewriter, more than any other pressure, was a sort of loneliness.

Creative writing is of necessity a solitary business. More and more, I found myself yearning for the very things I has tossed away so gladly.

I wanted to work among other people, and to look forward to weekends and holidays again.

Freedom? Long ago, I quit believing it was merely time unlimited to spend as one chose. Now, I think that true freedom is something that comes from within.

HAWES BACKS DEEP WATER DISCHARGE

'Shallow Sewer Outfalls Must Go'

By ALAN WHITE

Mayor Fred Hawes of Oak Bay today came out swinging in defence of Greater Victoria's plan for deep water sewage outfalls.

Dumping sewage into shallow local waters — which has been done here for 50 years — is "revolting and a threat to public health," the mayor said.

The mayor, who is chairman of the sewage and waste disposal committee of the Capital Region District Board, said no delays should be tolerated because of the "propaganda of uniformed people."

The time has come when we must stop dumping sewage into shallow enclosed water," he said.

The deep water sewage outfall plan — part of an overall $23.5 million sewer plan for the area — has met strong objections from some sources.

MEETS STANDARD

William Reader, a member of the board from Colwood, has severely criticized the general concept of disposing of waste in the sea.

Mayor Hawes said the outfall system meets standards set down by the Pollution Control Board. If necessary, sewage treatment plants could always be added to the system.

Extensive rock formations and impervious soil make the region unsuitable for any other method of sewage disposal, he said.

"It is fortunate that most of our centres of population in the Greater Victoria area are within reasonable reach of open waters which are subject to significant currents that increase the diffusion and dilution."

Dispersal of sewage far enough from shore will kill bacteria quickly enough to meet pollution standards, he added.

The first steps towards correcting the existing faulty outfall systems will probably be made to the regional district board on May 22.

For the past three months the over-all plan for eliminating major pollution problems in the area has been under intensive study in order to sort out priorities.

Number one on the list at present is the Macaulay Point outfall fed by the northwest trunk system and discharging sewage into the sea at the mouth of Victoria harbor.

Also high on the list is a request from Central Saanich that urgent priority be given to its sewage disposal problems.

B.C. Bank Opens In Late Summer

Douglas, Johnson Location

The Bank of British Columbia's Victoria branch will open in late summer at the corner of Douglas and Johnson in premises now occupied by a clothing store.

The announcement was made by director Harold B. Elworthy, chairman of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., and bank president A. E. Hail, of Vancouver.

A statement said, "We had hoped to open in Victoria during July when the Vancouver main office will be opened, but premises were not readily available, and hopefully Victoria branch will be ready to open its doors to the public by late summer."

Before the bank takes over, the building will undergo extensive renovations, the statement said.

Originally it was planned to open branches in Vancouver and Victoria early this year, but the bank encountered organizational problems involving staff and securing suitable branch sites.

Boy Sets Fire To Himself After LSD Bout

A Saanich boy set fire to himself the day after he had taken a dose of LSD, Saanich police said Tuesday.

The 15-year-old boy is in hospital with first, second and third degree burns over 30 per cent of his body.

The incident occurred April 28 and Saanich police, who were not notified until Friday, have it under "intensive investigation."

BOUGHT FROM GIRL

Det.-Sgt. Robin Stewart said the boy bought a dose of the drug for $7 from a 14-year-old girl. He took the drug Saturday, April 27, and the following day went berserk.

He apparently went into the backyard, poured gasoline over himself and ignited it.

Police said a dressing gown the boy was wearing was completely burned. He suffered burns to his hands, face, back and legs. A relative rushed him to hospital.

The boy is a student at a local high school. His age and that of the girl who sold him the drug underline recent concern of widespread use of drugs among school students.

Det.-Sgt. Stewart would not say if the age of the two youngsters involved was unusually low, but he said. "we have to educate the kids not to take unprescribed drugs.

"They are experimenting with drugs without knowing what they are buying and what they are taking."

MAN CHARGED WITH HAVING STILL

A charge of possession of an illegal still came before magistrate's court today for the first time in several years.

Stanley Ratcliffe, 710 Donovan, pleaded not guilty to possession of "a still suitable for the manufacture of spirits without given notice as required by the Excise Act."

BAIRD:

No Crackdown On Lord's Day Infringements

Victoria city council has not instructed Chief J. F. Gregory to enforce the Lord's Day Act.

The statement was made this morning by Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the Victoria city finance committee, which last week discussed a letter from the United Church Presbytery protesting the increasing amount of Sunday business.

He was replying to reports in the Colonist that city council had ordered a crackdown.

"We discussed the letter, but all we asked the police chief to do was study the activities of two particular companies — one involved in the sale of paint and the other in the sale of furniture — and report his opinions to us," Ald. Baird said. "The decision was a committee decision not a council decision.

'RIDICULOUS'

"We did not instruct him to start charging people under the Lord's Day Act because such instructions would be ridiculous.

Ald. Baird said he would favor any move to modernize the act to bring it into line with the accepted way of life of modern society.

"In the meantime the act has to be administered with a great deal of common sense," he said. "But I am in favor of a complete review, not with the idea of relaxing some of the restrictions, but just with bringing it into line with modern living.

"As things stand now the situation is a little ridiculous."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whose department is responsible for admisistering the act, said he would not agree with tightening policing.

"It has been the policy of this department for the past 16 years to carry on in the face of established usage," Mr. Bonner said. "Any prosecutions under the Lord's Day Act must be approved by this department.

MIDDLE OF ROAD

"It has been our policy, and will continue to be our policy, to see that implementation of the act is not unduly liberalized nor unduly tightened."

Mr. Bonner said any review of the act would have to be made in Ottawa, that statute being federal on creation.

Ald. Baird said he felt the earlier news story must have been written and published "tongue-in-cheek."

"They must have been aware that this matter is not under the city's jurisdiction," he said. "It is a provincial matter and any tightening up lies with them.

"But I think we all agree it would be one huge joke to try and put the Lord's Day Act into effect in Victoria or any other city for that matter."

Poison Found In Body Of Yachtsman

A well-known Victoria yachtsman and flyer died of cyanide poisoning, a coroner's inquest was told Tuesday night.

Stuart Law, 49, of 2582 Macdonald Drive, died March 24 at his home. He had a history of heart trouble.

ACTS FAST

Cyanide is a fast-acting poison and Dr. Thornton said a person taking a few grains dies "in a minute or two."

Assistant Vancouver city analyst Eldon Ridout, who conducted tests for Saanich police, said the "usual range" of a lethal dose is about .4 or .5 milligram per cent.

He said he found the deceased's blood contained about .34 milligram per cent cyanide, the stomach about .7 milligram per cent.

Pharmacist Edmond Bedford of Dalby's Pharmacy, 3828 Cadboro Bay Rd., told the inquest he sold Law 130 grams of liquid cyanide March 16, and a further 130 grams of dry cyanide March 23.

PHOTOGRAPHIC

He said Law told him the chemical would be used for photographic purposes.

I warned him about the danger ... and he said he would throw it away as soon as he had finished with it."

After hearing eight witnesses, coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre adjourned the inquest until Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Saanich court house.

Law was a fighter pilot in the Battle of Britain and a former commercial airlines pilot. He worked as an accountant for the Liquor Control Board.

PENSIONERS

Longer Hours Requested On Bus Pass

The $5 bus pass issued to old age pensioners throughout British Columbia should be useable from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., the executive director of Victoria Silver Threads Service said today.

At present the pass can only be used from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and after 7 p.m. weekdays, and all day Sunday.

"It would be of general benefit to the public if these hours were extended," said Mrs. Catherine Horne.

"For one thing, many of our Silver Threads classes begin at 9:30 a.m. For another, our afternoon social functions do not end until 3:30 p.m.

"A third reason is that many young school children travel on the buses soon after 3 p.m. Pensioners would avoid travelling at this time if the pass were extended until 4 p.m."

'COMMONSENSE'

Mrs. Horne said most old-age pensioners are "commonsense folk" and they want to co-operate with the travelling public and those who have to work for a living.

"Many of our members have spoken to me about this, but as yet we have made no official representation to the B.C. welfare department."

The $5 pass issued by the department is available for six months.

"We consider the cost is reasonable," Mrs. Horne said, "but the hours should be changed."

Fatality-Free Year Wins Award For Esquimalt

Esquimalt Municipality has won a special award for getting through 1967 without a fatal accident.

A certificate, presented by Highway Safeway Council general chairman, Norman H. Bell, at a luncheon today, was accepted for Esquimalt by Chief Earle Sarsiat.

The district was among 24 across Canada with populations of 10,000 to 20,000 to receive a citation.

Municipal fire-fighters are being acquainted with new system designed to protect the park from a repetition of the September, 1966, fire which scarred the hillside. At one point in the big fire, two pumper trucks were tied up pumping water from the bottom of the 738-foot hill and there was difficulty in maintaining pressure. Work started last year on a 5,000-gallon water tank at the top and a 3,000-foot six-inch pipeline running to it to provide necessary water and pressure to fight any new fire. Jumbo Ferry In Service On May 16

Premier Bennett this morning announced the province's newest and largest ferry will start service between Horseshoe Bay and Langdale May 16.

He said he would be aboard the Sunshine Coast Queen that day for the two-hour round trip on the 15-year-old former St. Lawrence ice-breaking ferry he bought last year from a Quebec firm.

Together with $606,000 worth of renovations, the ferry cost the province a total of $2,206,000 but was worth $9 million at present construction prices, he told reporters.

185 CARS

Mezzanine car decks have been added to increase capacity to 185 cars. A 212-seat cafeteria has been installed along with observation lounges for 725 passengers.

Mr. Bennett said the Sunshine Coast Queen is "almost 50 per cent larger than our Gulf of Georgia ferries" and would carry two-and-a-half times the combined number of cars and passengers of the two older ferries she replaces on the Sunshine Coast run.

Along with inagurating the ferry's first day of service, Mr. Bennett will be on the Mainland next week for two rallies in the Vancouver South byelection.

ROW SPARKED BY SHIFTING OF BOATHOUSES

A showdown looms between North Saanich and the Capital City Yacht Club over relocation of 25 boathouses at its Tsehum Harbor moorage without consent of council.

The matter has been submitted to the municipal solicitor for legal advice.

The club's action followed a meeting between council and marina operators to discuss amendments to a proposed by-law for controlling marinas in North Saanich harbors.

Previous to the meeting, the club had requested permission to relocate the boathouses, but without waiting for a reply from council went ahead with the project, said Ald. Nell Horth.

"It was an inconsiderate and ill-advised act by the board of directors of the yacht club," said Ald. Horth, "and it may have very unfortunate repercussions for the club as a whole."

SUPREME COURT RULING

Tax Appeal Lost By Lumber Company

The Supreme Court of British Columbia has rejected an appeal against business tax assessment increases by B.C. Forest Products.

The other four were Morrison Motors, Victoria Press, Stewart and Hudson and the Victoria Grain Elevator.

Only two pushed as far as the Supreme Court with the Grain Elevator withdrawing its appeal at the last moment leaving B.C. Forest Products to carry the fight alone.

BCFP was not only challenging the increased assessment but the validity of the business tax bylaw.

The Supreme Court rejected the appeal and upheld the bylaw as valid.

The business tax is based on 6¼ per cent of the rental values of business properties.

This year the increased assessments were valued at $8.9 million as compared with $7.5 million last year, an increase of $1.4 million.

The increases will generate some $90,000 in additional revenues for the city.

"I don't know what we would have done had the appeal been upheld," Mr. Joyce said. "It would have created a great deal of chaos. But it was rejected on both counts. The judge confirmed the assessment and upheld the bylaw."

During the close to four-day hearing the city was represented by city solicitor T. P. O'Grady with Mr. Joyce on hand to provide expert testimony.

Man Jailed Nine Months For Fraud

A 53-year-old man was sentenced to nine months today on four counts of false pretences.

John Rodgers, 711 Johnson, pleaded guilty to tendering fraudulent cheques totalling $463.66 between May 4 and 7 in four Victoria stores.

Court was told he pawned most of the goods received and that all have now been recovered.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said the accused had a record of similar charges dating from 1947.

Company Fined $200 For UIA Infractions

Wescraft Manufacturing Ltd., 2811 Douglas St., pleaded guilty and was fined $50 each on four counts of failing to have unemployment books for employees and failing to send records of earnings of employees to the insurance office.

Ask The Times

Q — What or who organized credit unions in Canada and are they controlled? R.J.B.

A — Credit unions, or the caisse populaire in Quebec, were introduced in 1900 by Alphonse Desjardins, who used a technique developed in Germany by Frederick Raiffeisen during the 1840's. The first credit union was opened in Levis, Que., and the idea spread to the United States by 1909. Legislation governing credit unions is found mainly on provincial statute books, and every province has a Credit Union Act or its equivalent, according to Encyclopedia Canadiana.

HORSEMEN ON THE MOVE

Big Entry Conditioning for Trail Ride?

Is it because a lot of horsemen in these parts are just good-weather riders, or because they're serious trail types?

There's been an increase in horse activity over the past several weeks and Garden City Horsemen's Club is wondering.

If it's because riders are busy conditioning their horses and themselves for the club's seventh annual four-day trail ride at the end of the month, a whacking big entry could be expected.

The club will know for sure this Sunday. Entries for the ride close then, and bull cook Nita Walt and supply boss Ved Donaldson will know how much food and feed to rustle up.

This is the last big job of the organizing committee, headed by Gary Crawford, whose group has been working for the past six weeks on camp sites and trails.

It's been a big job, because new country is going to be ridden on the four days starting May 24.

It will cover about 100 backwoods miles in the Kapoor district north west of Shawnigan Lake, extending to the Eagle Heights area south of Duncan. Some of the ride will follow B.C. Hydro power lines, some will be on logging roads and some on newly-slashed trails.

The dual job of trail boss and camp boss will be handled by a long-time horseman, club member Roy Jewell, who will meet participants at a pre-ride coffee party May 22 at the Western Horsemen's Clubhouse at Saanichton Fair Grounds. Instructions on assembly will be given then, and rules of the ride explained.

Entries must be postmarked before midnight May 12 and should be sent to secretary Shelia Linfield, Garden City Horsemen's Club, P.O. Box 8, Saanichton, B.C., with $20 entry fee.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post).

Arthur Mayse

WASHINGTON—On any other day it would have been news of little importance that traces of a painkilling drug had turned up in the urine analysis of the winner of the seventh race at Churchill Downs. Sometimes this happens in horse racing because the drug is a staple of the trainers' pharmacopoeia.

The man I revised most as a young reporter was a free-lance writer who sometimes dropped in to pass the time of day. He earned a good living at his trade; he was free in income and as he chose, and his way of life impressed me as ideal.

But, while he was generous with encouragement and advice, there were a few things about the life of the free-lance that he neglected to tell me. I was left to learn them for myself, in 15 years of feast and near-famine that I wouldn't have missed for anything.

But I wouldn't want to repeat them either, and this surprises friends not met in a long time who find me behind a newsroom typewriter once more.

It is inconceivable that almost always, they want to know hours before the If I miss the Image was well Freedom of Lord Cavelaire does I took our the navy flying from the American Revolution, can get, or even if he didn't.

It is uncertain for the simplest of reasons. Freedom, in the sense they understand why, oblige me by respecting the obligations of his horse, and to accept a highly uncertain occupation.

First, even for the man or woman whose abilities lie in that direction, creative writing is slave-driving work, physically and mentally. There is also the knowledge, which a free-lance writer must keep firmly suppressed while he's busy making something out of nothing — that his end-product may have no market value whatever.

At Churchill Downs, Colorado recognizes them as a law unto themselves, even the drug in training if you like, butazone, merely limitations on it shows traces of it in his urine.

As late as 1960, believing I have known a good many derided by Journeyman writers. Without although outdated exception, they expected to Venetian way to turn out more stories or was no longer serious than they sold stuff before he would.

He must, as I eventually did, find about two-thirds of what he produced by the sweat of his brow and the weeks later, in his spirit. As for the remainder, which represented weeks or even months of work, he could junk it. Keep it for a souvenir fair you'll note that I have not used the word "inspiration" in this treatise. This is because I have never heard a financially morose, harried professional writer use it. He may speak of a hot idea, and with luck, he will be visited by such a sending perhaps three times in any one year.

These are the bonuses . . . they leap to life full-blown, and the writer merely transcribes them on paper. And what does he do the rest of the time? Relax? Easy?

Not if he hopes to keep the bank account solvent, he doesn't. He brings his craft to bear, he applies self-discipline, and he sets himself to whistle up a wind. And strangely the story that came hard may in the end turn out better than the hotshot that has still failed to find a home.

Did I tell you that his wife, who never knows for how long she must budget, either leaves him or develops nerves of steel?

★

But it wasn't any of these factors that caused me to turn from free-lancing the day after I had sold a story to a top market.

After all every job has its difficulties, and a man takes them in stride.

There were also wonderful times, plenty of them, and occasional high excitements: New York calling, and the knowledge that the serial on which our fortunes hung had scored.

What brought me to this newsroom typewriter, more than any other pressure, was a sort of loneliness.

Creative writing is of necessity a solitary business. More and more I found myself yearning for the very things I has tossed away so gladly.

I wanted to work among other people, and to look forward to weekends and holidays again.

Freedom? Long ago, I quit believing it was merely time unlimited to spend as one pleased. I think that true freedom is something that comes from within.

Racing's Experts Not in Accord

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Charges of tampering reverberated in the turf world today over the disqualification of Dancer's Image from first place in America's most famous horse race, the Kentucky Derby.

"I'm going to get to the bottom of this and I'm going to offer a large financial reward to find the individual or individuals who tampered with my horse," the irate millionaire said. "Anybody would have got to the horse before the race. In what way I cannot say."

Dancer's Image was disqualified as the Derby winner after a post-race urine sample at Churchill Downs was the spot of Phenylbutazone, or a telegraph wires Tuesday that Dancer's Image was involved

HAWES BACKS DEEP WATER DISCHARGE

Shallow Sewer Outfalls Must Go'

By ALAN WHITE

Mayor Fred Hawes of Oak Bay today came out swinging in defence of Greater Victoria's plan for deep water sewage outfalls.

Dumping sewage into shallow local waters — which has been done here for 50 years — is "revolting and a threat to public health," the mayor said.

The mayor, who is chairman of the sewage and waste disposal committee of the Capital Region District Board, said no delays should be tolerated because of the "propaganda of uniformed people."

The time has come when we must stop dumping sewage into shallow enclosed water," he said.

The deep water sewage outfall plan — part of an overall $23.5 million sewer plan for the area — has met strong objections from some sources.

MEETS STANDARD

William Reader, a member of the board from Colwood, has severely criticized the general concept of disposing of waste in the sea.

Mayor Hawes said the outfall system meets standards set down by the Pollution Control Board. If necessary, sewage treatment plants could always be added to the system.

Extensive rock formations and impervious soil make the region unsuitable for any other method of sewage disposal, he said.

"It is fortunate that most of our centres of population in the Greater Victoria area are within reasonable reach of open waters which are subject to significant currents that increase the diffusion and dilution."

Dispersal of sewage far enough from shore will kill bacteria quickly enough to meet pollution standards, he added.

The first steps towards correcting the existing faulty outfall systems will probably be made to the regional district board on May 22.

For the past three months the over-all plan for eliminating major pollution problems in the area has been under intensive study in order to sort out priorities.

Number one on the list at present is the Macaulay Point outfall fed by the northwest trunk system and discharging sewage into the sea at the mouth of Victoria harbor.

Also high on the list is a request from Central Saanich that urgent priority be given to its sewage disposal problems.

Boy Sets Fire To Himself After LSD Bout

A Saanich boy set fire to himself the day after he had taken a dose of LSD, Saanich police said Tuesday.

The 15-year-old boy is in hospital with first, second and third degree burns over 30 per cent of his body.

The ineident occurred April 28 and Saanich police, who were not notified until Friday, have it under "intensive investigation."

BOUGHT FROM GIRL

Det.-Sgt. Robin Stewart said the boy bought a dose of the drug for $7 from a 14-year-old girl. He took the drug Saturday, April 27, and the following day went berserk.

He apparently went into the backyard, poured gasoline over himself and ignited it.

Police said a dressing gown the boy was wearing was completely burned. He suffered burns to his hands, face, back and legs. A relative rushed him to hospital.

The boy is a student at a local high school. His age and that of the girl who sold him the drug underline recent concern of widespread use of drugs among school students.

Det.-Sgt. Stewart would not say if the age of the two youngsters involved was unusually low, but he said, "we have to educate the kids not to take unprescribed drugs.

"They are experimenting with drugs without knowing what they are buying and what they are taking."

MAN CHARGED WITH HAVING STILL

A charge of possession of an illegal still came before magistrate's court today for the first time in several years.

Stanley Ratcliffe, 710 Donovan, pleaded not guilty to possession of "a still suitable for the manufacture of spirits without given notice as required by the Excise Act."

B.C. Bank Opens In Late Summer

The Bank of British Columbia's Victoria branch will open in late summer at the corner of Douglas and Johnson in premises now occupied by a clothing store.

The announcement was made by director Harold B. Elworthy, chairman of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., and bank president A. E. Hail, of Vancouver.

A statement said, "We had hoped to open in Victoria during July when the Vancouver main office will be opened, but premises were not readily available, and hopefully Victoria branch will be ready to open its doors to the public by late summer."

Before the bank takes over, the building will undergo extensive renovations, the statement said.

Originally it was planned to open branches in Vancouver and Victoria early this year, but the bank encountered organizational problems involving staff and securing suitable branch sites.

BAIRD:

No Crackdown On Lord's Day Infringements

Victoria city council has not instructed Chief J. F. Gregory to enforce the Lord's Day Act.

The statement was made this morning by Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the Victoria city finance committee, which last week discussed a letter from the United Church Presbytery protesting the increasing amount of Sunday business.

He was replying to reports in the Colonist that city council had ordered a crackdown.

"We discussed the letter, but all we asked the police chief to do was study the activities of two particular companies — one involved in the sale of paint and the other in the sale of furniture — and report his opinions to us," Ald. Baird said. "The decision was a committee decision not a council decision.

'RIDICULOUS'

"We did not instruct him to start charging people under the Lord's Day Act because such instructions would be ridiculous.

Ald. Baird said he would favor any move to modernize the act to bring it into line with the accepted way of life of modern society.

"In the meantime the act has to be administered with a great deal of common sense," he said. "But I am in favor of a complete review, not with the idea of relaxing some of the restrictions, but just with bringing it into line with modern living.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whose department is responsible for admisistering the act, said he would not agree with tightening policing.

"It has been the policy of this department for the past 16 years to carry on in the face of established usage," Mr. Bonner said. "Any prosecutions under the Lord's Day Act must be approved by this department.

MIDDLE OF ROAD

"It has been our policy, and will continue to be our policy, to see that implementation of the act is not unduly liberalized nor unduly tightened."

Mr. Bonner said any review of the act would have to be made in Ottawa, that statute being federal on creation.

Ald. Baird said he felt an earlier news story had been written and "tongue-in-cheek."

Poison Found In Body Of Yachtsman

A well-known Victoria yachtsman and flyer died of cyanide poisoning, a coroner's inquest was told Tuesday night.

Stuart Law, 49, of 2582 Macdonald Drive, died March 24 at his home. He had a history of heart trouble.

ACTS FAST

Cyanide is a fast-acting poison and Dr. Thornton said a person taking a few grains dies "in a minute or two."

Assistant Vancouver city analyst Eldon Ridout, who conducted tests for Saanich police, said the "usual range" of a lethal dose is about .4 or .5 milligram per cent.

He said he found the deceased's blood contained about .34 milligram per cent cyanide, the stomach about .7 milligram per cent.

Pharmacist Edmond Bedford of Dalby's Pharmacy, 3828 Cadboro Bay Rd., told the inquest he sold Law 130 grams of liquid cyanide March 16, and a further 130 grams of dry cyanide March 23.

The Supreme Court of British Columbia has rejected an appeal against business tax assessment increases by B.C. Forest Products.

NEW LACROSSE CIRCUIT . . .

Professionals Add Socialistic Touch

. . . STARTS TONIGHT

The four-team Western Division of the National Lacrosse Association holds its curtain-raiser with Victoria Shamrocks taking on the Portland Adanacs, starting at 8 p.m.

Each club — the others are Vancouver Carls and New Westminster Salmonbellies — plays 19 home games and 19 away.

Tonight's game is expected to draw a big crowd to watch the Shamrocks, who finished second in the old Inter-City league last year before losing to league champions Vancouver in the finals.

Shamrocks had finished last in the Inter-City League in the previous season, but came back strongly in 1967 behind rookie coach Dave Unwin, who was named coach of the year, and sophomore Ranjit Dillon.

Dillon is back for another season after winning the scoring title with 24 goals and 71 assists. He was named the league's most valuable player and chosen to the all-star team on defence.

Pro lacrosse started its debut when Vancouver switched its home games to the new $6,000,000 Pacific Coliseum, and the former Coquitlam team was moved to Portland, where the club plays in a modern $5,000,000 building.

Although lacrosse has gone big-time in scope, and become a national sport that includes Eastern Division teams in Detroit, Toronto, Montreal and is controlled by Red Wings hockey boss Bruce Norris.

Those in the western division play on a part-time basis and have agreed to a profit-sharing arrangement.

"You could call it a mild form of socialism," said Western Division commissioner Tom English, an associate professor of law at University of British Columbia.

In the Eastern Division, however, several players are getting paid. Lacrosse there has attracted such highly-paid hockey stars as John Ferguson of the Montral Canadiens, Bob Pulford of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Doug Favell of the Philadelphia Flyers, Ken Hodge and Gerry Cheevers of the Boston Bruins.

Even though western players are not on a fixed salary, the game has drawn such Western Hockey League men as Jack Bionda, Tommy McVie and Larry McNabb.

Some hockey players, however, are having trouble getting permission to play from their winter bosses. The Boston Bruins have told Hodge and Cheevers they don't want them to play.

But NHL teams in Canada have shown a more liberal attitude. Toronto Maple Leafs control the Toronto lacrosse franchise and there is a similar hockey link in Montreal. Detroit also has a hockey tie-in.

With hockey rinks not fully utilized during the summer, lacrosse is viewed as a potential good teneant. If successful, expansion is considered for other major centres.

Now the Blues Need Dash of Firepower To Keep Morale Hot

ST. LOUIS (CP)—Unfortunately for coach Scotty Bowman and his St. Louis Blues, the Stanley Cup cannot be won on moral victories.

The Blues, decided underdogs, watched their bubble burst for the second game in a row Tuesday night when Montreal Canadiens beat them 1-0 to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven final.

As in last Sunday's opener, a Montreal rookie supplied all the punch necessary to knock out the Blues.

Rookie defenceman Serge Savard chose Tuesday night to sink his first National Hockey League playoff goal behind veteran netminder Glenn Hall at 2:17 of the third period and break up what had been a tight, hard-fought game.

Savard was doing duty as a penalty-killer along with veteran ring winger Claude Provost at the time. Team-mate Dick Duff had been penalized just 23 seconds before by referee John Ashley for elbowing Dickie Moore of St. Louis.

Provost skated deep into St. Louis territory and when a defender was generous enough to keep the puck, the Montreal forward shoved it across the goal mouth.

St. Louis defenceman Jim Roberts trapped the puck in his skates, then found himself and the puck pushed up against Hall by the oncoming Savard.

The momentum crashed Roberts into Hall, knocking the goaltender to his knees and eventually into the net with the sliding puck. From then on, the Canadiens were satisfied to check the attacking Blues into the ice and keep them off balance.

Only Three Saves in Final Frame

They were so successful that goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley was called on to make only three stops in the final 20 minutes.

Now, Bowman, and his tired crew are forced to move to Montreal for Thursday night's third game at 8 p.m. EDT and a fourth Saturday at 3 p.m. EDT.

The CBC will televise both games nationally with CBS giving the Saturday game national exposure in the United States.

"He was a great junior," Blake said of Savard, who was being used in a penalty-killing role because left winger Gilles Tremblay was left in Montreal recovering from a nose injury.

Savard saw limited action in the Boston and Chicago series, although he was used late in the season when regulars Terry Harper and Ted Harris were out with injuries.

Blues Went Well, Habs Got Break

The young defenceman said that Roberts had the puck between his skates when he barged in to score his goal.

"I just pushed his skates. He fell down and the puck slid in," Savard said.

"Hall was on his knees and the puck went through about a six-inch hole. Provost was in the corner and put the puck right in front of the net and Jim was just too close to the goal. There was no mistake there (by Roberts)."

Blake said it was the toughest two games his team had played in the playoffs so far.

"We got the break," he said. "That's the only way to put it."

"They played a hell of a game too, remember."

Bowman agreed with Blake on that point and still appeared unconcerned about his team's going to Montreal two games down.

"But they're not running us out of the rink, we are making them work for it. We've got them humping."

The St. Louis coach said the Canadiens are not the same crew without Beliveau, who has been out of action since the first period of the opener with an ankle injury. His return is uncertain.

Even the pleas of a record crowd of 16,177 and its chanting and singing were not enough to get the Blues a goal.

Worsley, the 39-year-old veteran, registered his fourth playoff shutout in stopping all 19 shots the Blues could muster at him. Hall was great on 35 of the 36 the Canadiens had.

Pickle-Juice Pitcher Too Sweet for Cards

By Associated Press

Nolan Ryan might soak his pitching hand in pickle juice, but after several whiffs, the St. Louis Cardinals were comparing him to Sandy Koufax and his odorless ice water.

The 21-year-old hurler zipped his fast ball by the National League-leading Cardinals for eight strikeouts and a three-hitter Tuesday night and the New York Mets had themselves a 4-1 victory.

"He's faster than Koufax and he's the fastest I've seen in the major leagues," marvelled the Cardinals' Mike Shannon, although he'd rather face Ryan than Koufax "because Koufax had the tougher curve."

In remaining National League games, Atlanta Braves edged Pittsburgh 2-1 and Houston bombed Juan Marichal and San Francisco 7-1 at night. Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 5-2.

Ryan, who shut out Philadelphia and struck out 10 in his last outing, was not even at his best against the Cardinals as he raised his record to 3-2.

"I didn't have my best fast ball, but I had pretty good control," the young rookie said.

Ryan fell behind in the third when Bobby Tolan singled in the St. Louis run, but he was in command the rest of the way. Art Shamsky gave him runs he needed in the seventh against Nelson Briles, 4-2, when he followed Dave Boswell's single with his first home run of the season for a 2-1 lead.

BREAKS TIE

Mike Ryan, Phillies' catcher, who hasn't hit better than .214 in 2½ seasons in the majors, lined a tie-breaking two-run triple out of the reach of diving outfielder Pete Rose in the seventh inning in Philadelphia's triumph.

Felix Milan singled home the winning run in the ninth inning for Atlanta, beating the Pirates' Al McBean, who had a no-hitter for 6 2-3 innings and only wound up with his second loss against four victories.

Don Wilson scattered seven hits and stroked a two-run single to cap a four-run seventh inning that knocked out Juan Marichal in Houston's victory. Wilson evened his record at 2-2, although Mike Cuellar had to get the last two outs.

STREAK EXTTENDED

In the American League, Jose Santiago hurled the Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 victory over Washington, extending his regular season winning streak — begun last year—to 12 games.

Joe Torlen, meanwhile, earned his first triumph of the season as the Chicago White Sox trimmed California 6-4 with the help of a grand-slam homer by Tom McCraw.

Cleveland's streaking Indians buried the Yankees 8-0, Detroit edged Baltimore 2-1 and Minnesota shaded Oakland 2-1 in other A.L. games.

Davis Cup Format Declared 'Unfair'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Davis Cup tennis competition is one-sided and unfair because of the format which permits the champion to sit out most of the tournament, Gardner Mulloy said today.

"It's easy to understand why Australia has dominated the Cup in recent years," the 54-year-old international veteran from Miami added.

"All the other countries knock themselves out playing each other all summer on clay surface, and Australia just waits down there to gobble up the survivor on grass.

"I think the only thing to do is eliminate the Challenge Round, and make the cup holder go through the eliminations just as other countries must."

Mulloy, a one-time Davis Cupper, is in New York with other tennis personalities to introduce a revolutionary new racket made of aluminum.

Professionals Add Socialistic Touch

. . . STARTS TONIGHT

The four-team Western Division of the National Lacrosse Association holds its curtain-raiser with Victoria Shamrocks taking on the Portland Adanacs, starting at 8 p.m.

Each club — the others are Vancouver Carls and New Westminster Salmonbellies — plays 19 home games and 19 away.

Tonight's game is expected to draw a big crowd to watch the Shamrocks, who finished second in the old Inter-City league last year before losing to league champions Vancouver in the finals.

Shamrocks had finished last in the Inter-City League in the previous season, but came back strongly in 1967 behind rookie coach Dave Unwin, who was named coach of the year, and sophomore Ranjit Dillon.

Dillon is back for another season after winning the scoring title with 24 goals and 71 assists. He was named the league's most valuable player and chosen to the all-star team on defence.

Pro lacrosse started its debut when Vancouver switched its home games to the new $6,000,000 Pacific Coliseum, and the former Coquitlam team was moved to Portland, where the club plays in a modern $5,000,000 building.

Although lacrosse has gone big-time in scope, and become a national sport that includes Eastern Division teams in Detroit, Toronto, Montreal and is controlled by Red Wings hockey boss Bruce Norris.

Those in the western division play on a part-time basis and have agreed to a profit-sharing arrangement.

"You could call it a mild form of socialism," said Western Division commissioner Tom English, an associate professor of law at University of British Columbia.

In the Eastern Division, however, several players are getting paid. Lacrosse there has attracted such highly-paid hockey stars as John Ferguson of the Montral Canadiens, Bob Pulford of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Doug Favell of the Philadelphia Flyers, Ken Hodge and Gerry Cheevers of the Boston Bruins.

Even though western players are not on a fixed salary, the game has drawn such Western Hockey League men as Jack Bionda, Tommy McVie and Larry McNabb.

Some hockey players, however, are having trouble getting permission to play from their winter bosses. The Boston Bruins have told Hodge and Cheevers they don't want them to play.

But NHL teams in Canada have shown a more liberal attitude. Toronto Maple Leafs control the Toronto lacrosse franchise and there is a similar hockey link in Montreal. Detroit also has a hockey tie-in.

With hockey rinks not fully utilized during the summer, lacrosse is viewed as a potential good teneant. If successful, expansion is considered for other major centres.

Now the Blues Need Dash of Firepower To Keep Morale Hot

ST. LOUIS (CP)—Unfortunately for coach Scotty Bowman and his St. Louis Blues, the Stanley Cup cannot be won on moral victories.

The Blues, decided underdogs, watched their bubble burst for the second game in a row Tuesday night when Montreal Canadiens beat them 1-0 to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven final.

As in last Sunday's opener, a Montreal rookie supplied all the punch necessary to knock out the Blues.

Rookie defenceman Serge Savard chose Tuesday night to sink his first National Hockey League playoff goal behind veteran netminder Glenn Hall at 2:17 of the third period and break up what had been a tight, hard-fought game.

Davis Cup Format Declared 'Unfair'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Davis Cup tennis competition is one-sided and unfair because of the format which permits the champion to sit out most of the tournament, Gardner Mulloy said today.

"It's easy to understand why Australia has dominated the Cup in recent years," the 54-year-old international veteran from Miami added.

"All the other countries knock themselves out playing each other all summer on clay surface, and Australia just waits down there to gobble up the survivor on grass.

"I think the only thing to do is eliminate the Challenge Round, and make the cup holder go through the eliminations just as other countries must."

Mulloy, a one-time Davis Cupper, is in New York with other tennis personalities to introduce a revolutionary new racket made of aluminum.

Professionals Add Socialistic Touch

. . . STARTS TONIGHT

RANJIT DILLON
. . . scoring leader

The four-team Western Division of the National Lacrosse Association holds its curtain-raiser with Victoria Shamrocks taking on the Portland Adanacs, starting at 8 p.m.

Each club — the others are Vancouver Carls and New Westminster Salmonbellies — plays 19 home games and 19 away.

Tonight's game is expected to draw a big crowd to watch the Shamrocks, who finished second in the old Inter-City league last year before losing to league champions Vancouver in the finals.

Shamrocks had finished last in the Inter-City League in the previous season, but came back strongly in 1967 behind rookie coach Dave Unwin, who was named coach of the year, and sophomore Ranjit Dillon.

Dillon is back for another season after winning the scoring title with 24 goals and 71 assists. He was named the league's most valuable player and chosen to the all-star team on defence.

Pro lacrosse started its debut when Vancouver switched its home games to the new $6,000,000 Pacific Coliseum, and the former Coquitlam team was moved to Portland, where the club plays in a modern $5,000,000 building.

Although lacrosse has gone big-time in scope, and become a national sport that includes Eastern Division teams in Detroit, Toronto, Montreal and is controlled by Red Wings hockey boss Bruce Norris.

Those in the western division play on a part-time basis and have agreed to a profit-sharing arrangement.

"You could call it a mild form of socialism," said Western Division commissioner Tom English, an associate professor of law at University of British Columbia.

In the Eastern Division, however, several players are getting paid. Lacrosse there has attracted such highly-paid hockey stars as John Ferguson of the Montral Canadiens, Bob Pulford of the Toronto Maple Leafs, Doug Favell of the Philadelphia Flyers, Ken Hodge and Gerry Cheevers of the Boston Bruins.

Even though western players are not on a fixed salary, the game has drawn such Western Hockey League men as Jack Bionda, Tommy McVie and Larry McNabb.

Some hockey players, however, are having trouble getting permission to play from their winter bosses. The Boston Bruins have told Hodge and Cheevers they don't want them to play.

But NHL teams in Canada have shown a more liberal attitude. Toronto Maple Leafs control the Toronto lacrosse franchise and there is a similar hockey link in Montreal. Detroit also has a hockey tie-in.

With hockey rinks not fully utilized during the summer, lacrosse is viewed as a potential good teneant. If successful, expansion is considered for other major centres.

Now the Blues Need Dash of Firepower To Keep Morale Hot

ST. LOUIS (CP)—Unfortunately for coach Scotty Bowman and his St. Louis Blues, the Stanley Cup cannot be won on moral victories.

The Blues, decided underdogs, watched their bubble burst for the second game in a row Tuesday night when Montreal Canadiens beat them 1-0 to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven final.

As in last Sunday's opener, a Montreal rookie supplied all the punch necessary to knock out the Blues.

Rookie defenceman Serge Savard chose Tuesday night to sink his first National Hockey League playoff goal behind veteran netminder Glenn Hall at 2:17 of the third period and break up what had been a tight, hard-fought game.

Savard was doing duty as a penalty-killer along with veteran ring winger Claude Provost at the time. Team-mate Dick Duff had been penalized just 23 seconds before by referee John Ashley for elbowing Dickie Moore of St. Louis.

Provost skated deep into St. Louis territory and when a defender was generous enough to keep the puck, the Montreal forward shoved it across the goal mouth.

St. Louis defenceman Jim Roberts trapped the puck in his skates, then found himself and the puck pushed up against Hall by the oncoming Savard.

The momentum crashed Roberts into Hall, knocking the goaltender to his knees and eventually into the net with the sliding puck. From then on, the Canadiens were satisfied to check the attacking Blues into the ice and keep them off balance.

Only Three Saves in Final Frame

They were so successful that goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley was called on to make only three stops in the final 20 minutes.

Now, Bowman, and his tired crew are forced to move to Montreal for Thursday night's third game at 8 p.m. EDT and a fourth Saturday at 3 p.m. EDT.

The CBC will televise both games nationally with CBS giving the Saturday game national exposure in the United States.

"He was a great junior," Blake said of Savard, who was being used in a penalty-killing role because left winger Gilles Tremblay was left in Montreal recovering from a nose injury.

Savard saw limited action in the Boston and Chicago series, although he was used late in the season when regulars Terry Harper and Ted Harris were out with injuries.

Blues Went Well, Habs Got Break

The young defenceman said that Roberts had the puck between his skates when he barged in to score his goal.

"I just pushed his skates. He fell down and the puck slid in," Savard said.

"Hall was on his knees and the puck went through about a six-inch hole. Provost was in the corner and put the puck right in front of the net and Jim was just too close to the goal. There was no mistake there (by Roberts)."

Blake said it was the toughest two games his team had played in the playoffs so far.

"We got the break," he said. "That's the only way to put it."

"They played a hell of a game too, remember."

Bowman agreed with Blake on that point and still appeared unconcerned about his team's going to Montreal two games down.

"But they're not running us out of the rink, we are making them work for it. We've got them humping."

The St. Louis coach said the Canadiens are not the same crew without Beliveau, who has been out of action since the first period of the opener with an ankle injury. His return is uncertain.

Even the pleas of a record crowd of 16,177 and its chanting and singing were not enough to get the Blues a goal.

Worsley, the 39-year-old veteran, registered his fourth playoff shutout in stopping all 19 shots the Blues could muster at him. Hall was great on 35 of the 36 the Canadiens had.

Four errors in the fifth inning and two in the sixth gave Century Inn a come-from-behind 11-8 win.

Pickle-Juice Pitcher Too Sweet for Cards

By Associated Press

Nolan Ryan might soak his pitching hand in pickle juice, but after several whiffs, the St. Louis Cardinals were comparing him to Sandy Koufax and his odorless ice water.

The 21-year-old hurler zipped his fast ball by the National League-leading Cardinals for eight strikeouts and a three-hitter Tuesday night and the New York Mets had themselves a 4-1 victory.

"He's faster than Koufax and he's the fastest I've seen in the major leagues," marvelled the Cardinals' Mike Shannon, although he'd rather face Ryan than Koufax "because Koufax had the tougher curve."

In remaining National League games, Atlanta Braves edged Pittsburgh 2-1 and Houston bombed Juan Marichal and San Francisco 7-1 at night. Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 5-2.

Ryan, who shut out Philadelphia and struck out 10 in his last outing, was not even at his best against the Cardinals as he raised his record to 3-2.

"I didn't have my best fast ball, but I had pretty good control," the young rookie said.

Ryan fell behind in the third when Bobby Tolan singled in the St. Louis run, but he was in command the rest of the way. Art Shamsky gave him runs he needed in the seventh against Nelson Briles, 4-2, when he followed Dave Boswell's single with his first home run of the season for a 2-1 lead.

BREAKS TIE

Mike Ryan, Phillies' catcher, who hasn't hit better than .214 in 2½ seasons in the majors, lined a tie-breaking two-run triple out of the reach of diving outfielder Pete Rose in the seventh inning in Philadelphia's triumph.

Felix Milan singled home the winning run in the ninth inning for Atlanta, beating the Pirates' Al McBean, who had a no-hitter for 6 2-3 innings and only wound up with his second loss against four victories.

Don Wilson scattered seven hits and stroked a two-run single to cap a four-run seventh inning that knocked out Juan Marichal in Houston's victory. Wilson evened his record at 2-2, although Mike Cuellar had to get the last two outs.

STREAK EXTTENDED

In the American League, Jose Santiago hurled the Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 victory over Washington, extending his regular season winning streak — begun last year—to 12 games.

Joe Torien, meanwhile, earned his first triumph of the season as the Chicago White Sox trimmed California 6-4 with the help of a grand-slam homer by Tom McCraw.

Cleveland's streaking Indians buried the Yankees 8-0, Detroit edged Baltimore 2-1 and Minnesota shaded Oakland 2-1 in other A.L. games.

(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON—On any other day it would have been news of little interest that lingering traces of a painkilling drug had turned up in the urine analysis of the winner of the seventh race at Churchill Downs. Sometimes this happens in horse racing because drugs that soothe are a staple of the trainers' profession. Thoroughbreds are too big for the frail legs they were born with, and give them an awful pounding on the race tracks.

But because this seventh race at Churchill Downs was the 94th Kentucky Derby, it came over the telegraph wires Tuesday like continuing thunderclaps that Dancer's Image was involved in a drugging and was being disqualified as the Derby winner. The track chemists had found the spoor of Phenylbutazone or a derivative in the winner's urine sample.

Ha! Scandal! Fix!

For the uninitiated, these were certain to be the first reactions. The Derby had been won by dark plot. A hopped-up horse, incited and quickened by some cruel dosage had come all the way from last place to beat out the favorite and win millions for his owner and friends who were in on the betting coup.

That such are not the facts will hardly save horse racing from its newest black eye or persuade the cynics that the sport is otherwise than dishonest. Explanations are never completely satisfactory, nor do they ever catch up with suspicion. Somebody once said that Rumor is halfway around the world before Truth gets its boots on.

Phenylbutazone. Even the name seems to connote the hypodermic needle put to evil use. The fact is, the veterinarians and medical profession will testify, it is a healing drug, not a stimulant. It will not make an ailing horse, or even a well one, run a fraction of a second faster or give him one extra inch endurance beyond his normal capacity. It will make him run more comfortably.

It is inconceivable that Dancer's Image's stable expected to get away with doping up its good colt for the Derby, in violation of the prohibition against the use of phenylbutazone 48 hours before the race. The swollen ankle ailment of Dancer's Image was well known. It was publicly announced by trainer Lou Cavalaris that fluid had been taken from both rear ankles the week before the race. Certainly it was known the colt would come under close scrutiny by the chemists if he won the race, or even if he didn't.

It is uncontested that traces of the drug were found after the race. It is also emphasized by veterinarians that some horses shake off the drug quicker than others. A trainer respecting the 48-hour limit on the use of the butazone derivatives could be done in by the special chemical processes of his horse and be a big loser in taking his calculated risk that all would be negative at test time.

In Versailles, Ky., Tuesday, Dr. William McGee, former president of the 1000-member American Association of Equine Practitioners, pointed out that Kentucky outlawed butazone and its derivatives only reluctantly in 1961. "We went along only because of the pressure put on us by the National Association of Racing Commissions. We did not feel butazone was a harmful drug," he said.

At Colorado race tracks, butazone drugs are not illegal. Colorado recognizes them as healing drugs, but to insure consistency the state demands that trainers notify the commission when the drug is being used. Actually, no state racing commission has a law spelling out the illegality of butazone, merely limitations on its use. The admonition is: Use the drug in training if you like, but don't run your horse if he shows traces of it in his urine.

As late as 1960, butazolidin, a trade-name drug that is a derivative of butazone, was completely legal in Kentucky, although outlawed in New York. This was the year that Venetian Way won the Derby, and Red Smith reported that "It was no secret that Venetian Way was getting his slug of the stuff before he won the Derby by three lengths."

The exact ailment that induced Venetian Way's trainer to dose him with butazolidin is a bit vague in memory but the effectiveness of the drug was apparent. Certainly it made the colt run more comfortably in the Derby than he did three weeks later at Pimlico, where the drug was forbidden. Venetian Way finished fifth in the Preakness. Three weeks after that, he was beaten five lengths in the Belmont Stakes, unsupported by the healing drug that was forbidden in New York.

There is some evidence that the poor horse does not get a fair shake in the use of the soothing drugs of the type that physicians readily prescribe for athletes with, for example, pulled muscles or arthritis. Dr. McGee calls butazone "an analgesic, comparable to an aspirin for relieving pain and inflammation."

The baseball player with an ailing arm, like Sandy Koufax had, or arthritic knees that have overtaken Mickey Mantle, gets a shot of cortisone, a steroid drug likened to butazone, and pitches a shutout or hits a winning homer and is hailed as a hero. Nobody demands a urine test. A three-year-old colt wins the Kentucky Derby with the soothing help of a similar drug and gets his name forever posted in infamy.

DANCER'S IMAGE

DERBY WINNER'S DISQUALIFICATION . . . . . ROCKS TURF WORLD

Dancer's Owner Fears Tampering

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Charges of tampering reverberated in the turf world today over the disqualification of Dancer's Image from first place in America's most famous horse race, the Kentucky Derby.

"I'm going to get to the bottom of this and I'm going to offer a large financial reward to find the individual or individuals who tampered with my horse," the Boston sportsman said. "Anybody could have got to the horse before the race."

In what may become the most controversial incident in American thoroughbred history, Dancer's Image was disqualified and placed last by the Churchill Downs stewards Tuesday. This was three days after Dancer's Image, the 7-2 second choice, finished first in the Derby by 1½ lengths over the favored Forward Pass.

BECAUSE OF DRUG

They said in a statement: "The chemist for the Kentucky state racing commission has reported that the analysis of the urine sample . . . contained phenylbutazone and-or a derivative thereof."

Trainer Lou Cavalaris said he was stunned by the announcement. "Nothing like this has ever happened to me." Later in an interview over radio station CFRB in Toronto, Cavalaris denied he or any member of his staff administered phenylbutazone after the prescribed 48-hour ban before the Derby.

He said Dancer's Image was given the drug on Sunday, five days before the Derby, but not thereafter. He said he and any of his crew would take lie-detector tests "anywhere and anytime the Kentucky racing officials want us." He said it was possible someone might have slipped into the horse's stall and administered the drug.

The drug, often called butazolidin, is used for the suppression of pain, but has been barred at Kentucky and other tracks since 1962.

Who administered the drug? When was it given? Why?

Churchill Downs, which announced the disqualification, declined to go beyond its statement.

"I have no idea who the guilty party is," said Wathen Knebelkamp, president of the Downs. "We consider this a tragic misfortune."

It was the 94th running of the famed Triple Crown classic and its first disqualification.

"The track is continuing its investigation," Knebelkamp continued. "The facts should come out at a hearing before the commissioners." The hearing is scheduled for Monday.

Regardless of the outcome, there will be no change for the bettors. Under the rules of racing the wagering on the race is not affected.

Dancer's Image had been under treatment for sore legs but, said Fuller "I know my trainer, Lou Cavalaris, wouldn't give any medication he shouldn't have. I am convinced he is innocent."

Fuller expanded his comments when he returned to Boston. He said if Cavalaris is suspended Dancer's Image would not run in the Preakness at Pimlico May 18 or in the Belmont Stakes in New York June 1.

"They are a team," Fuller said. "My horse is not going to race without him."

"I am absolutely amazed at the way this thing was handled," he went on. "First they told us we would have a hearing next Monday, but then they just went ahead and announced all the changes."

Knebelkamp expressed surprise after Fuller's claim that "anybody could have gotten to the horse before the race." Knebelkamp said the track posted guards outside each barn and "I think we have better security than at many tracks."

Jockey Bobby Ussery, who thought he had been the first in 66 years to ride consecutive Derby winners, said, "This won't set me back any. I'll lose the money, but I'll still go on record as winning the Derby."

"What people must understand is the drug is not a stimulant," the native of Vian, Okla., told Dave Spitzer, sports writer for the Daily Oklahoman in Oklahoma City. "It doesn't make the horse run faster, it's just a pain killer."

Mrs. Gene Markey, owner of Forward Pass, said she was "awfully sorry for Mr. Fuller. It's such an awful thing, to go through the ecstasy of winning and then have it taken away from you. But I'm still glad we've won it. I can't help but be glad."

Racing's Experts Not in Agreement

Phenylbutazone, the drug found in Dancer's Image's system which resulted in his disqualification as the Kentucky Derby winner, is banned at almost every track. But racing men are far from being in agreement about the banning. Earl Ruby, sports editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, gives the background in this column.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky was the last state to ban the use of phenylbutazone, and it did it "grudgingly" in March, 1962, for the sake of uniformity.

It was use of this medication on Dancer's Image before the Kentucky Derby which caused the winner's disqualification Tuesday.

"We don't want to ban the use of this medication," William H. May, the chairman of the Kentucky Racing Commission, told fellow members of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners at their 1962 annual meeting in Los Angeles.

"We believe that you are wrong and that we are right."

May happened to be back in Los Angeles when he learned of the disqualification.

"I think it is an outrage to use the word 'doped' or 'drugged' in reference to this medication," he said. "We know that it is not a stimulant, and it isn't a depressant. It acts on a horse about like aspirin does on a human. It relieves aches and pains in the joints. Ice water can be more harmful, actually."

Before May capitulated to the other commissioners in 1962, Robert Vessiny, a leader among official racing chemists, was asked whether he believed phenylbutazone could stimulate a horse to run faster than his normal ability. He said he didn't know.

May told the commissioners: "We are abandoning our position with considerable reluctance, and we are not happy about it. But we are going along with you to be on the team—so long as the team continues to study the problem in a fair-minded way.

"My statement," he said, "represents less than two per cent of the horse industry. At least 98 per cent of our people prefer to go on the way they are. We hope that at some later date you all will come around to our viewpoint."

Betting Not Affected By a Disqualification

NEW YORK (AP) — The main reason pari-mutuel bets are not affected when a winning horse is disqualified and another is named the victor is the absence of records or proof that a bettor held a valid ticket.

Records show that $2,350,470 was bet on the 1968 Derby. That could mean 1,175,235 tickets were sold at $2 each, some of which were cashed in but the majority torn up by the losing holders. It would be impossible to identify the purchasers of win tickets on Forward Pass.

Bookmakers always have paid off on the horse named as the winner when the official sign is lighted on the tote board. One New York bookmaker said Tuesday: "I pay only on Dancer's Image. I have forgotten about the race."

About office pools and television party bets? One group settled it this way. Unable to reach a satisfying decision, the pot was put in escrow and will be spent Friday afternoon for Scotch. The members of the group expect to debate the situation Friday evening.

He added that, by their World Cup victories in 1968 and 1967 and at the Winter Olympics at Grenoble, France, last February, "they will still remain an example for all young people."

Miss Greene clinched her World Cup a month ago in the season's windup Heavenly Valley meet at South Lake Tahoe, Calif. Killy had won his earlier.

A native of Ottawa, Miss Greene was the giant slalom gold medallist at the Grenoble Olympics. She won a silver in the slalom. Killy won the giant slalom, slalom and downhill at the Olympics.

Dortmund, Leicester To Tackle Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)— Vancouver Royals of the North American Soccer League have made arrangements to play English and German first division teams at Empire Stadium this summer.

General manager John Pickburn announced the Borussia Club of Dortmund, Germany, is to play in Vancouver on June 19 while Leicester City of England will meet the Royals July 31.

Two other leading British clubs also will play in Vancouver June 1. The B.C. Soccer Commission announced today that Manchester City and Scottish Cup champion Dunfermline will meet in Empire Stadium.

The game will be one of four the clubs will play in North America.

Pickburn said final details have yet to be completed but that both games appear firm.

Borussia won the German championship in 1956, 1957 and 1963 as well as winning the German Challenge Cup in 1966. The team has seven international players, three of them having participated in the 1966 World Cup competition.

Leicester City plans a three-game tour of North America, also playing Toronto Falcons and Atlanta Chiefs of the NASL.

ENGLISH CUP FINAL TELEVISED

The Football Association Cup final, glamor competition of English soccer, will be televised live via satellite from Wembley Stadium, London, May 18 to the full CBC network beginning at 6:45 a.m. PDT.

The game will be repeated on the CBC-TV network May 19.

West Bromwich Albion, from the Midlands, will meet Everton, a team from Liverpool for this 97th Cup final.

MIKE SPENCE CRASH VICTIM . . . . . . DRIVING TURBINE CAR

British Driver Killed in 500 Warmup

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — British Grand Prix Driver Mike Spence died Tuesday after his turbine powered Lotus crashed against a wall at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Spence, 31, of Maidenhead, England, was injured in a practice run for the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30 and died in hospital 4½ hours after the crash.

He was a member of the Lotus team which drives cars built by Colin Chapman of England. Spence was driving a car assigned to another driver when it slammed into the wall on the speedway's No. 1 turn. He suffered multiple head injuries and never regained consciousness.

Spence's car contained a Canadian-built turbine engine. Five of the nine turbine cars vying among the 77 seeking positions in the May 30 race have engines built by the Pratt and Whitney subsidiary of United Aircraft of Canada Ltd. of Montreal.

Meanwhile, Carroll Shelby of Los Angeles, international auto racer and builder, withdrew his three turbine-powered cars from the 500. Shelby said he feels it is impossible at present to make a turbine-powered race car competitive "with a reasonable degree of safety and reliability."

A few hours before the crash, Spence ran the second fastest lap in the Speedway's history—169.555 miles an hour.

He was the 34th driver killed at the 59-year-old Speedway and the second Lotus team member killed this year. Jim Clark of Scotland was killed April 7 in a crash at Hockenheim, Germany.

Spence was a veteran of 10 years of Grand Prix driving but he had only one Grand Prix victory to his credit. He won the South African Grand Prix in 1968.

Students Threatened With Legal Action for Taking Papers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Columbia University student demonstrators faced legal action today unless they returned official and private papers taken from offices of the school's president and vice-president during a sit-in two weeks ago.

President Grayson Kirk and vice-president and provost David B. Truman sent a telegram to student strikers at the university warning of "criminal and civil" proceedings if the papers were published or not returned promptly.

The documents allegedly were stolen by students who occupied Kirk's and Truman's offices in the main Columbia administration building at the start of the university's worst disturbance April 23.

Shouts of "tear it up, tear it up" were heard when the telegram was read at a meeting of several hundred students Tuesday night.

The 28-acre Columbia Campus had its calmest day Tuesday since troubles began over student demands that work be stopped on a new gymnasium under construction on public park land facing the neighboring Harlem district and that the university end its connection with a Pentagon research project.

Mushrooming student protests and a five-building sit-in that resulted in more than 700 police arrests and scores of injuries last week have led to cancellation of formal classes and final examination in the university's all-male undergraduate branch, Columbia College. But militant students continued their campaign for a strike throughout the 27,500-student university.

A five-man commission appointed by the faculty and headed by Archibald Cox, a Harvard University law professor and former U.S. solicitor general, began hearings into the Columbia student turmoil Tuesday.

Three-Nation Agreement On Water Use Proposed

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — An international pact between the United States, Canada and Mexico aimed at water development resources has been proposed by Sen. Frank E. Moss (D-Utah).

Sen. Moss, addressing a seminar on continental use of Arctic flowing waters, suggested it should be a firm national policy by all three nations not to undertake major resources development projects without considering possible impact on the other two countries.

Sen. Moss, a member of the senate interior and insular affairs committee, said he was not proposing a new international treaty that would call for creating a new bureaucracy.

But he said the United States and its neighbors "can and should decide unilaterally not to embark on any national program which could become a barrier to eventual co-operation in a tri-national program."

Sen. Moss said an imaginative solution to international water development problems is the North American water and power alliance concept.

This project calls for spending $100,000,000,000 over a 25-year period to move water from Canada to Mexico and points in between. The senator said the basic plan may have critical faults, but he said the idea has appeal.

Sen. Moss also warned the United States will face decline as a world power and as a desirable place to live unless immediate steps are taken to initiate programs of natural resource care.

SIU Return Approved

TORONTO (CP) — An executive decision to readmit the Seafarers' International Union into the Canadian Labor Congress was endorsed by the CLC convention Monday after a long and bitter wrangle. On a show of hands, the 2,000 delegates voted about 3 to 1 in favor of a committee report that rejected a resolution from the Canadian Maritime Union calling for fresh expulsion of the SIU.

RE-ELECTED president today of the 1.6 million member United Auto Workers Union was Walter P. Reuther. He was the only one nominated by 3,000 delegates in convention at Atlantic City, N.J.

LABOR DELEGATES CHEER DECISION

CLC Factions Patch Up Split

By BEN WARD

TORONTO (CP) — A split between executives of the Canadian Labor Congress and the rebellious Quebec Federation of Labor was patched up Tuesday, cancelling a major French-English debate that had been scheduled for the CLC convention.

The 2,000 delegates broke into wild cheering when Donald MacDonald, acting CLC president, announced "a mutually satisfactory resolution of the issues between us that were the cause of such great concern."

QFL President Louis Laberge then formally withdrew a resolution the QFL placed before the convention Monday asking delegates to support the federation in its fight against the CLC executive. The move came just three hours before the debate was to open.

The issue centred on a controversial agreement QFL leaders made two months ago with the Confederation of National Trade Unions, bitter foe of CLC unions in Quebec.

Mr. MacDonald said a pact had been worked out for a joint approach to the CNTU by the two labor parties. Informants said that this would include a rewriting of the previous agreement which ran into stiff opposition from CLC international and national unions.

Mr. Laberge told reporters later the the settlement was a victory for the QFL's argument that it had the constitutional power to enter into negotiations with the CNTU.

The CLC-QFL deal was worked out at a closed meeting Monday night that informants said lasted until the early hours Tuesday. It was submitted to an emergency meeting of Quebec delegates for approval Tuesday

Still up in the air, however, is a dispute between the CLC and the QFL over the election of a Quebec representative to the CLC's full-time executive.

Gerald Rancourt, QFL secretary-treasurer, was the original candidate of the official slate for the $16,000-a-year job of executive vice-president. But he subsequently clashed with CLC officers over the report of a structural committee and was replaced on the official slate by Romeo Mathieu, a top organizer of the United Packinghouse, Food and and Allied Workers.

Taxi Drivers' Union Hacked

The B.C. Labour Relations Board has approved an employer request to cancel the certification of the employees association at Bluebird Cabs, Victoria.

Bluebird Employees Association received certification three years ago to represent drivers and dispatchers. The board said it is satisfied the association has ceased to represent the employees.

TECHNIQUE of graphoanalysis—assessing personality through study of handwriting—needs close prolonged scrutiny. But Miss Wilmot Douglas Hayter, who graduated as a master certified graphoanalyst in April takes quick glance at reporter's notes to make "off the cuff" analysis.

HANDWRITING SHOWS:

Reporter Was Irritable But of Generous Nature

By KATHRINE THOMAS

"Oh, you are irritable," said Miss Wilmot Douglas Hayter as she took a look at my handwriting.

"But you're generous with enthusiasm," she added as she saw my face fall.

The certification was made by the Chicago-based International Graphoanalysis Society upon her completion of an Advanced Course in special applications of the techniques used in the practice of graphoanalysis.

Miss Hayter had been designated a Certified Graphoanalyst a year ago when she graduated from a general correspondence course in the principles of ascertaining an individual's personality traits through the study of his handwriting strokes.

She first became interested in graphoanalysis four years ago when she attended a night school course in Victoria.

NEW INSIGHT

"Handwriting shows you things you might not otherwise know about people," she says. "They may seem very pleasant and at ease on the surface, but in their handwriting you might see they have a bad temper or perhaps are more sensitive than you'd realized.

"Your personality shows up clearly in your handwriting because it's directed by your brain. And even if you wrote with your mouth, or toes, it wouldn't alter your character as it appeared in the writing."

The only instrument she uses is an emotional gauge similar to a geometry protractor—that measures the slant of handwriting.

"Up and down handwriting shows you're a responsible person—your head rules. The further towards the right your handwriting is, the more emotional you are."

CODE OF ETHICS

Miss Hayter makes no bones about telling her clients exactly what she sees. "We have a code of ethics," she says; "you always have to tell exactly what you find. We're supposed to help people by being accurate. If you see a bad trait you have to tell them, but in a nice way."

The correspondence courses consist of 20 lessons with stiff examinations at the end of each one.

"I've had one lesson that I had to send back six times before I got it right," Miss Hayter admits.

"You can't just look at some handwriting and come up with a person's personality. After you analyze it for a long time you have to put the whole thing together and evaluate it. It's like fitting the pieces of a jigsaw puzzle in place."

Graphoanalysists make no claim to be able to predict the future or to recognize the propensity towards a specific illness.

NOT DOCTORS

"We can't predict that a person is prone to heart attacks," says Miss Hayter, "but of course we can tell from studying shaky handwriting, that a person is not well at the time.

"We deal with the present; we're not fortune tellers. We just try to help people to know themselves."

But graphoanalysis can help an employer determine the character of job applicants, Miss Hayter maintains.

It can also show whether an individual is a good credit risk and it can help to track down forgers.

Some of the points to look for:

- If you cross your "T" halfway down, you don't think too far ahead. If you cross it right on top, you're a dreamer, if it's floating in the air, you're a visionary.
- The deeper the handwriting is, the more sensitive you are. If it's light, it means you don't hurt so easily.

Of course Miss Hayter adds, "These characteristics don't mean very much in themselves—you have to relate them to all the others to get a complete picture."

Miss Hayter has already had many requests for her professional help.

HELP WANTED

One man wanted her to analyze the handwriting of applicants who had applied for a job as his secretary.

Two women wanted her to analyze their husbands' handwriting to "see what they were up to."

Another mother wanted the handwriting of her daughter and fiance analyzed to see whether they were suited for marriage.

A schoolmaster wanted two samples of handwriting analyzed to make sure he was punishing the right boy for writing notes.

But graphoanalysis doesn't make any claim to be absolutely infallible.

"Why sometimes I find myself putting all sorts of irritations into my handwriting that I wouldn't normally," Miss Hayter admitted.

NDP LEADER

U.S. Domination Of Economy Hit

MONTREAL (CP) — New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas said Tuesday night Canada's ability to formulate independent policy is being threatened by United States domination of the Canadian economy.

Mr. Douglas made the statement in an address to the St. Nicholas Lebanese men's club which followed a half day of campaigning in four Montreal-area ridings and a press conference at Montreal International Airport.

"I am not a flag-waving jingoist, but if we are to survive as a nation we must retain the power to make our own decisions," he said.

The Pearson government had failed by not acting on the recommendations of the recent Watkins report, a study by a team of seven economists dealing with foreign ownership of Canadian industry.

The report, commissioned by Walter Gordon while he was a minister without portfolio in the Pearson cabinet, "is the only report I know that was repudiated by the government the day it was tabled," Mr. Douglas said, adding that Mr. Gordon resigned his cabinet post the day after "a heart-broken man."

Ontario Farm Takeover Seen

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Stewart Tuesday night told the Ontario legislature that large United States corporations are poised to take over the province's agriculture industry.

"We are concerned about reports, particularly from south of the border, which would seem to indicate that vest amounts of corporate capital are either being funnelled into agriculture or stand ready to be invested," Mr. Stewart said in opening debate on his department's estimates totalling $51,562,000.

"Large corporations, many of them engaged in the manufacture and sale of goods and services used in agriculture, or depending on agriculture for their raw material, have an eye on the industry as a investment."

GUARANTEES SALE

Mr. Stewart said that for some of these companies securing control of the industry would guarantee a market for their feeds, fertilizers, or other products, while for others, like canners, it would insure the source of raw material for their processes.

"But there is another group with designs on modern agriculture; those who see it as an industry which requires far less manual labor than some other industries, and as such promises a fair return on invested capital."

To prevent this takeover, Mr. Stewart said, farm families must cast off their traditional ways and submit to the disciplines of business to survive.

BRUSSELS (CP) — Paul Vanden Boeynants has agreed to try to form a new government in another attempt to solve Belgium's continuing constitutional crisis. A Royal Palace announcement said Vanden Boeynants, outgoing premier, agreed to a request by King Baudouin to form an administration to replace his coalition government which collapsed Feb. 7 as a result of Belgium's perennial language feud.

ARTIFACT DRAIN EYED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Barrie Reynolds, senior curator of the Centennial Museum, says he hopes to halt the export of artifacts from British Columbia to American buyers.

Mr. Reynolds said Monday that too many rare items of cultural, ethnological and historical value are leaving the province. Mr. Reynolds said he had just returned from a province-wide tour in which he asked small museums to tip him when items of value are in danger of being snapped up.

SLIT IN WING OF JET ABLE TO CURB NOISE?

TORONTO (CP)—Noise from jet aircraft could be reduced considerably by incorporating a rectangular slit to replace the conventionally round vent in the wing of a plane, a University of Toronto professor said Monday.

Dr. H. S. Ribner, of the Institute of Aerospace Studies, told the annual meeting of the Canadian Aeronautics and Space Institute that a slit would also increase aerodynamic lift and improve control features of the aircraft.

He said the aircraft industry generally was cool to the idea, possibly because of potential problems.

"But the potential for noise reduction is so impressive that potential problems should be given serious study to see if they could be surmounted."

Writes of Impressions Gained When Invested With Order of Canada's Service Medal

VICTORIA AUTHOR HONORED IN RIDEAU HALL

By AUDREY ALEXANDER BROWN

It's all over; but it was very glorious while it lasted — the highlight of a lifetime.

It began when the buses arrived to take us to Rideau Hall, and all the women recipients came fluttering out as bright as tropical butterflies into a grey cold day with a brisk breeze blowing. It looked and felt very odd to be boarding a bus in formal evening gowns in the middle of the afternoon; but the population of Ottawa, which perhaps has seen stranger sights, took little notice of us.

I did not know any of my fellow-passengers, and only discovered later that little Marlene Stewart Streit, the golfer, was sitting across from me. It was difficult to believe, for with her crop of thick brown hair and ingenuously happy face she could have passed for a schoolgirl of 15.

'UNHURRIED GRACE'

At that time of day the traffic was terrible and we were halted for many minutes at several intersections while our French-Canadian driver muttered words of frenzy and despair. Because of this the ceremony began half-an-hour later than scheduled, but no one would have guessed this from the unhurried grace with which it was carried out.

I have looked forward to seeing how the government of Canada does these things. As we are still reckoned a young nation I had not hoped for such polish and precision. Canada, which has been fortunate in its Governors-General, is doubly so in the right Hon. Roland Michener. To see him is to know immediately why his appointment has been so popular. Allied to his natural dignity is an expression so charmingly benign that it's a joy to behold; and his lady equally graces her positon.

MADE COMPANIONS

Ahead of us sat the Companions of the Order of Canada. One was Dr. Hilda Neatby, tall and pale in a gown of cream brocade. Another was a dark and handsome woman very strikingly dressed in black chiffon with a band of diamante; it was the singer, Lois Marshall. I had not known she was lame, but when she rose she moved with difficulty.

We had been told that His Excellency would say a few words to each of us when he invested us. To this we were instructed to reply only by a bow. These words were addressed to us personally and could not be heard by the rest of the assembly. To some he spoke more (as to Nancy Greene), to others less, but there was an individual word for each of us. Nancy Greene was immediately recognizable. She is a tall girl, just like her photographs but even pleasanter in appearance. To me His Excellency said that it gave him much pleasure to bestow on me an honor which (he said) I so well deserved.

'SUPREME MOMENT'

The supreme moment came at the end, when the band launched into "O Canada." I have never heard it so impressively played or so stirringly sung. Halfway through a most beautiful soprano voice chimed in with a descant that soared up, so pure and clear and lovely that it did not seem to belong to this earth at all: it was Lois Marshall singing. I have never heard and never shall hear anything more beautiful.

We then adjourned to the Tent Room. Here refreshments were being served, and here we were joined by the prime minister, Mr. Trudeau. I was presented to him by Her Excellency. He bowed, but did not offer his hand, I am happy to report that I was able to repress any temptation to kiss him. I was surprised not to receive the impression of youth I had expected; his face is deeply lined and the lines deepen when he smiles.

After this we were taken to the Confederation Room at the Parliament Buildings and dined by the Government of Canada. There was a moment's hesitation before we left. Then, Miss Charlotte Whitton stepped forward, saying "They are waiting for me to lead the way." Which she did.

FROM BLITZED CITY

What a scene, lit by chandeliers whose magnificence I could never have imagined; they are like mountains and waterfalls of fire and crystal. I was told they have a history. They came from some badly-blitzed city in England, no one seemed to know exactly which but the general opinion favored Leeds. The tables carried candelabras and great bowls of carnations in red and white, the national colors of Canada.

On my left hand was Dr. Naomi Jackson Groves, niece of A. Y. Jackson, one of the last two survivors of the Group of Seven. Poor man, he had suffered a stroke only a week before the investitdre.

ROUSES MEMORIES

On my right was a gentleman with an arresting face which I had last seen 32 years ago. I recalled him as a then very well-known radio announcer who came over from Vancouver to compere a tiny part I had in the day-long Empire-wide broadcast which celebrated the silver jubilee of King George the Fifth. We had rehearsed together but in the actual broadcast he nearly overthrew me by ad-libbing some very complimentary words which I was quite unprepared for, and doing it with a naughty twinkle in his eye.

Meeting him again after all these years, I was mad enough to say to him, "And what is your 'job' now?" to which he replied with shattering simplicity "I'm president of the CBC!"

To make such a faux pas would ordinarily wreck one's evening, but he was very kind about it, and this was an evening which couldn't be wrecked. For there was about this gathering something I have never before encountered, a feeling of absolute harmony and friendship.

NO DIVISION

Many of us were French-Canadians, but there was not the slighest division between us. Perhaps it was because they all (excluding myself) had done something noteworthy for their country.

Ir was the most extraordinary experience, in which I shall always be thrilled to remember that I had a share. For we were Canadians and we saw the majesty of Canada, and it stooped to honor us.

ALL MEMBERS TAKING PART IN PROJECT

Old Country Fair at "Y"

All the members of the 'Y' are pitching in to ensure the success of the YM-YWCA Old Country Fair, to be held at the 'Y' on Saturday, May 11 from 1:30 to 8 p.m.

The event will be opened by acting mayor, Alderman Lily Wilson.

In keeping with the theme, the Y-Teens will serve tea and crumpets in their English 'pub' and provide 'toad-in-the-hole' for guests' supper.

Being the month of May, the Junior 'Y' members will add their contribution by performing Maypole dances.

Times' cartoonist Bob Bierman has agreed to help by donating 200 of his original cartoons. These will be put on display on Friday so that would-be buyers can make their bids.

Aquatic acrobatics and displays in the gymnasium will add to the day's program. There will also be novelty games and films.

Those donating to the home cooking and candy stall are asked to have their items at the main desk on either Friday or Saturday morning.

Contributions for the plant stall which will feature shrubs, flowers and root cuttings, can also be delivered at the desk at these times.

The event, which is being convened by Mrs. Ronald Upward, has been organized in order to raise funds for the YM-YWCA world service funds.

Cordova Bay Church Holds Successful Sale and Tea

Storm clouds and high winds couldn't detract from the enjoyment of guests who attended the annual spring sale and tea of St. David's-by-the-Sea Church on Saturday afternoon. The parish hall provided a gay appearance with its decorations of lilac, bridal wreath and spirea.

A popular home cooking stall was under the leadership of Mrs. D. C. Wilkinson, Mrs. Helen Dawson and Mrs. T. Day. Mrs. C. B. Peterson and Mrs. G. Bondeen managed a cake contest, and Mrs. F. Mutrie was in charge of receipts.

Tea convener was Mrs. J. M. B. Nicoll. She was assisted by Mrs. T. Anderson, Mrs. R. Udall, Mrs. R. Sinkinson, Mrs. W. M. Emery, Mrs. William Inkman, Miss K. Cullen and Mrs. A. F. Snowball. Mrs. A. P. Williams arranged the apple blossoms and spring flowers that centred individual tables.

During the tea hour, Cathie John sang the numbers which had earned her high marks at the recent music festival. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. Gordon Walker.

Add New Touch To Coffee Party

Something new will be added when the Afternoon Branch of St. Mary's Anglican Church Women holds its smorgasbord-style coffee party next Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the parish hall on Elgin Road. The "something-new" is a touch-and-take table which will take its place with the baked goods, knitted articles and garden plants which will be on sale.

Beauty Cleansing The Skin

Many of the world's most beautiful women attribute the clear, fine loveliness of their complexions to the toning qualities of a special lemon cleanser that floats away all beauty - robbing impurities without depriving the skin of its natural beauty. The complexion immediately reflects the rewarding benefits as the cleanser is smoothed over the skin. Dry, ageing lines are eased and the skin becomes clear and softly endowed with a radiant bloom. Jelvyn cleansing milk is the perfect cleanser for all skin types.

DEAR ABBY . . .

One-Sided Love Doesn't Last Long

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a 29-year-old man for the last eight months. I am 22. He's nice looking, well-mannered and can afford to show a girl a good time. He has bought me some rather expensive gifts (a stereo for Christmas and a color TV for my birthday). He tried to give me a diamond for St. Valentine's Day, but I wouldn't accept it.

I just don't love him and he knows it, but he says he's desperately in love with me. I never tried to lead him on. I told him from the beginning that I didn't love him and didn't think I ever could. I've even asked him to quit calling me, but he calls anyway, and if I have nothing better to do, I go out with him.

I have acted bored in his company, and been rude to him, but he can't be discouraged. Any suggestions?

TOO HONEST.

DEAR TOO: If you really don't see any future with this man, don't go out with him again because the more you see of him, and the more you accept from him, the harder it will be to get rid of him. He plans to "wear you down." And if he succeeds, you'll both be sorry. A one-sided "love" doesn't last long.

DEAR ABBY: I am 31, have been self-supporting since I was 18, am well-groomed and have lots of friends. But in spite of my jolly disposition and happy smile, I am very unhappy. You see, I am one of those big-boned women who could diet herself down to nothing, but I would still be big.

I know I am fat, but I am naturally so large that if I were to lose any weight it would show in my face and neck, and I would rather be a little on the plump side than haggard and wrinkled.

This letter is a plea for more consideration on the part of those who make fat women the butt of their jokes. We have feelings, too, and although we are good sports on the surface, we are crying on the inside. I want love and companionship like any other normal woman, but it's hopeless. Men don't want fat women. Yet, no woman ever turned a man down because he was fat.

Don't tell me to go on a diet. No matter how much weight I lost, I would still be

BIG, AND HATING IT.

DEAR BIG: Alas, all men (and women) were not created equal. And that goes for the undersized as well as the oversized. Don't try to rationalize your excess poundage by saying you "need" it to go with your "big-boned" frame. A "big-boned" woman only accentuates her size by being fat as well.

Get a sensible diet from a doctor and stick with it. Plenty of "big" women are enjoying the love and companionship of big men. And some "little" men have shown their true "bigness" by marrying a bigger woman.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "UPSET IN NEWARK": For goodness sake, DON'T ask his boss to take him off the road. It won't help. If a man if going to "cheat," he will cheat on his lunch hour.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Anthony Eden's Daughter Plans Return to Her Italian Husband

LONDON (AP) — Amelia Eden, 35-year-old niece of former British prime minister Anthony Eden, is going back to Italy to rejoin the Italian boatman she married 10 years ago.

For the second time she has decided to give up the elegant life of a British aristocrat for the simple life of housewife on an island in the Bay of Naples.

Giovanni Johnny Borelli and Amelia met when she was on holiday in Italy and he was a $33.60-a-week engineer on a ferry boat.

Shortly after their marriage they came to England and he was given a $48-a-week job as electrician and handyman on Amelia's family estate in the New Forest, Hampshire.

More than a year ago he went back to Italy and set up a plumbing and electrical business with his brother. Amelia and their three children stayed behind at their seven-bedroom country house. Since then she has seen her 39-year-old husband only three times.

Amelia, her eight-year-old daughter Chiara and sons Raffaele, 6, and Matteo, 3, will leave England in September to live in a two-bedroom house on the island of Ischia.

Speaking to reporters of her marriage, she said: "It has not been a bed of roses, but I think most marriages are like this. I certainly have no regrets. Now that Johnny's business has worked out well we shall settle down there."

Travelling Jewelry Needs a Padded Case

By PENNY SAVER

What did we ever do before Charmaine came to call! Our petite Parisienne has spiced up the coffee-party conversation with her thrilling tales of jungle safaris and deep-sea diving. "Without even trying" is the preface to her every story. Charmaine in her youth had more adventures by accident than anyone deserves and came out of all of them unscathed. Even now when she should be too wise and sedate to get into such scrapes she finds her life more exciting than the average. "I was visiting dear Marie who is working in the British embassy in Panama when bullets began flying round my head." All said in the calmest of accents while she balances a plate and cup of tea as expertly as one who has spend her life safe in an English drawing-room.

The upshot of Charmaine's Panama adventure was that her jewelry scattered all through her suit-case. "I would pick up a negligee and an earring would fall out," she said. "Worse still some pieces of filigree work were bent almost beyond repair and several stones popped out of their settings and were lost forever. What I need is a jewel case that will pack easily into a trunk."

Presto, I had a 'bon voyage' gift for Charmaine. A soft travelling jewel-case in padded brocade is $3.95. These round cases hold as much as a small cabinet-style case. A zipper goes half-way around the top and there is a smaller, pancake-shaped purse with a zipper closing for small items. Charmaine's is of black brocade with a red piping and red satin lining. These cases will squish down into a corner if space is at a premium and are well-enough padded to protect jewelry from all but the greatest of shocks. Ones in gold and pink brocade were also available.

Perfect Examples of Weavers' Art

A hand-woven case for envelopes and dainty note paper makes a wonderful gift for anyone. These cases fit into corners for travelling or are attractive drawer organizers. The cases are $2.25 each and come in a variety of colors and textures. I was particularly fond of one done in a white boucle thread over a fine black warp, giving it a soft, silvery-gray look.

The workings of business can make up a tragedy for a friend of mine. She collects a certain china pattern and the company that produced it has been bought out by another company. "And they never leave things just as they were," she concluded with a sigh. The pattern she has been collecting is of tiny pink roses on a white fluted background. The company also made place-settings in a pattern of dainty blue flowers on the same fluted background.

"There must be many people in Victoria who would be interested in filling out their collections before these lovely dishes are completely unavailable," remarked my friend. "I know of a dealer who has a wonderful stock of these patterns in all items of the place-setting. Do let your collecting readers know of this last opportunity to buy."

Could this be the pattern you are collecting? Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like more information about this column.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Legs have been in the spotlight for so long now, but women are still battling defects in leg contour. This is surely a smart thing to do. It takes quite a while to correct such figure faults.

Lowman

Of course the shape of the leg depends on other factors as well as deposits of fat. Boney structure and muscles also affect the contour. You cannot change the bones but you can build contour by increasing the size of the leg muscles. You can also reduce your underpinnings with special exercise and a loss of weight if you have too many pounds.

Many women want to know what the ratio between the different leg measurements should be. As a general rule there should be about a 6-inch difference between the thigh and the calf, and the calf should be about 5 inches larger than the ankle.

Sit on the floor, legs out in front of you and knees straight. Place the hands on the floor behind you for support with the fingers pointing away from you. Bend the left knee up toward the abdomen as close as you can. Straighten the knee, kicking toward the ceiling. Lower the left leg, keeping the knee straight. Bend the right knee up as close to the abdomen as possible. Straighten the knee, kicking toward the ceiling. Lower the right leg. Continue. When you kick try to kick as straight upward as you can. Point the toes as you kick.

To learn more exercises for all kinds of leg defects, send for Josephine Lowman's free leaflet, "Why Not Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs?" To obtain your copy, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DID IT FOR NAME'S SAKE

Jean Brown dreamed of changing her name when she married, but she fell for Keith Brown. The couple changed their name by deed poll and now they're the Andersons.

A New You by Emily Wilkens

Grandmothers have come a long way from the image of Whistler's famous lady in a black dress and rocking chair—and she was only a mother!

In fact, many modern grandmothers are as shapely as their daughters (or even granddaughters)! Their hair is stylishly coiffed and, believe it or not, "granny" shoes have been adopted by the teen-agers. Today, such glamorous lovelies as the Duchess of Windsor, Marlene Dietrich and Gloria Swanson share their claims of ageless beauty with a vast number of women.

One explanation for a perennially youthful appearance is that for many the retirement age is more often the beginning of a new life rather than the ending of an old. The anticipation of travel and exciting vacations, leisure time, recreation plus (for some) purchasing power for "things" always craved for—all these (and many other things) contribute to keeping older people younger longer.

Then, too, housekeeping is much easier. Now that the family has grown, a small, easy-to-keep modern apartment is frequently the choice of grandparents. In a way, this is much like starting married life all over again.

Looking wonderful, too, plays no small part in how well you feel, inasmuch as you generally feel as well as you look. It isn't important to worry about all those nice little life lines (everyone has them) but it is important to pay close and continuing attention to your appearance.

Hopefully, a workable beauty routine is second nature by this time. If not, it's never too late to get on the bandwagon. There are many excellent skin care preparations and cosmetics specifically designed for mature complexions. Investigate and use them to get a glow going.

If the busy years as a homemaker have left your hands on the rougher side now, with more time on your hands, resort to frequent, generous creamings and wear gloves for protection from water and harsh chemicals. Use hand lotion each and every time after washing your hands. Invest in a weekly manicure—it's well worth the psychological (and actual) lift.

JUST FOR YOU: Tear Grandpa away from the TV set and join a dance group. Whatever your chosen beat, dancing works wonders for both your waistline and your spirit.

MAGISTRATE WINCH

Apologize to 75 Speeder Ordered

NANAIMO — A Chemainus youth will knock on 75 doors as penance for speeding on a Nanaimo street.

Magistrate Eric Winch told Daniel Murphy, 18, he felt it would be right for the youth to knock on doors and apologize to tenants in a 60-suite apartment block and 15 homeowners on the street.

Murphy's sentence was suspended until he receives a list of those ot whom he will apologize. He pleaded guilty to speeding.

John Johnsen of nearby Wellington chose to pay a $75 fine for squealing his tires rather than walk three miles to work for 14 days.

He was given the alternative by Magistrate Winch who said that the new anti-tire squealing provisions in the revised Motor Vehicle regulations are long overdue.

Switch Refused In Gold River Certification

The British Columbia Labour Relations Board has refused to change its year-old rejection of a certification application by two unions for all employees of Tahsis Company on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

In a move which sparked a months-long row last year, the Port Alberni local of the International Woodworkers of America and the Gold River local of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers sought joint certification of all Tahsis workers in the area.

This would have included those already under IWA contract and would have extended this to the new Gold River pulp mill.

NO EVIDENCE

The board said it is not prepared to vary or cancel its rejection of May 2, 1967, because no evidence was submitted which would warrant any change.

After last year's decision, the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada — a rival to the international pulp union in B.C. — was successful in gaining certification to represent Gold River pulp mill workers after they voted to support it.

Earlier this month the international pulp union announced it has applied to the B.C. Labour Relations Board for certification at the Gold River mill. Both it and the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada are claiming majority support among millworkers.

TENTS, SHACKS RULED OUT

House Shortage to Stem Flow of Pickers to U.S.

DUNCAN — The flow of V.I. Indian berrypickers to Washington may be stopped this year.

Cowichan Indian band has received word from Puyallup that there is an extreme shortage of housing for pickers.

Cowichan band manager Ross Modeste said today: "Years ago migrant berry pickers could pitch a tent or the farmers put up shacks but Washington state health authorities have become much more stringent.

"They lay down that hot and cold running water and flush toilets are prerequisites for such accommodations and the farmers say they can't afford it."

Mr. Modeste said: "The flow of berrypickers will certainly be slowed down. If they have to stay in motels it would not be worthwhile."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Modeste said although the band council has called for estimates for demolition of the old Duncan armory there are no immediate plans for use of the Indian-owned site.

He said the council hopes to develop the area.

The band council will request the co-operation of Duncan SPCA in controlling the dog nuisance on the local reserves.

Secretary Miss Louise Underwood said the SPCA will be invited to suggest ways to control the stray dogs which are a menace to the general Cowichan district.

"People have complaints about packs of dogs howling all night. Dogs are biting people and attacking cattle, sheep and horses," she said.

'SAVE OUR BEACHES'

Sewage Dumping Fought By 200 on Salt Spring

By ED GOULD

GANGES—More than 200 angry Salt Spring Island residents packed the Legion Hall Tuesday night to protest an application by Maliview Estates, Ltd., to dump treated sewage into Trincomali Channel.

The company plans an 85-lot subdivision at Fernwood.

A total of 35 letters and briefs from residents was presented to provincial pollution control director C. J. Keenan protesting any move which might spoil beaches, endanger sea life or cause health hazards to residents.

Richard McMorran, development engineer for Maliview Estates, told the hearing a land distribution system is preferable but too costly because about one-third of the land involved would be unsuitable for land disposal.

WRONG COMPARISON

He said most protesters seemed to be comparing raw sewage outfall direct to the beach with his company's proposed two-tank settling system in which solids would be removed from the septic tank, not piped to the sea.

Dr. Walter Young, secretary of the Salt Spring Island Anti-Pollution Society, said medical health officers, marine biologists, oceanographers and fisheries department officials also should make tests.

He said that citizens appearing before the pollution control director do not have access to the kind of expert knowledge frequently obtained by applicants.

'GREAT DEPTHS'

Mr. Keenan was piqued by what he called "the inference" that there was any form of departmental bias involved in favor of the applicant.

"I represent the people of the province and I can assure you this problem will be analyzed in great depths by highly paid experts," he said.

"I have a great many years' service and I think I am the best qualified person in the province to make a decision regarding this application."

Robert Holloman, anti-pollution society member, said an adverse decision regarding the permit would be appealed, and Dr. Young said if an appeal fails, an injunction would be sought.

GIRL ADMITS STABBING HER MOTHER

Florence Margaret Price stabbed Mrs. Edna Price with a butcher knife last Saturday inflicting a wound one-inch deep and two inches long, court was told.

The girl was remanded until today while a pre-sentence report was prepared.

Mayor, Chief Square Off For Dance

DUNCAN — Mayor Jim Quaife has accepted a challenge to compete in the tribal dances at Somenos long house Sunday evening.

He will pit his dancing skills against Chief Dennis Alphonse at the dances which will climax two days of Corpus Christi celebrations by the Cowichan Indian band.

The unenviable task of judging the contest has been given to Mayor Donald Morton of North Cowichan.

Saturday will be athletics day, and Sunday morning's processional mass will be followed by war canoe racing on Quamichan Lake.

VICTORIAN RESPONDS

Hearing Aid Plea Heard Loud, Clear

DUNCAN — Pat Charlie, 76, of Cowichan Indian Reserve, will get a free hearing aid to held him in his Grade 3 studies.

The offer came Tuesday from Victoria businessman Jim Anderson.

This morning Cowichan adult education director Robert Thorburn said he will make the arrangements to get Mr. Charlie to Victoria for testing.

Mr. Charlie is recuperating from a bad cold and said it might be several days before he is well enough to make the trip.

At night school he is taking a combined Grade 2 and 3 course in reading, writing, arithmetic and social studies. He graduated from Grade 1 last year.

He says he is doing it partially to encourage his grandchildren to stick with their schooling.

Mr. Anderson, of Anderson Radio and Electronics, 706 Johnson, said Tuesday: "I'm glad to do this.

"When someone has the guts to start school when he is in his 70s, I think he should be helped."

Mr. Anderson added: "I think I can persuade one of my optometrist friends to give Mr. Charlie some glasses."

Mr. Charlie is a retired longshoreman.

LOSS OF 69 SEATS CONCEDED IN CIVIC VOTING

Labor Suffers Setback in Scottish Elections

GLASGOW (CP) — The Scottish Nationalist party scored sweeping gains in results today from Scottish local elections, ending the Labor party's control of the city councils in Glasgow, Aberdeen and Paisley.

A Nationalist spokesman said it had won at least 95 seats on municipal councils and predicted a total of more than 100 when all results from Tuesday's vote are in.

Labor's biggest defeat came in Glasgow, Scotland's largest city. The Nationalists, with no seats on the previous council, won 13 of the 111 seats, 12 of them from Labor. The Conservatives became the council's largest party with 54 seats, no majority, while Labor dropped to 44.

Labor had controlled Glasgow for 31 of the last 34 years.

The Nationalist gains were expected to bring more pressure on London to grant Scotland more autonomy.

Local elections are taking place all this week in Britain, with the Conservatives gaining steadily so far as expected. The biggest vote comes Thursday when London and most of England and Wales vote.

SANCTIONS FAIL

Mines in Rhodesia Still Flourishing

SALISBURY (AP) — An official five-year survey by mining authorities indicates sanctions have done little to retard Rhodesia's expanding mining industry.

There are no official statistics to support the claim, but the ministry of mines predicts mineral output may well top $280,000,000 in the next few years.

"As there are those seeking detailed information on our success against sanctions, hoping to destroy modern Rhodesia, publication of production figures is not possible," the survey said.

Five years ago the country's mineral production, including gold, was worth approximately $89,600,000. In 1965, immediately preceding the Nov. 11 declaration of independence and call for sanctions, Rhodesia's mineral output totalled $109,200,000.

Now in its third year of sanctions, many millions of dollars are being poured into the country's mining industries.

New nickel, copper and platinum deposits are being tapped and further geological surveys are under way. During the last 20 years between 500,000 and 600,000 ounces of gold per annum have been mined.

Rhodesia has a treasure trove of minerals.

Kremlin Denies Czech Charges

MOSCOW (AP) — The Sovet government denied today charges in Czechoslovakia's official Communist party newspaper that the Soviet Union through agents of Stalin's secret police played a part in the 1948 death of Jan Masaryk, the Czechoslovak foreign minister.

The government said in a statement released by the official news agency Tass that Masaryk committed suicide.

The statement attacked "Western Press organs and also some Czechoslovak newspapers" for casting doubt on the official suicide version and implicating the Soviet secret police.

MARCHERS HEADED FOR ABORTIVE CAMPAIGN?

Tension Mounts in U.S. Capital

WASHINGTON (CP) — The first regulars of the Poor People's march on Washington are expected Monday. Tensions are rising in this U.S. capital, still jittery from the early-April disturbances in the Negro quarter quelled finally with the help of 12,000 troops.

The size of the poverty army, its tactics, length of stay, site of its prefabricated "shanty town" and the local and national repercussions are unknown factors contributing to the apprehension.

Something of a calculated war of nerves is indicated in the name of the economically-dispossessed citizens of the world's richest country—black, white, Indian, Puerto Rican and Mexican-American.

Most, however, are expected to be Negro.

MAY DEEPEN ANGER

If what seems to be the prevailing mood of Congress is correct, the marchers appear headed for an abortive campaign capable of deepening the anger and frustration loose in the land.

Congress Monday began moving toward budget economies now and in the future for existing programs, part of a deal to pass the long-delayed income tax increase. This contrasts with demands for more spending on welfare, slum clearing, rental subsidies, ghetto education and guaranteed incomes.

These are made amid allegations that more than 10,000,000 Americans are hungry and another 20,000,000 lack adequate diets.

Twenty-six bills have been entered in the House of Representatives to prohibit or limit the marchers' use of federal property to camp here.

MAY FLOUT LAWS

But there is evidence the marchers intend to disregard any such prohibition, peacefully or otherwise, and they are scheduled to start erecting their model shanty town in a "prominent place" on May 13.

Some congressmen say violence is certain because of supposed plots among militant black groups. If it does occur, federal plans already exist for the immediate use of thousands of federal soldiers once again.

The Poor People's Campaign was announced last summer by Dr. Martin Luther King and constitutes a legacy of the leader of non-violence, murdered in Memphis April 4 by a gunman still at large.

At least nine "caravans" are headed for the capital. Advance scouts led by Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, King's successor as leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, last week visited Washington and confronted seven cabinet ministers on the campaign's goals and plans.

A timetable calls for major demonstrations to start on or about May 21 and a mass march May 30 through downtown Washington, aided by thousands from this city's predominently-b ack population of 850,000.

Adult Students Analyzed

By ELIZABETH FORBES

There's a testing, means and counselling service at the Institute of Adult Studies on the former Lansdowne campus of University of Victoria that's in action almost around the clock.

Forbes

Headed by Graham Holland and with the backing of institute principal Alan Batey, this service has helped hundreds of young adults to find their right vocations and to plan ways of achieving their goals.

Mr. Holland is dedicated to giving help to all who are genuinely concerned in upgrading their education, no matter what their age. Anyone is welcome to drop in and talk to him whether they enroll in the institute program or not.

A friendly, informal atmosphere is maintained. The person asking guidance tells what level of education he or she has attained and any efforts that have been made to add to this knowledge, through work, special studies or in the home.

What goals are now in mind, Mr. Holland asks. Then he endeavors to show how to go about planning for these goals, through program help on a part or full-time basis.

Not always do those who receive counselling enroll at the adult studies institute. Sometimes it seems better to advise them to take correspondence courses, go to a vocational school or register with Canada Manpower.

A close liaison is maintained between the institute service and these various outlets (including the University of Victoria counselling service) so it is possible to send a young man or woman to any of them in the knowledge they will be well received.

There are so many people "floating around out there" that don't know where to turn, Mr. Holland says. "If they will only come to us we might be able to help. The door is never closed.

"We're as close as a phone call made to the school board office. Only thing better than such a call is to come and see us personally."

He told me of a young woman who had been working for three years at a good wage. She decided if she was to advance, she must complete commercial training.

It soon came out that her real desire was to be a nurse. Tests showed she was capable of doing it. So Mr. Holland advised that she take some Grade 12 subjects which would enable her eventually to enter nursing training if she wished, and some commercial subjects to up-grade her standing at that moment.

Many do not know they can take academic subjects leading to university and at the same time enroll in one or two commercial subjects as well, he said.

"Perhaps if you tell them of this young woman and they realize someone else has done it, they may begin to think they can do it, too."

This testing, means and counselling service has been in operation at the Institute of Adult Studies since it opened in May, 1965.

Now, with two years' full-time effort completed, feedbacks are coming in. Former students are writing or visiting to tell of successes that have come through help received there.

★ ★ ★

Last year in the August-September enrolment season, some 750 people were tested and counselled. Each person received from 30 to 40 minutes of Mr. Holland's time. That adds up to a good many hours of service.

Total enrolment in daytime studies at the institute right now is around 500. In evening classes 700 were registered in each semester.

More space is definitely needed if the program is to grow and expand as Alan Batey and his dedicated staff envision.

Close at hand is the big Young Building (with the clock tower) now back in the hands of the school board.

One can only hope that by September, this board in its wisdom will have assigned some part of that building to the adult studies project.

Noisy Bistro Fined

VANCOUVER (CP) — Magistrate A. M. Grimmett Monday fined the Village Bistro, a coffee house in the heart of Vancouver's hippie district, $25 for violation of a city anti-noise by-law. The magistrate was told loud music was blaring from the coffee house in the early-morning hours a few weeks ago, but the building has since been soundproofed.

NANCY GREENE CAUGHT IN PARIS STUDENT RIOT

Nancy Greene, of Rossland, B.C., found herself Monday in the middle of the battle between police and students here.

Miss Greene spent the afternoon on the River Seine being photographed water skiing by a French weekly magazine when she suddenly remembered an engagement.

Stopping only long enough to throw a coat over her swimming costume, she jumped into a taxi and 10 minutes later found herself blocked in the Boulevard St. Michel with cobblestones and tear gas grenades flying around the taxi.

PROTECTS BUYER

Fine Indian Arts To Have Trademark

OTTAWA (CP) — Buyers of Canadian Indian art and handicrafts soon will get the same protection from imitations now afforded to collectors of Eskimo articles.

The Indian Affairs department said Tuesday it has settled on a trademark that will identify Indian products and also guarantee their quality.

The trademark, to be introduced this summer, is an oval beaver pelt surrounded by a strong black border line.

"This symbol expresses the traditional way of life of the Indian people—their closeness to and reliance on the waters, the forests, the land and wildlife," says the department.

"The beaver is also symbolic of industry, and the pelt represents the modern-day enterprises of the Indians. The strong black line represents their common aim of producing articles of quality and distinction."

GROSS $1,500,000

Indians grossed almost $1,500,000 from sale of their arts and handicrafts in the year ended March 31, 1967, but have been seeking a symbol to set apart their products from those mass-produced in Canadian and other factories.

To meet the need, the Indian Affairs department launched a country-wide competition among Indian students for a suitable design.

Of 12,000 responses, the department selected 13 and awarded prizes of $50 apiece to those submitting them.

All 13 designs selected included a beaver pelt. They formed the basis for the trademark to be introduced.

Posters will be distributed to retailers carrying authentic Indian products. Tags carrying the trademark will be affixed to each article produced by the Indians.

A northern development official said the igloo trademark designed for Eskimo work was a success.

Canadian buyers were particularly aware of what the igloo trademark stands for, he said, although U.S. buyers were not.

MODEL'S FINGER-NAIL ATTACK DESCRIBED IN COURT

'Half-Reporter and Half-Lover Boy'

TORONTO (CP) — Robert MacBain, a repoorter with The Telegram, testified Tuesday that Indian fashion model Kahn-Tineta Horn of Montreal raked her fingernails across his face and neck as he sat last March 12 in his newspaper office.

Miss Horn, 26, who appeared in court wearing a fringed suede jacket and mid-thigh mini skirt, pleaded not guilty to assault causing bodily harm.

The trial was adjourned to May 13.

WOULDN'T TAKE OATH

A Mohawk, she declined to take an oath on the Bible and instead made an affirmation that she would tell the truth. She spelled her name differently to court officials than has been published before.

Sheila Gormley, also a reporter with The Telegram, said she saw Miss Horn pound MacBain from behind on the kidneys, rake his face with her fingernails and kept scratching and pounding the reporter until she had to be restrained.

George Anthony, the newspaper's youth editor, said Miss Horn also tried to knee MacBain in the groin.

Anthony said Miss Horn told MacBain:

"That's for degrading our Indian women."

He said Miss Horn also said something about McBain being involved in a plot to take away Indian land. He was unable to elaborate.

The 2½-hour hearing was marked by lengthy questioning by defence counsel Malcolm Robb about the relationship between MacBain and Miss Horn.

At one point, Robb said that MacBain "was playing the part of half-reporter and half-lover boy."

MacBain said he and Miss Horn were together last year in Montreal attending Expo 67.

He testified that he and the model went to The Telegram's apartment in Montreal so that she could wash her face which was smeared with mascara from crying.

Under questioning, MacBain denied telling Miss Horn that she couldn't be a virgin all her life. Robb said he wanted to bring background into the case to show that there was provocation for the attack on MacBain.

Miss Gormley told the court that MacBain told her he was scared of Miss Horn because she thought men were always trying to seduce her and she had a complex about it.

Miss Horn said MacBain wanted to have sexual relations with her at Expo and said he told her there would be no danger of getting pregnant because he was sterile.

4-Month Sentence For 'Pot'

A youth was sentenced to four months in jail Tuesday for possession of marijuana.

William Routley, 19, of 583 Prince Albert Drive, had earlier pleaded guilty to the charge. He was arrested April 25.

When Magistrate Ostler asked prosecutor Rodney Taylor to comment on the probation officer's recommendation that sentence be suspended, he said: "My instructions are that I am neither to agree nor disagree."

But the prosecutor added: "The offence was somewhat minimal and it is an excellent report."

Magistrate Ostler said, "I know if I suspend sentence without the consent of the Crown it will be appealed immediately and a sentence imposed."

He told Routley, unrepresented by counsel, "The prosecutor must adopt a policy that is dictated by the department of justice and I must follow guidelines laid down by the Court of Appeal."

Saanich Parks' Names Juggled

Prospect Lake Park will be the name for the new five-acre park on Prospect Lake Road in Saanich.

The present park of that name will be renamed Lakeside Park, the municipal parks committee recommended Tuesday night.

Esquimalt Plans Vote This Fall

Any referendum in Esquimalt on the separation of the fire and police departments is unlikely before the fall Ald. Horne said Tuesday.

Ald. Horne, chairman of the fire committee, said Police Chief Earl Sarsiat will report in late June on needs for a municipal fire department.

Costs will be estimated after council has decided on the necessities, he said, and then information will have to be distributed to taxpayers before preparations for a referendum can be initiated.

"It's highly improbable that a referendum will be held before the summer recess," he added.

New Bulk Carrier Due Monday

The bulk carrier "J. V. Clyne," one of three such vessels being chartered by MacMillan Bloedel Limited, will arrive in British Columbia waters on its maiden voyage from Japan about Monday.

It will tie up at the company's Harmac mill near Nanaimo, where a publicity tour of the ship will take place. The tour is being arranged through the Canadian Transport Company, a MacMillan Bloedel subsidiary.

The "H. R. MacMillan," the first of the chartered vessels, will return to Vancouver later this month.

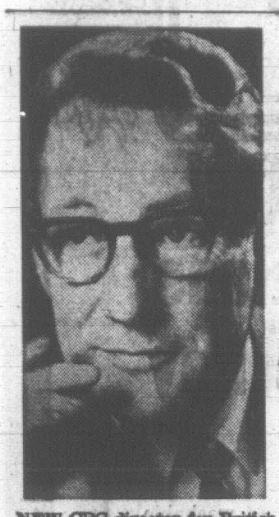
TRUDEAU MESSAGE

OAS Membership Still Undecided



NEW CBC director for British Columbia is Robert W. McGall, 51, of Toronto. He will take over July 1 from Kenneth P. Caple, who will retire this month. McGall has been acting general manager of the English-language network at Toronto.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has pledged the "continuation and development of the constructive cooperation which now exists between Canada and the Organization of American States and other institutions of the inter-American system."

But his message, to retiring Secretary-General Jose A. Mora of the 23-nation OAS, says nothing about the long-debated question of Canadian membership. Mora is from Uruguay.

A chair has been awaiting Canada since the OAS was formed 20 years ago and the U.S. last pressed Canadian membership in the late John F. Kennedy's address to the Canadian Parliament in 1961.

The Trudeau message does not elaborate on expansion of Canadian hemisphere involvement but is expected to be covered in the review of Canadian foreign policy now under way.

Trudeau has indicated he favors membership in the OAS but only after a policy independent of the U.S. has been evolved for the hemisphere.

The OAS was created as a regional organization within the United Nations framework and entrusted with hemisphere security. It has branched out increasingly into the fostering of social and economic development under the stimulus of the Alliance for Progress launched by President Kennedy.

Usual Canadian practice is to send observers to most OAS conferences.

HOTEL SUITE REPLACING CITY OFFICE?

Previously he had refused to tell reporters why the ex-highway minister had no quarters of any kind in the Legislative buildings.

"He requested that his former secretary, who is now Mr. Skillings' secretary, look after his telephone calls and Mr. Skillings agreed to this," the premier said after revealing Mr. Gaglardi did not want an office here.

The premier added he knew nothing about reports that Mr. Gaglardi still maintains a suite in the Hotel Vancouver at government expense.

Doctors Define Life And Death

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Medical Association has established a special committee to determine the definition of life and death, CMA President Dr. Norman J. Belliveau said Tuesday.

He said six doctors will be named to a special committee on the definition of death. The first meeting will be held within a month and a report is expected "by this time next year."

Dr. Belliveau discussed the move in an interview in which he also said the CMA annual meeting in Regina next month likely will discuss a Manitoba Medical Association recommendation last Saturday that doctors allow incurable patients to die peacefully.

Commenting on the MMA recommendation, approved at the provincial association's annual meeting in Winnipeg, Dr. Belliveau said: "I'm in favor of an open study of the whole question."

'Test Mental Health Annually'

VANCOUVER (CP) — People should have a mental health checkup every year as well as a physical one, the national director of the Canadian Mental Health Association, Dr. J. D. Griffin of Toronto said Monday.

Dr. Griffin told a news conference that about 30 per cent of Canadians show signs of mental illness.

He said a preventive approach is necessary in public mental health and called for a mental health survey.

"We empty mental hospitals in Canada but don't provide after care . . . it's dangerous," he said.

Dr. Griffin, in Vancouver for the annual meeting of the Canadian Public Health Association which opened today, said his chief concern is the "relative complacency" at all government levels and among the public at large toward mental illness and emotional - social disability.

Sluggish Kidneys May Bring Restless Nights

If you "fight the pillow", toss and turn all through the night and don't really know why — perhaps here's news and help for you! One cause of such restlessness may be traced to sluggish kidney action. Urinary irritation and bladder discomfort may follow. The result can be backache and restless nights. This is when Dodd's Kidney Pills can help bring relief. Dodd's stimulate kidney action, helps relieve the irritated condition that causes the backache. Take Dodd's, and see if you don't feel better, rest better. Used successfully by millions for over 70 years. New large size saves money.

B.C. Teachers Map Campaign

VANCOUVER (CP) — School teachers, angered by recent provincial government school financing legislation, are planning a door-to-door campaign against it in the Vancouver South riding, where a byelection is scheduled May 21.

Last month the teachers approved setting up a $60,000 fund at the annual convention of the British Columbia Teachers Federation to battle the government's controversial Bill 86.

The bill outlines broad revisions in school financing, placing more of the financial burden on municipalities and less onus on the provincial government.

BCTF spokesmen said Monday leaflets opposing the new formula will be distributed door-to-door in Vancouver South during the next few days by Vancouver-area teachers.

Education Minister Peterson threatened to remove the compulsory membership clause in legislation governing the BCTF if the teachers became actively involved in a campaign against Social Credit.

However, the teachers say they are not aiming their campaign against any specific political target

HORNE — In loving memory of my dear husband, Lt.-Cmdr. John G. B. Horne, who passed away May 8, 1957.
In my home he is fondly remembered.

We who love him in life sincerely
Love him in death just the same.
While he lies in peaceful sleep.
His memory we shall always keep.
—Always remembered by his loving wife, Mabel, and family.

LINTER — In ever loving remembrance of my dear Tom, passed on to rest May 8th, 1962.
The days they come,
the years go by;
Sunshine vanish,
shadows fall,
But sweet memories,
they outlast all.
—Always deeply missed by his wife, Betty.

MYCOCK—In loving memory of our Mom, Gladys Mycock who passed away May 8, 1967.
Dear Mom, you are not forgotten
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.

TERRIBLE TED . . . scoring points in 1966 bout in Ottawa

TERRIBLE TED'S HONOR DEFENDED IN COURTROOM

OTTAWA (CP) — "If I'd had two more minutes I'd have pinned him," disappointed bear wrestler John Szigeti was quoted in court Tuesday as saying just after a disputed bout with Terrible Ted, a 700-pound black bear.

The bout July 13, 1966, led to court action by Mr. Szigeti, a 220-pound former boxer, to recover a $3,000 prize offered anyone who could pin Terrible Ted to the mat. He claimed in court, with support from three witnesses, that he pinned the bear for 15 seconds.

Bob Labelle, sports editor of the French-language newspaper Le Droit, testified that Mr. Szigeti used the words to him when he picked up his belongings after the match. Mr Labelle was ring announcer and timekeeper.

Mr. Szigeti's claim against sports promotor Howard Darwin is being heard by a six-man jury before Judge Archibald M. Carter.

Kenneth A. (Tiger) Tasker, a former wrestler who refereed the bout, testified that at no time did Mr. Szigeti deck Terrible Ted.

He said he'd wrestled Ted himself seven or eight times and refereed 75 or 80 bouts between the bear and challengers and never saw Ted beaten.

One such bout, he said, was with professional wrestler Yukon Eric who lasted four minutes in the ring.

"After that he got out of the ring and said 'that's it, I've had it.'"

Terrible Ted, about 12 years old had his front claws removed and was missing his front teeth. But he had teeth in back.

"He could crush a finger or bite it off," Mr. Tasker said. Of his own encounters with Terrible Ted, Mr. Tasker told the jury:

"I was always afraid of it. I never could pin it. It had too much power."

TRIED CHOKING

He said Mr. Szigeti tried to choke Terrible Ted who fell on the challenger near the ropes. The bear's muzzle came loose.

Kenneth McDonald, manager of the security squad at the park where the bout took place, testified he had not seen the bear on its back.

He said the bear's handler removed the muzzle. He and Mr. Tasker both said they smelled liquor on Mr. Szigeti's breath.

Philip Youngman, curator of mammals at the National Museum, demonstrated with the aid of a bear's skeleton what part of the animal would touch the floor if the bear were thrown.

He said in his opinion it would be easier to push a bear backwards off its feet than a human. Bears were less steady on their feet and had poor eyesight.

Judge Carter was expected to charge the jury today after summations by the lawyers.

North Ignored, Says MLA

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP) — The Social Credit MLA for South Peace River Monday blasted the provincial government, chambers of commerce and lower mainland newspapers for apparent lack of interest in development going on in the Yukon and northern British Columbia.

Don Phillips, just returned from a tour of the area, said neither the provincial government nor the Vancouver Board of Trade was aware of the development going on in northern B.C. and the Yukon.

"The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and Alberta provincial government are beating us to the punch and they will be reaping the advantages right under our noses," he said.

Mr. Phillips also critized Vancouver newspapers which, he said, had "their heads in the sand" when it comes to printing northern news.

'TEACHERS JUMP GUN' —TRUSTEE

DUNCAN—Cowichan School board chairman Joseph Frumento Monday charged local teachers with "jumping the gun" in support of board clerical staff.

Both board and 30 clerical workers are awaiting a government supervised strike vote after the board's rejection of a 13.5 per cent salary award to 18 full-time staff by a conciliation officer.

Saturday the Cowichan District Teachers' Association said if a strike ensued and the board employed strike-breakers the teachers will withdraw their services.

Mr. Frumento said: "The board is not in the habit of bringing in strikebreakers and the teachers' letter is strongly worder considering the present circumstances."

STRIKE ACTION FAVORED BY PORT ALBERNI UNION

Employees at all seven Port Alberni hotels have voted in favor of strike action, a union spokesman saud today.

The union-conducted vote was 54-to-4 in favor of a strike said Dave Ferguson of Victoria, business agent for Local 835 of the Beverage Dispensers and Culinary Workers Union.

He indicated the next step will be to request a labor department-supervised strike vote "if we can't open negotiations again with hotel representatives."

Last month, hotel workers rejected a concilation officer's recommendation of an extra 55 cents for tapmen and 35 cents for waiters over three years. Present rates are $2 for waiters and $2.30 for tapmen.

Mr. Ferguson said union members want parity with people doing the same work in the Lower Mainland and a common contract expiry. The mainland rate in an agreement expiring in 1970 will provide, by the end, $2.95 for tapmen and $2.39 for waiters.

Don't Sniff at Herbs

By HILDA BEASTALL

Every day use of herbs is as old as the art of cooking food, yet today too many homemakers consider it a fad to be sniffed at.

Hilda

Others dismiss the idea with the "I don't go in for spices" attitude.

Being interested in good food and in plants, I have for years grown herbs in the garden for use in cooking as well as for enjoyment of their fragrance.

Here on the Pacific where we may have fresh herbs from the hardy plants every week of the year, there is no excuse for flavorless food. Whether we grow our supply of vegetables and fruits, or buy them, fresh herbs will add to their goodness.

As we enjoy our food, so, in proportion does it nourish us.

The perennial and invasive roots of mint and lemon balm are two common herbs to be used in many ways other than with lamb and in summer drinks. Young tip growths in spring add distinctive flavor to vegetable soups, and to sour cream and yogurt dressings for salads.

To prevent these two plants from becoming garden nuisances, plant them in bottomless pails sunk to the rim in rich soil. Reset every third year with the youngest pieces of root.

A few tiny leaves of thyme cut with scissors into hot meat juices will lessen the need for additional salt, and the gravy will be so delicious that thickening with flour can be omitted.

For entirely different flavors in salads of summer and early fall, sow a half dozen kinds of annual herbs now. A few seeds sown into a well cultivated sunny patch of ground will give the makings for many a summer meal to be remembered by family and guests.

Dill (use the young green tips), marjoram, borage, summer savory and chervil will make a good beginning. Sweet basil must wait until June for sowing. It needs more day warmth and at least mild nights, particularly in the young stage.

Annoyance Can Cause Illness

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A man was just telling me doctors cannot find anything wrong with him, but every so often he feels as if he had had a little stroke; then, for a while he feels ill. He had the wisdom to start off by telling me something which, from past experience with people, I know is very important: He says he never has like his job, but because of his financial responsibility to a wife and children he has not dared to resign, and try to change to something else.

Alvarez

Such a background of dissatisfaction with life and the day's work causes many people to explode over little annoyances and to do this with such violence that afterward, perhaps for hours, they are upset and angry with themselves. Sometimes the person will say to me that to explode in anger is upsetting enough, but to be disgusted with oneself for not having had enough control to behave sensibly makes for much more distress.

This man tells me any annoying argument that is too greatly prolonged, or any bothersome disagreement with someone over what he is doing, or any criticism from the boss, or curiously, sometimes any change in the routine of work, or even a bit of bad news, can upset him.

* * *

Also, the man says so truly that often one annoyance he might stand, but two annoyances, one right after another, like the prizefighter's right blow to the jaw and then a crashing left blow to the jaw, are too much. Perhaps just before leaving home his wife annoyed him in some way; and then on reaching his office, he found a nasty letter from someone, or found he had lost a big order, and the two blows knocked him out.

This man's story interests me much because he says often after the mental blow (or blows) he gets a pain in his chest and back which may last three or four days, and during this time he feels blue and depressed and tired — as if he were ill. The only medicine that relieves him is a drink of whisky or a cocktail. Alcohol is often a good tranquilizer — but obviously, the dose must not be run up.

* * *

The best way I have ever found of getting rid of a bit of depression such as rarely comes my way is to go hard to work, and especially to try to help someone else who is sad and has mental trouble. Such an effort cures me in a few minutes.

To show how badly a little annoyance can knock out some people, I have had men in the office who for months had been traveling about the country trying to get cured of spells of fever. Always, on turning to the wife, I found the spells came shortly after the man had lost his temper over some annoyance. Often then he fell out with a customer and lost a sale.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Elizabeth Locher, age 12, of Chippewa, Ontario, for her question:

Why do we skip a leap year every century?

We are well into the Space Age and every young space ager knows that leap years are related to space. This year of 1968 happens to be one of these special leap years and lots of bright-eyed Andy readers want the details delineated once and for all. But, alas, the details of time and space are extremely complex.

Last week, Andy reported that the length of the solar year is 365 days, five hours, 49 minutes and 45.575 seconds. This is the estimated time it takes the earth to complete its 600,000 million mile orbit around the sun. It is, of course, the year on which we base our calendar. This year of 1968 has 366 daily dates, one more than each of the three years that precede it. No, the earth did not choose this year to dawdle on a more leisurely trip around the sun. As usual, its orbital speed in January when it is closest to the sun, was a trifle faster. And, as usual, its average orbital speed throughout the year was 18½ miles per second.

Nor was the length of the days shortened to make room for an extra one. Throughout 1968 and every other year, the average time it takes the earth to rotate once on its axis is about four minutes less than 24 hours. We cannot account for the leap year problem by any changes in the daily rotation or in the yearly revolution of the earth. But those figures on the lengths of the day and the solar year have given you a clue to the tantalizing problem. The length of the day cannot be divided neatly into the length of the year.

At a glance you can see that there are 365 whole days in the solar year, the number of calendar days in each non-leap year. This leaves almost, but not quite, a quarter day of the solar year that is not accounted for and in four years of 365 days our calendar is almost a whole day behind the solar year. So every fourth year we add an extra day to the calendar. Leap year dates are divisible by four. Since 1968 can be divided by four it is a leap year of 366 days. If the solar year were exactly 365¼ days, this system would be perfect. But it happens to be approximately 11 minutes, 14½ seconds shorter.

New Calendar

Every leap year inches our calendar slightly ahead of true solar time. However, it takes about 400 years to gain a whole day. So we do not need to skip a leap year with every century. In 1582, it was decided to skip the usual extra day in centennial years that are divisible by 400. The last centennial year was 1900, a number divisible by four but not by 400. It was a leap year. The next centennial year of 2000 can be divided by 400. Though it can be divided by four, it will be a non-leap year. Our leap year system is almost accurate. It will take about 4,000 years to become off schedule by a whole day.

This remote problem can be settled in the 6500's A.D. But we have some more immediate calendar problems to settle for ourselves. The days and months of our cumbersome calendar are in need of reform. The modern world needs a streamlined calendar of equal months and quarter years. Several sensible systems have been suggested and it is high time that mankind agreed on one of them and updated his antiquated calendar. It is likely, however, that the economical, time-saving calendar of the future will continue to use our workable leap year system.

Andy sends a 14" World Book Globe to Nancy Congress, age 10, of Peoria, Illinois, for her question:

When did the Olympics first begin?

The ancient Greeks set a very high value on physical fitness. And it was these ancient Greeks who started the Olympic Games. The contests were held on the plain of Olympia, surrounded by wooded Mediterranean isles and lofty mountain peaks. The first games were started early in human history and through the centuries they grew in fame and importance. There are no written records of the earliest Olympic Games and we cannot say when they first began. But the time was several thousand years ago.

As the Greeks became famous in the civilized world, so did their games. People came from far and wide to participate in the contests and the winners were regarded as heroes. At long last, someone thought of reporting the great athletic events. The earliest record we have dates back to the Olympic Games held in the year 776 B.C.

Indian Fishing Aid Plan Rapped

Spend Money on Fisheries Not Equipment Says Unionist

VANCOUVER (CP) — Indian Affairs Minister Arthur Laing would have done better to spend money on building fisheries than starting a $4,600,000 program to help Indian fishermen, a fishermen's union spokesman said Monday.

George North, information officer of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, was commenting on Mr. Laing's plan announced Monday to help British Columbia's Indian fishermen.

Mr. North said: "I'm sure my union and myself want the Indian fishermen to have the best equipment they can get, but this is a sick industry and the real problem is that there are fewer and fewer fish."

CATCHES DECLINE

He said the herring, halibut, and salmon catches have been declining over the past few years.

Commenting on the new plan, Mr. North said it is good if it means more Indian fishermen will be able to purchase their own boats and modern tackle.

"But it won't improve their plight one bit if this new move is concentrated on renovating old boats owned by fishing companies which employ Indians, or encourages more fishermen to come into the industry."

The plan, which should be operational by the fall, will provide $3,500,000 in federal funds to upgrade the standard, efficiency and mobility of the 1,075-vessel Indial fishing fleet in B.C., said Mr. Laing.

A further $210,000 will go toward improvement of fishing equipment aboard Indian-owned vessels, while $750,000 will be spent on shore facilities at selected Indian villages.

Special training courses for Indians are also proposed to teach Indians to handle fishing boats and maintain electronic equipment.

Peterson, Watson To Speak

Education Minister Peterson will be banquet speaker at the second annual convention of B.C. adult education directors opening at the Imperial Inn Thursday.

Joining Mr. Peterson on the three-day program will be free-lance broadcaster and professor Patrick Watson, former co-host of the controversial This Hour Has Seven Days, and Frank Beinder, president of the B.C. School Trustees Association.

Theme of the conference is: the social implications of adult education.

First president of the B.C. Association of Adult Education Directors is Jack Dalgleish, director of adult education for the Greater Victoria school board.

The association's annual general meeting will be held Thursday and Dr. Bert Wales, director of adult education for the Vancouver school board, will deliver the keynote address Friday.

Mr. Beinder will speak at the Friday luncheon and Mr. Watson on Saturday morning. The education minister will address the meeting after the Saturday night dinner.

With the exception of the general meeting Thursday, the convention program, which includes panel debates, is open to anyone interested in adult education.

Driver's Medical Suggested

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday he does not favor a proposal for a law requiring doctors to inform authorities about physical or mental ailments that affect patients' ability to drive.

The proper way to meet any such problem, he said in an interview, would be to require all drivers to have a medical examination to prove their fitness.

The medical advisory committee of the Canadian Highway Safety Council proposed the medical reporting law at the council's annual meeting in Victoria Monday. Such legislation already is in effect in Ontario and is being considered by the Quebec legislature.

'Appeal To Young Drivers'

Accident prevention programs are aimed at the wrong target, B.C. Safety Council youth division was told Tuesday.

Brian Doutaz of Vancouver, a former chairman, told a meeting in the Empress Hotel 99 per cent of safety campaigns are beamed at persons over 25.

The target should be younger Canadians, he said.

"Very few persons over 25 will change their habits," said Mr. Doutaz. "Most are lethargic, indifferent and apathetic."

He said driving is the worst feature with young people.

"They make up 15 per cent of the driving population, and cause 30 per cent of the accidents."

Mr. Doutaz said safety programs can't succeed without the support of the younger generation.

Obstruction Case Going To Trial May 24

Charles Barber, 18, and Gunnar Cordsen, 19, will be tried May 24.

Barber is a key member of the Victoria Youth Council and Cordsen is a first year University of Victoria student.

Both are represented by lawyer Marney Stevenson and are free on $500 bail.

They were arrested following the break-up of a large gathering of young people in the square. Eight policemen were involved in the incident.

Polar Bear Overkill Worries Naturalists

OSLO, Norway (Reuters)—Nobody knows exactly how many polar bears have survived in the Arctic. But, with a growing sophistication in hunting methods, the number is dropping.

Estimates suggest there are up to 17,000 polar bears in the Arctic. Each year, about 1,300 are killed—by hunters using snow-scooters, helicopters and planes and taking part in tourist "safaris."

Of these, about 500 are killed in the Spitzbergen and adjacent Arctic areas—too many, says Dr. Tore Gjelsvik, director of the Norwegian Polar Institute here.

Although Norway has banned snow-scooters, "safari" hunting is still permitted.

The real threat comes from Norwegians working in coal mines at Spitzbergen and at meteorological stations in the Arctic. They consider polar bear-hunting a sport and account for about 80 per cent of the bears killed annually.

To determine what effect this killing is having on the bear population, the animals' rate of reproduction needs to be known. Scientists from Canada, the United States, the Soviet Union, Norway and Denmark are trying to work out a formula to answer this question.

400 Dogs Vie For Ribbons This Weekend

More than 400 dogs will take part in an all-breed champion dog show sponsored by the Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers Association at the Esquimalt Sports Centre Friday and Saturday.

At 6:30 p.m. Saturday, the Greater Victoria Dog Obedience Club will put on a dog obedience display with 16 dogs taking part in several drills including retrieving, jumping and signal work.

There will also be a terrier specialty and junior handling on Saturday.

Judges are William Dawson of Saskatchewan and Albert Milne of Ontario.

HAYNES TELLS CLC:

'Unions to Defy Arbitration Law'

TORONTO (CP) — The British Columbia government will face wide-scale defiance from unions if it introduces compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, a provincial labor leader warned Tuesday.

Ray Haynes, secretary-treasurer of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, was speaking on the government's controversial Bill 33 at the Canadian Labor Congress convention here.

The bill would give the government the right to declare strikes or probable strikes to be against the public interest, and to submit them for compulsory arbitration.

"If Bill 33 goes through, we don't think any union in B.C. will feel bound by this law," Haynes said.

Another West Coast labor leader, William Stewart of the Shipyard and General Workers' Union, Vancouver, said passage of the bill would mean employers need only stall negotiations until the government steps in.

George McKnight of the International Woodworkers of America, Vancouver, said:

"This bill will not stop strikes. It will only make them more difficult.

"It will result in more injunctions more jail sentences for union leaders, but it will not stop the progress of labor unions."

The convention voted to direct the Congress' executive council to give full support to the British Columbia federation's attempt to block the passage of Bill 33.

CLC Presses For Action On Medicare

TORONTO (CP) — Federal and provincial governments face stepped-up pressure from the Canadian Labor Congress to provide complete medical and dental care and drug price controls.

The congress voted in convention Tuesday to continue efforts "until medicare programs have been introduced in every province covering the whole of the people of Canada."

A policy statement criticized the federal government for "the damage it has done since it effectively discouraged most of the provinces" from taking advantage of the Medical Care Act, which takes effect July 1 this year.

COST CHALLENGED

"The congress challenges the assertion made by the minister of the federal government that implementation of the Medical Care Act by the provinces would result in an extraordinary increase in costs to the taxpayer," the statement said.

It is not a wholly new cost, but simply transfers payments from private to public programs, and this would also be true of other health care services such as drugs, the statement said.

As a temporary measure until free drug distribution is implemented, the convention voted to press for immediate drug services for old age pensioners.

Individual delegates speaking on the medical care issue criticized the Canadian Medical Association as "the biggest closed-shop union in Canada."

Saanich Police Add 3rd Film To Program

A third film has been added to the Saanich Police Safety program.

Hurry, Hurry, Hurry adds a lighter touch to a program made bluntly realistic by the films Mechanized Death and the David Hall Story.

All showings are in the Saanich courthouse in the police-fire building on Vernon Ave. Reservations can be made by phoning 388-4321.

RACE BARS SUPPORTED, POLL SHOWS

LONDON (AP) — Three out of every four Britons agree with Enoch Powell that colored immigration should be banned, a Gallup Poll published Tuesday indicates.

Powell also took the lead as the most popular potential successor to Edward Heath as leader of the Conservative party. Heath fired Powell from the party high command after Powell's controversial racial speech April 20.

Seventy-four per cent said they agreed "with what Mr. Powell said in his speech on colored immigrants."

Powell was the choice of 24 per cent as a potential successor to Heath. He had gotten only 1 per cent in mid-April, just before his speech.

Driver Given $250 Penalty

Police gave John Rogers, 3834 Hobbs, a roadside suspension early Saturday after they said they observed him speeding and driving in an erratic manner on Lansdowne.

He parked the car and the officers drove him home.

He then took his wife's car and drove to the Oak Bay police station.

Rogers told the court he did not believe he was unable to drive.

"It's outrageous and inexplicable why you're so self-righteous," said Magistrate Ostler. "Some people don't know when they are lucky. The police were trying to protect your licence."

Stanley Cameron, 2921 Dickerson Place, was fined $150 for driving while his licence was suspended.

Police said they observed him driving on Mt. View Ave. March 27. His licence was suspended earlier for impaired driving.

Novel Features in Victoria Regatta

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Variations on a theme are always intriguing. And when the theme is an international sailing regatta, you can be sure there's plenty of excitement in store.

Hewett

The Victoria Regatta, which will be held on the long May 20th weekend, is a brand new event in Pacific Northwest yachting circles.

Victoria Regina, after whom both the city of Victoria and the Royal Victoria Yacht Club are named, was born on May 24th, 1819. This year's Victoria Regatta, (which carries the same initials) marks the 149th anniversary of the Sovereign Queen.

The three-day event is the first major meet of the 1968 summer season.

Its main innovations will come in the selection of the racing courses, particularly for the larger sailing yachts. To encourage spectator participation, the circuits will be set to follow the shoreline, and take advantage of the viewpoints along the route.

NEW COURSES

Particular thought has been given to choosing brand new courses. (for example, it is planned to have one mark in Ross Bay). And in this connection, to use the many reefs and islets off Cadboro Bay and Oak Bay as marks of the course. (Victoria is unique in the northwest as far as offshore rock is concerned.)

Smaller centreboard boats will probably race a triangle in Cadboro Bay which can be easily observed from Cattle Point.

Another departure from tradition is the approach toward trophies. Instead of the usual presentation of mugs, the awards will be crafted in teak and stainless steel, for practical use on board ship.

As well as a series prize for each class, there will be individual race prizes for the winning skippers who weren't able to participate in all three racing days.

As it is held only two weeks prior to Swiftsure, the meet should attract a number of the large yachts which will be staying over for the June 1 and 2 weekend racing.

As well as handicap races scored on the CCA rating system, one-design class divisions will be available for such groups as the Cubs, Sharks, Haidas, Thunderbirds, Cal 20's, Fireballs, Enterprises, O.K. Dinghies, 420's, and Six Metres.

Locally, the Royal Canadian Sailing Association, Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and Turkey Head Sailing Association will all be represented.

Races are scheduled for the afternoon of Saturday, May 18th; all day Sunday, and morning racing and prize-giving on the Monday.

Sunday evening's highlight will be the Horne Trophy Handicap Race, which starts the slowest boats first. Using this system, theoretically, all boats should finish together. In any event, the finish can be spectacular, especially since it usually involves a spinnaker run.

Hosted by the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, the Victoria Regatta is being organized by general chairman, D. O. T. "Rocky" Rochfort. The outer courses will be run by Sid Halls, while Lyle Russell is in charge of the centreboarders. Dick Readshaw is in charge of Foreshore, and Ed Bell will look after catering.

'SHIFT BURDEN OF SCHOOL COSTS'

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress has called on the provincial and federal governments to take on the full burden of financing education, to ensure equal education opportunities across Canada.

Resolutions passed at the congress' constitutional convention Tuesday called for immediate government action to relieve the municipal taxpayer of the cost of education.

"Most of the money for education now comes from local governments, and this is wrong," said Walter Jacobs, representing the Vancouver Shipyard Workers' Union.

"Only a rich community can afford to build good schools; a poorer community is forced to send its children to school on a swing-shift basis," he said.

Another Vancouver delegate, William Stewart of the Marine Workers' Federation, said a federal schooling system is the only way to ensure equal education opportunities across Canada.

"And when we speak of education we are speaking of Canada's future leaders," he said. "We don't want our leaders to come from only one part of Canada."

Delegates stressed the provincial and federal governments should not simply place the burden back on the individual taxpayer by introducing an extra sales tax to finance education.

A new tax, if necessary, should be imposed on business, they said.

The congress also deplored the reported cancellation of the external aid department's program to assist foreign trade unionists studying in Canada.

Delegates urged the CLC executive committee to press for reinstatement of this program, and for the development of correspondence courses for Canadians unable to use conventional school facilities.

'WEED OUT INCOMPETENTS'

Contractors Want Masonry Trade Test

Vancouver Island masonry contractors were told Tuesday to apply to the provincial government for regulations to govern their trade.

The contractors had asked Victoria city council to assist them in establishing a qualifications board in an attempt to weed-out unqualified workmen claiming to be experts in the masonry field.

The public works committee, studying the application, was informed by city solicitor T. P. O'Grady, that such a regulatory board was beyond the city's power.

City manager Dennis Young noted that the provincial government had recently brought into being a trades qualifications act but had not yet extended it to the field of bricklaying or masonry work.

BEYOND POWERS

"While we may be in sympathy with this request it is beyond the city's power to do anything about it," Mr. Young said. "All we can do is advise them to make application to the provincial government and ask that the trades qualifications act be extended to bricklayers."

The masonry contractors said they were asking for tighter control of their trade in the light of many complaints from citizens regarding shoddy work.

"There are, to date, no suitable means by which an owner can obtain information as to the honesty and competency of any particular person who may hold himself out as a qualified masonry contractor," the contractors brief stated.

"As a result, certain incompetent and dishonest persons are carrying on masonry work within municipalities with a municipal licence for the various jobs."

The contractors sought permission to establish a three-man advisory board which would recommend the granting or withholding of trades licences.

AMONG QUEBEC GROUPS

Sovereignty Drive Stalled

LEVESQUE
. . . meets opposition

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Levesque is working hard to form a cohesive sovereignty movement out of major separatist factions in Quebec, but there are already signs of strain.

The issue creating most of the tension is what to do with English-speaking residents of the proposed French-language republic.

Mr. Levesque, former Quebec welfare minister who quit the Liberal party last fall to organize his sovereignty movement, generally endorses a "fair play" policy toward the English-speaking minority.

He has said that English-language schools should continue to be supported by public funds.

But he has run into strong opposition from two key figures—Francois Aquin, a leading light in the sovereignty movement who, like Mr. Levesque, quit the Liberals to sit in the legislature as an independent; and Pierre Bourgault, leader of the separatist party with which Mr. Levesque hoped to form a coalition.

BLASTS STAND

Mr. Bourgault, chief of the Rassemblement pour l'independance nationale, blasted Mr. Levesque Monday for his stand on English-language schools.

Speaking at a rally in suburban St. Leonard, Mr. Bourgault called for unilingual French schools to prevent assimilation of New Canadians into the English-language stream.

If the RIN leader holds tenaciously to this position, it would be a definite blow to Mr. Levesque's plans to form a coalition with the separatist party.

Mr. Levesque's Mouvement Souverainete-Association envisages an independent Quebec, associated with the rest of Canada in an economic union.

At a recent strategy session of the MSA, terms were discussed for a merger of the two groups and a convention was called for next November from which it was hoped a major separatist party would emerge, made up of the MSA and the RIN.

ISSUE CAUSES CLASH

Mr. Aquin, a supporter of French-language unilingualism, clashed openly with Mr. Levesque on the subject at the session.

Mr. Levesque came out on top and members voted in support of continued grants to English-language schools in the proposed republic.

But the issue caused bitterness between Levesque loyalists and Aquin supporters, many of whom carry RIN membership cards in their pockets.

The suggestion of a split within the sovereignty movement gained strength last weekend when Mr. Aquin did not appear at a further strategy session held in the Laurentians north of Montreal.

Mr. Aquin, a former president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, said he was absent because of illness.

Editor Seeking Artists

The editor of a well-known architectural magazine will be in Victoria this month to assess local artists and search for new talent.

A cross-country search to evaluate work of Canadian artists presently collaborating with architects in the embellishment of buildings and other projects is being made by Anita Aarons, Allied Arts Editor of "Architecture Canada," the journal of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada.

Miss Aarons, who also is looking for new artists capable of working in this field, will be in Victoria May 22 to May 24.

Anyone interested in contacting her should call R. W. Siddall, Siddall Dennis and Associates, Architects, 610 Royal Trust Building, 386-4261.

The results of the tour will be published in Vol. 2 of the Allied Arts Catalogue also published by the Architectural Institute.

VALUED LISTING

The Allied Arts Catalogue is a working tool for architects and others concerned in the commissioning of works of art—sculpture, murals and fine craft for public, institutions, commercial buildings and private residences.

Volume 1, published in 1966, contained the work of 48 artists. Each is represented by one page of illustrations indicative of his scope, a brief biography and description and location of each work shown.

The first reference book of its kind, the Allied Arts Catalogue remains the only organized source of information on artists whose work might be considered for inclusion in architectural schemes.

Miss Aarons, in addition to being a critic and commentator on art in relation to architecture, is herself a well-known sculptor and jewelry designer.

DOG IS NEW STAR

A Great Dane named Giant will appear with Steve McQueen and Robert Vaughn in Bullit now being filmed in San Francisco.

Cuba Refugees Saved

MIAMI, Fla. (Reuters) — A Cypriot tanker picked up 13 Cuban refugees adrift in a 19-foot boat about 150 miles south of here Monday, the U.S. Coast Guard said. Authorities said the refugees were in good condition when they were transferred from the tanker New Lane to the coast guard cutter Point Thatcher.

NIGERIAN PEACE TALKS IN KAMPALA

LONDON (UPI) — Both sides of the Nigerian civil war agreed today to hold peace talks in Kampala, the capital of Uganda, an authoritative Commonwealth diplomatic source said.

After daylong separate consultation with Commonwealth secretary-general Arnold Smith federal Nigeria's representative, commissioner for information Chief Anthony Enahoro, and Biafra's Chief Justice Sir Louis Mbanefo met at Smith's private residence to discuss under whose auspices the peace talks should be held and possibly name of the chairman.

A decision on this was expected later Wednesday.

Canada's Waffling 'Humiliating'

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield charged today the federal government has done "nothing" since February to get on with discussions on the constitution.

Since the encouraging federal-provincial conference at that time, problems have been allowed to slip and the government has been improvising responses to touchy situations, Mr. Stanfield told a news conference.

The federal reaction to Quebec's attendance at educational conferences in Gabon and Paris was typical.

"There was a strong response after Gabon. We don't know about France but it appears to be something different."

The inconsistent federal line is "humiliating," Mr. Stanfield said.

He called for release of the contents of the secret diplomatic note Canada sent to the French government over Quebec's status among the national delegations at the education conference.

CRITICIZES TRUDEAU

Mr. Stanfield also criticized statements by Prime Minister Trudeau and others to the effect that Quebec delegates could have represented Canada at the conference if they had sought such an arrangement with Ottawa.

Converting a Quebec delegation into a Canadian one "surely would be a laugh," Mr. Stanfield said.

Quebec could not represent the other provinces.

The machinery of a federal-provincial constitutional committee had been set up in February and it should be working on this sort of problem.

"As far as I can see nothing has happened. There may be officials working in some dark hole in the East Block, but as

Wider Range Hinted In Paris Peace Talks

LEADER of North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks, Col. Ha Van Lao, centre, arrives in French capital Tuesday. Discussions with United States envoys are scheduled to get under way Friday.

French Minister Makes Forecast

PARIS (AP)—Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France expressed the view today the United States and North Vietnam will hold broad talks in Paris on ending the Vietnam war and not limit their contacts to halting U.S. bombing of the North.

Couve de Murville told a French cabinet meeting it is his understanding the conference, tentatively scheduled to open Friday, will consist of both preliminary talks and true negotiations. He said there are no plans to change the conference site or the negotiating teams for the two stages.

REMARKS REPORTED

When Hanoi proposed Paris for the preliminary talks it said they should be "to determine with the U.S. side the unconditional cessation of the U.S. bombing raids and all other acts of war" against North Vietnam. Then, Hanoi said, talks would be held "on other problems of concern to the two sides."

Couve de Murville's remarks to the cabinet came as U.S. and North Vietnamese officials, with the French assisting, went ahead with technical arrangements for the meetings.

A few hours later North Vietnam formally approved the centre for the preliminary talks. The United States earlier had accepted the site.

SUPERPORT

Laing Threat 'Repudiated,' Says Bennett

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today the federal Liberal government had "repudiated" statements by Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing that the federal government would expropriate provincial lands if necessary in the Roberts Bank superport development.

Mr. Bennett told a press conference here that he had received a communication from Ottawa today and "I'm certain that Mr. Laing does not speak for the federal government in making a wild statement of this nature."

Mr. Laing was quoted Tuesday as saying "We are proceeding on a determination that Roberts Bank is going to be a harbors board of the Government of Canada. The provincial government has no stake in the actual port facility. But the Canadian National Railways or the federal government can expropriate any land it needs . . . including provincial land."

Mr. Bennett said Mr. Laing's comment was "an ill-considered statement for a federal cabinet minister."

"I'm sure the wild statement of Mr. Laing's does not represent the view of (Transport Minister) Mr. Hellyer."

"Word has been sent through this morning," the premier added. "I'm not saying who."

"I doubt that Mr. Laing's statement has endeared him to the federal Liberal party."

British Columbia has repeatedly said it wants to share jurisdiction over the entire port development with the federal government.

Mr. Bennett said that while the actual jurisdiction question still remains to be settled, both provincial and federal technical people were continuing studies

STUDENTS ON RUN

Paris Rioting In Third Day

By SANFORD J. UNGAR

PARIS (UPI) — Police today slammed canisters of tear gas into Left Bank sidewalk restaurants to flush out students rioting for the third day in the heart of Paris.

The rioters, some with goggles to protect them from the tear gas and the acrid smoke from street bonfires, scrambled into the restaurants to escape advancing lines of club-swinging police.

Red Cross officials said more than 60 persons were hurt badly enough to be hospitalized and more were treated on the spot. Another 700 persons were hurt in a bloody day of violence Monday.

Rubble from clashes Tuesday littered Paris from the Sorbonne university to the tomb of the unknown soldier where demonstrators waved little red flags and sang a Communist anthem.

The "Communist Internationale" reverbrated against the walls of the building where talks are expected to begin soon between the United States and North Vietnam, only 300 yards from the tomb, and officials were increasingly concerned that the riots would disrupt the talks.

Police made no move to interfere when about 10,000 marchers arrived at the Arch of Triumph and the tomb, lit by floodlights and a flame rekindled nightly by veterans of the dwindling "army of ghosts" who held Verdun.

TEARFUL VETS

The sight brought tears to the eyes of some of the veterans, watching from a distance as the students waved red flags over the flame and covered the floodlights, plunging the monument in darkness.

Later several thousand of the demonstrators streamed back down the Champ Elysees and across the River Seine to again battle riot police in the Latin quarter, home of 700-year-old Sorbonne University where student power riots were born.

The students protested university policies at the Sorbonne and at a suburban extension. The protests led officials to close the university's doors Monday.

Later the students were joined by striking postal workers, taxi drivers and sometimes by high school students.

Heart Recipient Dies But Organ Unimpaired

By PRESTON F. KIRK

HOUSTON (UPI) — James C. Cobb, second of Houston's three heart transplant recipients, died today of the anti-rejection drugs used to make his body tolerate his new heart. The heart was still working and Dr. Denton A. Cooley said he had briefly considered using it again.

"It sounds like science fiction," said Cooley, head of the heart transplant surgical team at St. Luke's Hospital. "But the heart itself had apparently not suffered."

Cooley said the death of the Alexandria, La., salesman could be "directly related" to the drugs used to control the rejection phenomenon.

He said doctors finally decided not to transplant the heart to some other person because they feared that the disease which had infected Cobb's kidneys and liver might have tainted it.

Cobb Sunday received the heart of Joseph Brannon, a 15-year-old killed in a motorcycle-automobile accident.

OTHERS PROGRESS

Everett C. Thomas, 47, of Phoenix, Arizona., who recieved a new heart in the first operation last Friday, and John M. Stuckwish, an Alpine, Tex., hospital administrator who received a transplanted heart Tuesday, were reported in "satisfactory" condition.

The Stuckwish operation was more ticklish than the others. Stuckwish, the 12th person in the world to receive a transplanted heart, was medically dead on the operating table.

But Dr. Denton A. Cooley and his surgical team, who were giving him the heart of Clarence Nicks, 26, sped up their work and got the heart in place and beating.

NATO RAPPED FOR ARMING PORTUGAL

TEHRAN (Reuters) — A committee of the United Nations conference on human rights today accused NATO members of arming Portugal for suppression of rebellion in its African territories, and called on African countries with NATO bases to deny them to the alliance.

The attack on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was contained in an African and Communist-backed resolution on colonialism which a committee on racial discrimination approved by 52 votes to one, with 20 abstentions.

Accelerated Fighting 'Concerns' U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. delegation is set for Paris peace contacts with Hanoi negotiators but in Washington officials expressed concern that what they termed accelerated North Vietnamese military activity could force American retaliation.

The six-member American diplomatic team, headed by Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman is to leave for Paris Thursday. North Vietnam's delegation began arriving there Tuesday.

Ha Van Lao, adviser to chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy, said he is optimistic about propects but did not elaborate.

Sargent Shriver, just sworn in as U.S. ambassador to Paris, is hurrying to his new post a few days ahead of schedule in order to be on hand for the peace contacts.

Despite the approach of preliminary talks, U.S. officials said, record troop infiltration from the North into South Vietnam has been noted.

These officials also said they are concerned about a new wave of Viet Cong attacks on Saigon and other South Vietnamese cities.

Canadian Student Jailed by Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Canadian student has been arrested in the Soviet central Asian city of Tashkent on drug smuggling charges, the Canadian embassy said today.

An embassy spokesman said the Soviet foreign ministry identified the youth as William Layseed, 21. It said he was believed to have been born in France.

The spokesman said Layseed was arrested Sunday when the plane carrying him from Aighanistan with a student group stopped over in Tashkent. He was arrested during a customs search and has been jailed, he said.

Pump Problems Stall Mine Rescue

(From Times News Services)

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. — Efforts to rescue 25 men trapped inside a flooded soft coal mine were delayed today by difficulties with a high-speed water pump.

Officials had hoped to install the pump, capable of draining 2,500 gallons of water a minute, by midday. But they found they could not install the pump in an unused ground opening as planned and had to begin drilling a new hole.

"We probably won't be able to get the pump working until six o'clock tomorrow morning," said C. E. Richardson, president of Maust Coal and Coke Co., owners of the Gauley No. 8.

Earlier, with smaller pumps in operation, officials hoped for an imminent rescue of 15 of the 25 entombed miners.

DRILLS BREAKDOWN

While rescue workers manned water pumps, a huge drill bored through a wall of earth and coal in an adjacent abandoned mine in an effort to provide an opening to the trapped men. Periodic breakdowns in the drilling machine stalled the process.

"They are not moving as rapidly as we had hoped," mine official H. E. Sundstrom said. "It now looks like a good bet that we'll get the water down long before they cut through from the other side. But we're still continuing from both ends."

Telephone contact was maintained with the 15 miners. The 10 others had not been heard from since the entombment and were feared dead.

Twelve SCUBA divers were at the scene but there was no immediate decision on whether they would attempt to swim through the flooded area to the miners.

The horizontal passageway, only three feet high in places and descending gently for two miles, has been filled with water since the wall of an adjoining abandoned mine burst.

WIVES ON PHONE

The wives of two miners trapped two days, talked to their husbands early today by radio-telephone.

"Are you cold?" she asked.

"How's your head and nose?"

Mrs. Ottie Junior Walton asked her husband whether he was "keeping warm and dry."

Both men reported they were in good condition and anxiously awaiting rescue.

Meanwhile, the fate of 10 other miners farther back in the mine remained unknown. They have not been heard from since tons of water poured into the mine Monday during drilling operations.

ELECTION ROUNDUP

TV Debate Shaping; Stanfield Accepts

OTTAWA (UPI)—Conservative Party Leader Robert Stanfield Tuesday accepted arrangements by the Canadian Television Network (CTV) for a national "live broadcast confrontation" with Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

The debate broadcast offer was made by the CTV network shortly after Trudeau dissolved Parliament April 23 and set a June 25 date for a national Canadian election.

Conservative national campaign chairman Edwin Goodman announced the Stanfield decision after meeting Monday with CTV president Murray Chercover and Charles Templeton, director of public affairs for the network.

Goodman said Stanfield accepted the debate arrangements in the belief it would "facilitate an understanding of the issues by the Canadian people."

The arrangements, Goodman said, included the televised debate being made freely available to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation—the publicly-owned network—and all other broadcasting outlets in Canada with simultaneous translation in both the official languages of English and French.

Prime Minister Trudeau has not yet announced whether he will enter the debate, which would be the first such television encounter in Canadian political history.

Trudeau set down one condition—that of the two languages—when asked at a news conference last week if he would take part.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three Social Credit MPs in the last House have announced they will not follow former party leader Robert Thompson in seeking election as Conservatives June 25.

The three are Alex Patterson, who was the member for Fraser Valley; Bert Leboe, Cariboo, and Howard Johnston, Okanagan-Revelstoke. They were the only British Columbia Social Crediters in the last House.

INDIAN HEAD, Sask. (CP) — The Saskatchewan Social Credit party announced Tuesday it will leave the fielding of candidates for the June 25 federal election to the individual constituencies.

The announcement was a reversal of one made earlier this month by Social Credit Leader Lloyd Avram who said the party would try to field a full slate of candidates.

PEMBROKE, Ont. (CP) — An NDP candidate in Renfrew North in the 1965 general election has announced he will seek the Conservative nomination this time because of Conservative Leader Stanfield.

Lorne Catherwood, an insurance salesman in this Ottawa River community, said in an interview Tuesday:

"The main reason I've changed is Mr. Stanfield . . . he is a statesman and not a politician. The NDP is not a true socialist party and the difference between the two parties is not that great."

Mr. Catherwood said Mr. Stanfield's program for the June 25 general election is "as progressive and forward-looking as the NDP platform."

Mr. Catherwood said he made his decision to seek the Conservative nomination after he was approached by "high-ranking Tories" in the district.

TORONTO (CP) — Newspaper columnist Douglas Fisher, who gave up his Lakehead New Democratic Party seat before the last federal election, was nominated by the NDP Tuesday night to contest York Centre riding in the June 25 election.

Mr. Fisher, 48, defeated former trade and commerce minister C. D. Howe in Port Arthur riding in the 1957 federal election. He won the riding in 1958, again under the CCF banner, and also in 1962 and '63, this time with the New Democratic Party.

The Toronto Telegram political writer said he is re-entering active politics because "the country is being sold a phoney bill of goods . . . the Liberals are a radical progressive party."

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Mayor Joseph Guay announced today he will oppose Veterans Affairs Minister Roger Teillet for the St. Boniface Liberal nomination for the June 25 federal election.

Without naming the minister in his statement, Mayor Guay referred to what he called the constituency's "inadequate representation in the past."

Mr. Teillet, who has represented St. Boniface since 1962, announced earlier he would again seek the nomination. He was the only Liberal elected on the prairies in 1965.

OTTAWA (CP)—An unidentified Toronto coin dealer's proposal to add election slogans to Canadian dollar bills has been turned down by Liberal party headquarters, an informant said Tuesday night.

The dealer suggested that the Liberals print "True Dough," a word play on Prime Minister Trudeau's name, and "Trudeau for a 100-per-cent sound economy," on dollar bills.

"We politely showed him the door," a Liberal headquarters spokesman said.

"We considered it's illegal to deface a dollar bill. Besides, we think it's a crazy idea."

Report Requested On Safety Council Before Grant Paid

The Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee wants a complete report on the Victoria District Safety Council before it approves a $2,400 annual grant.

The newly-formed safety council asked the intermunicipal group for its first grant Tuesday afternoon and warned it will likely be back for more each year.

Formed to launch an all-out safety program for automobile drivers the safety council will eventually extend its safety programs to recreation, the home and industrial plants.

Saigon Siege Costly Job For Attackers

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. command announced today that 2,002 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers have been killed in the last three days of heavy fighting in and around Saigon.

But despite heavy losses, the insurgents battled on for the fourth day in streets on the capital's western edge.

In comparison with the 2,002 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed, the U.S. command said combined forces casualties in the first three days of the new wave of attacks on Saigon totalled 211 killed and 931 wounded—30 Americans killed and 323 wounded, 181 South Vietnamese killed and 608 wounded.

ACTION WEAKENS

"There isn't much going on today," a senior U.S. officer said.

"The key is whether the enemy will be able to reinforce and they don't seem to be able to.

"As far as the major threat from the west, it doesn't seem to be developing. It looks as if it is petering out, but it's a little early to say officially."

. . . BENNETT

But he anrily beat The premier refused to back up suggestions by anonymous provincial officials that B.C. might fight such expropritations in the courts because he said, repeadedly, he was sure Ottawa was not planning such a move.

PERSONAL ATTACK

Mr. Bennett personally attacked Mr. Laing and B.C. Liberal Leader Ray Perrault who Tuesday said that millins of federal dollars go btgging because the provincial government refuses to use available channels in obtaining Ottawa help for various projects.

"Mr. Laing and Mr. Perrault, the original sawdust twins, are at it again," Mr. Bennett bagan his statements.

He recalled that Mr. Laing used to be B.C. Liberal Leader when Mr. Perrault was its organizer and said the Tuesday statements by both men showtd "they are just working at a team again."

"Word has been sent through to me from Ottawa — I'm not saying which source — this morning.

"I doubt that Mr. Laing's statement has endeared him to the federal Liberal party, I doubt it very much."

The premiier noted that prominent Conservative front bencher Davie Fulton had said that a Tory government would co-operate full with the provincial government in development of Robetts Bank.

ONE SMILE

"His (Laing's) own party is repudiating him, the NDP is repudiating him and Fulton is repudiating him," Mr. Bennett said heatedly.

"Of course I, as premier, just feel sorry for him."

He said Mr. Laing and Mr. Perrault were the worst of enemies B.C. has.

But when asked if Mr. Laing's statement was correct or not that the federal government has the power to go it alone in B.C. says it will build, Mr. Bennett declined to givoe his opinion.

He said federal power o expropriation "is not a question for consideration.

"That question won't come up in my opinion.

"I am positive that the wild statement by Mr. Laing does not represent the feeling of the federal government.

'MAY HE REITRE'

"Outside of that, I have friendly feelings for Mr. Laing . . . and may he retire soon."

Mr. Bennett said although locked in a dispute over jurisdiction of the proposed superport, both the provincial and federal governments had been progressing co-operatively with technical planning on the physical aspects of construction before deciding the jurisdiction question.

Asked if he might contemplate court action should the federal government expropriate the 2,000 shoreline acres B.C. recently expropriated at the Roberts Bank site, Mr. Bennett said:

READY BY 1970

"The port has got to be ready (for exporting coal to Japan by 1970) at any event and no action of ours will delay it."

He added he was sure neither side would delay the project by tieing it up in the courts.

"We've pledged our co-operation and assistance," said Mr. Bennett. "This is no partisan issue.

"The only discordant note is this wild statement of Mr. Laing's and I refuse to be drawn into a discussion of this statement by Mr. Laing because I'm convinced it doesn't represent the views of the federal government or the responsible minister."

(During the series of charges and counter-charges that have marked federal-provincial statements on the superport project for the past year, Attorney-General Robert Bonner made the strongest statement when he accused Mr. Hellyer of having "holes in his head" for rejecting B.C. demands for a joint development.)

COAL DISPUTE

The current furore follows an equally bitter argument between B.C. and Ottawa in which Premier Bennett insisted that the forty-million-ton Fernie coal traffic to the superport be split between the Canadian Pacific Railway and the U.S. Great Northern Railway.

Mr. Hellyer held firm that the coal must go via an all-Canadian rail route and Mr. Bennett pulled back from his demands during the last session after Socred backbencher James Chabot warned on the floor of the legislature that British Columbians would not stand for exporting 150 railway jobs to the U.S. as proposed by the provincial government.

. . . STANFIELD

far as I know, no high-level meetings have taken place."

Mr. Stanfield repeated his own position on the constitution and division of powers.

He said Quebec's proposals for special measures to protect their language and culture must be examined to see whether they can be accepted without weakening the essential role of the federal government.

Any additional authority offered to one province would have to be offered to all, but there might be some powers in which only Quebec is interested.

The Quebec Pension Plan, for example, was a unique expression of Quebec authority that had not damaged the essential fabric of the country.

DISCUSSED MANY TOPICS

On other subjects, Mr. Stanfield told the news conference:

Reporters intrigued about the possible election candidacy of Marcel Faribault, constitutional adviser of Premier Johnson of Quebec, would have to remain intrigued for a few days. Mr. Stanfield confirmed that Mr. Faribault is being consulted.

● He cannot put a dollar value on the minimum guaranteed income he has proposed for Canadians unable to work because of age or disability. But the plan would not conflict with his call for restraint in government spending. It would be introduced only when it could be afforded.

● The television debate proposed by the CTV network between himself and Prime Minister Trudeau is "quite acceptable to us." The problem of using both French and English, mentioned by Mr. Trudeau, could be solved by providing simultaneous translation. Mr. Stanfield indicated he will apply his limited command of the French language.

● If the Conservatives win June 25 and it is his responsibility to deal with a national postal workers' strike as early as July 1, he would ask for a postponement of the strike date to permit discussions.

PROMISES STATEMENT

Substantial amounts would not be involved initially. Later, it would be a matter for year-to-year decision on how much could be allocated for expansion of activity. The immediate need was for an effective strategy.

Conservatives would like to see a uniform pollution abatement code across Canada, but this could not be imposed on the provinces and it would be up to the provinces to decide whether to impose standards on industry.

Federal assistance to industry for research and control would be funnelled through the provinces, Mr. Stanfield indicated.

Asked about Conservative policy on water export, Mr. Stanfield said it had not been worked out, but he is attracted by a "collective approach to resources."

Advocated by Alvin Hamilton, former Conservative agriculture minister, this approach would mean a comprehensive program under which Canada and the U.S. would work out the use of water, oil, gas, mineral and other resources on a continental basis.

GROOS RENOMINATED

Candidate Says Port Needs Overhauling

David Groos was nominated Tuesday night to seek re-election as Liberal MP for Victoria and promised to strive for improvememnt of the city's port facilities.

About 100 persons approved him by acclamation as Liberal standard-bearer in the riding he has held since 1963.

In an interview, Mr. Groos said the Canadian National Railway has allowed harbor facilities to deteriorate to the point that shipping is no longer attracted here.

He said dredging, new cranes and storage arrangements are needed to accommodate larger ships.

REPORT ASKED

"I have asked the transport department to make a forecast of what they believe the future of Victoria harbor should be," said Mr. Groos.

"Then we'll submit it to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and ask if they agree.

"Then we turn to the CNR and say: "This is the plan. You must put in the required facilities'."

Mr. Groos said if the CNR did not go along, power to develop the port should be turned over to a harbor commission.

By coincidence, the candidate's comments came on the heels of a federal department of transport report criticizing the present situation in B.C.'s 196 small public boat harbors and floats.

"With some exceptions, they are poorly organized with no signs indicating the operation authority or the wharfage dues," the DOT report said.

It proposed portable mooring licences or permits would be issued on a fee basis, valid in designated harbors when space was available.

DAVID GROOS

The report also said that wharf managers at the fishermen's wharf here and other major coast centres should be placed on a salary basis rather than commissions on wharfage dues collected.

The report said too many boatowners are tying up public dock space with derelicts and cluttering the floats with junk.

IMPAIRED DRIVERS

Fined Tuesday for impaired driving were Joseph Fortin, 1054 Princess, apprehended Monday evening in the 500 block, Fisgard, $400; Charles Thompson, 312 Latoria, observed driving along Sooke Road in an erratic manner April 12, $300; George Smilowski, 207 Burnside West, observed weaving on Douglas St. May 4, $300.

Fight Costs $50

Two men were fined $25 each Tuesday for causing a disturbance by fighting.

Court was told Art Beekman and David Spencely, both of CFB Esquimalt, were involved in a scrap with two other men in the Town and Country parking lot March 31.

Luke's, said eight hours before Cobb's death, he suddenly worsened.

The question of when the donor was medically and legally dead arose as Dr. Denton A. Cooley prepared to lead the surgical team in the Stuckwish operation.

(See also Page 10.)

Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, Harris County medical examiner, said Nicks was pronounced dead at 10:30 a.m. by Dr. Pedro Caram of St. Luke's Hospital.

Caram said an electroencephalograph showed absence of any brain waves. A respirator was used to keep the donor's heart viable before it ceased to function at 1:58 p.m., a hospital spokesman said.

The implant to Stuckwish began six minutes later.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

The gradual decrease in cloud amount over B.C. will continue as a strong stationary ridge of high pressure builds over the coast protecting the province from the eastward movement of Pacific disturbances. A minor upper air disturbance moving down the interior gave cloudy skies to eastern sections of the province overnight with even a a little rain at Kamloops but skies became sunny later today.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Canadian 'Land Bridge' Attractive to Japanese

By AB KENT
Business Editor

According to the Japan Canada Trade Council it will be cheaper to ship goods via "land bridge" across North America than to ship entirely by sea from Japan to Britain.

If the council's figures are correct, they destroy a compelling argument against a land bridge concept using containers and special unit trains that would run between Vancouver — or Roberts Bank — and Halifax or Strait of Canso.

Kent

It has been argued that although the concept of a rail bridge is good, its only redeeming factor would be the saving of some 20 days in shipping time between industrial Japan and the markets of Britain and Europe.

How much of the myriad of commodities exported by Japan would really benefit by this extra-quick voyage, it was asked.

Well, the very fact that Japanese businessmen seem to be sold on the idea should in itself be a sign that the economics can't be all that bad.

The sons of the Rising Sun are proving to be among the world's champion salesmen, backing what appears to be an infinite industrial capacity with astuteness, quality and responsibility.

The council says the average cost of shipping one ton of cargo 12,500 miles from Japan to Britain via Panama Canal is $435. Using a land bridge, the 45-day trip would be reduced to 25 days and 10,630 miles at a cost of $363.

This assumes a Canadian railroad capacity to handle container cargo unloaded at a rate of 1,200 per ship in Vancouver by means of giant cranes, with trains expedited across Canada with only a two-hour pause in mid-continent to connect with a feeder train from the U.S.

Again, at the Atlantic end, huge cranes would take containers from the slow-moving flatcars for loading aboard a second container vessel, virtually without stopping.

The council indicates a Canadian bridge is more likely than a U.S. rail bridge because fewer carriers are involved. In the U.S. a jumble of railroads to deal with has created a red tape barrier that seems unlikely to be cut before next year's deadline.

Land bridge seems to be the good word internationally: an Israeli study done by American economist Jack Friedgut shows how a truck bridge between Eilat and Ashdod would take goods from the Far East to Europe via the Mediterranean.

The advantages here would be two-fold, providing both reliability of shipments whether or not the Suez Canal were open, and permit the use of container vessels that would be too large in any case for passage through the canal.

To be economic, the route would need only 10 per cent of all the goods shipped by container from the Far East, the report to Israel Ports Authority said.

Conwest Exploration Co. Ltd. will concentrate its Canadian exploration activity in the hot north this year, president C. R. Elliott said Tuesday.

This is one of the companies with an interest in the Coppermine River area, in conjunction with Coppermine River Ltd. Conwest is putting up 16 per cent of the money for work being done by Coppermine River Ltd., which so far indicates a copper-bearing zone with more than 3 million tons of ore.

Its grade is reported to be excellent — more than 3 per cent indicated by diamond drilling. Mr. Elliott said this leads the company to expect mining could be profitable, despite the high cost of northern transportation.

Conwest also is involved with five other projects in the investigation of several thousand mineral claims in the same general area.

RASH OF ONTARIO STRIKES

Nearly 15,000 Idled

By The Canadian Press

Nearly 15,000 workers in Ontario were idle in strikes or in sympathy with strikes today.

Most of the strikers were idle in disputes with Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd., involving 5,900 men in Toronto and Brantford, and with Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., involving 2,600 men in Toronto and Bowmanville.

But in London, Ont., 5,000 construction workers refused to cross the picket lines of 240 striking members of the International Association of Sheet Metal Workers whose strike has halted about $50,000,000 worth of construction work.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., the first of an expected series of disputes in the construction industry is to start today when 80 electricians, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are scheduled to go on strike.

The Massey-Ferguson strike involves about 2,500 members of the United Auto Workers union in Toronto and about 3,400 in Brantford. The strike began April 19 in support of wage parity with United States employees of Massey-Ferguson.

The Goodyear strike—in which the United Rubber Workers union is seeking a settlement similar to that won by the United Auto Workers in strikes against General Motors, Ford and Chrysler earlier this year—involves 2,200 workers in Toronto and 400 at Bowmanville, about 10 miles east of Oshawa.

WON WAGE PARITY

The UAW won wage parity between U.S. and Canadian workers in the settlements with the auto manufacturers. Wages, when parity is reached in 1970, will range from $3.65 to $5.05 an hour.

Goodyear announced Tuesday that negotiations would resume today. The strike began last Friday.

Other strikes in the province include:

Hespeler—120 employees of Crowe Foundry, a castings manufacturer, in a dispute over wages;

St. Catharines—57 workers at Canadian Warren Pink Division of the Dominion Chain Co. Ltd. seeking 20-per-cent wage increase and cost-of-living bonus;

Brantford—38 office workers at A. G. Spalding Bros. of Canada, a sporting-goods manufacturer, seeking wage increases in the first contract for their bargaining unit, Local 2-350 of the International Woodworkers of America, certified last August.

Britannia Locates New Zone of Ore

BRITANNIA (CP) — A multi-million-dollar plan to open up a large new ore zone at the old Britannia copper mine 20 miles north of Vancouver was announced Tuesday.

Anaconda (Canada) Ltd., operator of the mine whose current production is averaging 2,500 tons daily, declined to give estimates of tonnage and grade of the new zone or exact development costs.

"From what we know the grade is substantially higher than the ore we're currently processing," said W. B. Montgomery, administrative assistant at the mill.

Present ore is averaging 1.2 per cent copper and .4 per cent zinc, he said.

He said a 2,200-foot shaft will be sunk from within the mine's present underground workings to reach the new zone, discovered during a 2½-year drilling program. The new zone is expected to be placed in production by 1971.

Arthur Mayse

The man I envied most as a young reporter was a free-lance writer who sometimes dropped in to pass the time of day. He earned a good living at his trade; he was free to come and go as he chose, and his way of life impressed me as ideal.

But, while he was generous with encouragement and advice, there were a few things about the life of the free-lance that he neglected to tell me. I was left to learn them for myself, in 16 years of feast and near-famine that I wouldn't have missed for anything.

But I wouldn't want to repeat them either, and this surprises friends not met in a long time who find me behind a newsroom typewriter once more.

Almost always, they want to know if I miss the freedom of those years when I took our family living from the American fiction market.

No, I don't miss it, and this for the simplest of reasons. Freedom, in the sense they use the workd, didn't exist. To understand why, oblige me by considering certain facts about a highly-uncertain occupation.

First, even for the man or woman whose abilities lie in that direction, creative writing is slave-driving work, and the writer is both master and slave.

It is hard physically and mentally. There is also the knowledge — which a free-lance writer must keep firmly suppressed while he's busy making something out of nothing — that his end-product may have no market value whatever.

★

I have known a good many journeyman writers. Without exception, they expected to turn out more stories or scripts than they sold.

He might, as I eventually did, place about two-thirds of what he produced by the sweat of his brow and the turmoil of his spirit. As for the remainder, which represented weeks or even months of work, he could junk it or keep it for a souvenir.

You will note that I have not used the word "inspiration" in this treatise. This is because I have never heard a typically morose, harried professional writer use it. He may speak of a hot idea, and with luck, he will be visited by such a sending perhaps three times in any one year.

These are the bonuses . . . they leap to life full-blown, and the writer merely transcribes them on paper. And what does he do the rest of the time? Take life easy?

Not if he hopes to keep the bank account solvent, he doesn't! He brings his craft to bear, he applies self-discipline, and he sets himself to whistle up a wind. And strangely, the story that came hard may in the end turn out better than the hotshot that has still failed to find a home.

Did I tell you that his wife, who never knows for how long she must budget, either leaves him or develops nerves of steel?.

★

But it wasn't any of these factors that caused me to turn from free-lancing the day after I had sold a story to a top market.

After all every job has its difficulties, and a man takes them in stride.

There were also wonderful times, plenty of them, and occasional high excitements: New York calling, and the knowledge that the serial on which our fortunes hung had scored.

What brought me to this newsroom typewriter, more than any other pressure, was a sort of loneliness.

Creative writing is of necessity a solitary business. More and more, I found myself yearning for the very things I has tossed away so gladly.

I wanted to work among other people, and to look forward to weekends and holidays again.

Freedom? Long ago, I quit believing it was more than time unlimited to spend as one chose. Now, I think that true freedom is something that comes from within.

HAWES BACKS DEEP WATER DISCHARGE

'Shallow Sewer Outfalls Must Go'

By ALAN WHITE

Mayor Fred Hawes of Oak Bay today came out swinging in defence of Greater Victoria's plan for deep water sewage outfalls.

Dumping sewage into shallow local waters — which has been done here for 50 years— is "revolting and a threat to public health," the mayor said.

The mayor, who is chairman of the sewage and waste disposal committee of the Capital Region District Board, said no delays should be tolerated because of the "propaganda of uniformed people."

The time has come when we must stop dumping sewage into shallow enclosed water," he said.

MEETS STANDARD

William Reader, a member of the board from Colwood, has severely criticized the general concept of disposing of waste in the sea.

Mayor Hawes said the outfall system meets standards set down by the Pollution Control Board. If necessary, sewage treatment plants could always be added to the system.

Extensive rock formations and impervious soil make the region unsuitable for any other method of sewage disposal, he said.

"It is fortunate that most of our centres of population in the Greater Victoria area are within reasonable reach of open waters which are subject to significant currents that increase the diffusion and dilution."

Dispersal of sewage far enough from shore will kill bacteria quickly enough to meet pollution standards, he added.

The first steps towards correcting the existing faulty outfall systems will probably be made to the regional district board on May 22.

For the past three months the over-all plan for eliminating major pollution problems in the area has been under intensive study in order to sort out priorities.

Number one on the list at present is the Macaulay Point outfall fed by the northwest trunk system and discharging sewage into the sea at the mouth of Victoria harbor.

Also high on the list is a request from Central Saanich that urgent priority be given to its sewage disposal problems.

B.C. Bank Opens In Late Summer

Douglas, Johnson Location

The Bank of British Columbia's Victoria branch will open in late summer at the corner of Douglas and Johnson in premises now occupied by a clothing store.

The announcement was made by director Harold B. Elworthy, chairman of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., and bank president A. E. Hall, of Vancouver.

A statement said, "We had hoped to open in Victoria during July when the Vancouver main office will be opened, but premises were not readily available, and hopefully Victoria branch will be ready to open its doors to the public by late summer."

Before the bank takes over, the building will undergo extensive renovations, the statement said.

Originally it was planned to open branches in Vancouver and Victoria early this year, but the bank encountered organizational problems involving staff and securing suitable branch sites.

Boy Sets Fire To Himself After LSD Bout

A Saanich boy set fire to himself the day after he had taken a dose of LSD, Saanich police said Tuesday.

The 15-year-old boy is in hospital with first, second and third degree burns over 30 per cent of his body.

The incident occurred April 28 and Saanich police, who were not notified until Friday, have it under "intensive investigation."

BOUGHT FROM GIRL

Det.-Sgt. Robin Stewart said the boy bought a dose of the drug for $7 from a 14-year-old girl. He took the drug Saturday, April 27, and the following day went berserk.

He apparently went into the backyard, poured gasoline over himself and ignited it.

Police said a dressing gown the boy was wearing was completely burned. He suffered burns to his hands, face, back and legs. A relative rushed him to hospital.

The boy is a student at a local high school. His age and that of the girl who sold him the drug underline recent concern of widespread use of drugs among school students.

Det.-Sgt. Stewart would not say if the age of the two youngsters involved was unusually low, but he said. "we have to educate the kids not to take unprescribed drugs.

"They are experimenting with drugs without knowing what they are buying and what they are taking."

MAN CHARGED WITH HAVING STILL

A charge of possession of an illegal still came before magistrate's court today for the first time in several years.

Stanley Ratcliffe, 710 Donovan, pleaded not guilty to possession of "a still suitable for the manufacture of spirits without given notice as required by the Excise Act."

BAIRD:

No Crackdown On Lord's Day Infringements

Victoria city council has not instructed Chief J. F. Gregory to enforce the Lord's Day Act.

The statement was made this morning by Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the Victoria city finance committee, which last week discussed a letter from the United Church Presbytery protesting the increasing amount of Sunday business.

He was replying to reports in the Colonist that city council had ordered a crackdown.

"We discussed the letter, but all we asked the police chief to do was study the activities of two particular companies — one involved in the sale of paint and the other in the sale of furniture — and report his opinions to us," Ald. Baird said. "The decision was a committee decision not a council decision.

'RIDICULOUS'

"We did not instruct him to start charging people under the Lord's Day Act because such instructions would be ridiculous.

Ald. Baird said he would favor any move to modernize the act to bring it into line with the accepted way of life of modern society.

"In the meantime the act has to be administered with a great deal of common sense," he said. "But I am in favor of a complete review, not with the idea of relaxing some of the restrictions, but just with bringing it into line with modern living.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whose department is responsible for admisistering the act, said he would not agree with a tightening upp of policing.

"It has been the policy of this department for the past 16 years to carry on in the face of established usage," Mr. Bonner said. "Any prosecutions under the Lord's Day Act must be approved by this department.

MIDDLE OF ROAD

"It has been our policy, and will continue to be our policy, to see that implementation of the act is not unduly liberalized nor unduly tightened."

Mr. Bonner said any review of the act would have to be made in Ottawa, that statute being federal on creation.

Ald. Baird said he felt the earlier news story must have been written and published "tongue-in-cheek."

"They must have been aware that this matter is not under the city's jurisdiction," he said. "It is a provincial matter and any tightening up lies with them.

"But I think we all agree it would be one huge joke to try and put the Lord's Day Act into effect in Victoria or any other city for that matter."

Poison Found In Body Of Yachtsman

A well-known Victoria yachtsman and flyer died of cyanide poisoning, a coroner's inquest was told Tuesday night.

Stuart Law, 49, of 2582 Macdonald Drive, died March 24 at his home. He had a history of heart trouble.

ACTS FAST

Cyanide is a fast-acting poison and Dr. Thornton said a person taking a few grains dies "in a minute or two."

Assistant Vancouver city analyst Eldon Ridout, who conducted tests for Saanich police, said the "usual range" of a lethal dose is about .4 or .5 milligram per cent.

He said he found the deceased's blood contained about .34 milligram per cent cyanide, the stomach about .7 milligram per cent.

Pharmacist Edmond Bedford of Dalby's Pharmacy, 3828 Cadboro Bay Rd., told the inquest he sold Law 130 grams of liquid cyanide March 16, and a further 130 grams of dry cyanide March 23.

PHOTOGRAPHIC

He said Law told him the chemical would be used for photographic purposes.

I warned him about the danger . . . and he said he would throw it away as soon as he had finished with it."

After hearing eight witnesses, coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre adjourned the inquest until Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Saanich court house.

Law was a fighter pilot in the Battle of Britain and a former commercial airlines pilot. He worked as an accountant for the Liquor Control Board.

PENSIONERS

Longer Hours Requested On Bus Pass

The $5 bus pass issued to old age pensioners throughout British Columbia should be useable from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., the executive director of Victoria Silver Threads Service said today.

At present the pass can only be used from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and after 7 p.m. weekdays, and all day Sunday.

"It would be of general benefit to the public if these hours were extended," said Mrs. Catherine Horne.

"For one thing, many of our Silver Threads classes begin at 9:30 a.m. For another, our afternoon social functions do not end until 3:30 p.m.

"A third reason is that many young school children travel on the buses soon after 3 p.m. Pensioners would avoid travelling at this time if the pass were extended until 4 p.m."

'COMMONSENSE'

Mrs. Horne said most old-age pensioners are "commonsense folk" and they want to co-operate with the travelling public and those who have to work for a living.

"Many of our members have spoken to me about this, but as yet we have made no official representation to the B.C. welfare department."

The $5 pass issued by the department is available for six months.

"We consider the cost is reasonable," Mrs. Horne said, "but the hours should be changed."

Fatality-Free Year Wins Award For Esquimalt

Esquimalt Municipality has won a special award for getting through 1967 without a fatal accident.

A certificate, presented by Highway Safeway Council general chairman, Norman H. Bell, at a luncheon today, was accepted for Esquimalt by Chief Earle Sarsiat.

The district was among 24 across Canada with populations of 10,000 to 20,000 to receive a citation.

Jumbo Ferry In Service On May 16

Premeir Bennett this morning announced the province's newest and largest ferry will start service between Horseshoe Bay and Langdale May 16.

He said he would be aboard the Sunshine Coast Queen that day for the two-hour round trip on the 15-year-old former St. Lawrence ice-breaking ferry he bought last year from a Quebec firm.

Together with $606,000 worth of renovations, the ferry cost the province a total of $2,206,000 but was worth $9 million at present construction prices, he told reporters.

185 CARS

Mezzanine car decks have been added to increase capacity to 185 cars. A 212-seat cafeteria has been installed along with observation lounges for 725 passengers.

Mr. Bennett said the Sunshine Coast Queen is "almost 50 per cent larger than our Gulf of Georgia ferries" and would carry two-and-a-half times the combined number of cars and passengers of the two older ferries she replaces on the Sunshine Coast run.

Along with inagurating the ferry's first day of service, Mr. Bennett will be on the Mainland next week for two rallies in the Vancouver South byelection.

BLOWING STRONG from Mount Douglas lookout in Saanich is new fire protection system. Municipal fire-fighters are being acquainted with new system designed to protect the park from a repetition of the September, 1966, fire which scarred the hillside. At one point in the big fire, two pumper trucks were tied up pumping water from the bottom of the 738-foot hill and there was difficulty in maintaining pressure. Work started last year on a 5,000-gallon water tank at the top and a 3,000-foot six-inch pipeline running to it to provide necessary water and pressure to fight any new fire. ROW SPARKED BY SHIFTING OF BOATHOUSES

A showdown looms between North Saanich and the Capital City Yacht Club over relocation of 25 boathouses at its Tsehum Harbor moorage without consent of council.

The matter has been submitted to the municipal solicitor for legal advice.

The club's action followed a meeting between council and marina operators to discuss amendments to a proposed by-law for controlling marinas in North Saanich harbors.

Previous to the meeting, the club had requested permission to relocate the boathouses, but without waiting for a reply from council went ahead with the project, said Ald. Neil Horth.

"It was an inconsiderate and ill-advised act by the board of directors of the yacht club," said Ald. Horth, "and it may have very unfortunate repercussions for the club as a whole."

SUPREME COURT RULING

Tax Appeal Lost By Lumber Company

The Supreme Court of British Columbia has rejected an appeal against business tax assessment increases by B.C. Forest Products.

The other four were Morrison Motors, Victoria Press, Stewart and Hudson and the Victoria Grain Elevator.

Only two pushed as far as the Supreme Court with the Grain Elevator withdrawing its appeal at the last moment leaving B.C. Forest Products to carry th fight alone.

BCFP was not only challenging the increased assessment but the validity of the business tax bylaw.

The Supreme Court rejected the appeal and upheld the bylaw as valid.

The business tax is based on 6¼ per cent of the rental values of business properties.

This year the increased assessments were valued at $8.9 million as compared with $7.5 million last year, an increase of $1.4 million.

The increases will generate some $90,000 in additional revenues for the city.

"I don't know what we would have done had the appeal been upheld," Mr. Joyce said. "It would have created a great deal of chaos. But it was rejected on both counts. The judge confirmed the assessment and upheld the bylaw."

During the close to four-day hearing the city was represented by city solicitor T. P. O'Grady with Mr. Joyce on hand to provide expert testimony.

Man Jailed Nine Months For Fraud

A 53-year-old man was sentenced to nine months today on four counts of false pretences.

John Rodgers, 711 Johnson, pleaded guilty to tendering fraudulent cheques totalling $463.66 between May 4 and 7 in four Victoria stores.

Court was told he pawned most of the goods received and that all have now been recovered.

Prosecutor John Macintyre said the accused had a record of similar charges dating from 1947.

Company Fined $200 For UIA Infractions

Wescraft Manufacturing Ltd., 2811 Douglas St., pleaded guilty and was fined $50 each on four counts of failing to have unemployment books for employees and failing to send records of earnings of employees to the insurance office.

Ask The Times

Q — What or who organized credit unions in Canada and are they controlled? R.J.B.

A — Credit unions, or the caisse populaire in Quebec, were introduced in 1900 by Alphonse Desjardins, who used a technique developed in Germany by Frederick Raiffeisen during the 1840's. The first credit union was opened in Levis, Que., and the idea spread to the United States by 1909. Legislation governing credit unions is found mainly on provincial statute books, and every province has a Credit Union Act or its equivalent, according to Encyclopedia Canadiana.

HORSEMEN ON THE MOVE

Big Entry Conditioning for Trail Ride?

Is it because a lot of horsemen in these parts are just good-weather riders, or because they're serious trail types?

There's been an increase in horse activity over the past several weeks and Garden City Horsemen's Club is wondering.

If it's because riders are busy conditioning their horses and themselves for the club's seventh annual four-day trail ride at the end of the month, a whacking big entry could be expected.

The club will know for sure this Sunday. Entries for the ride close then, and bull cook Nita Walt and supply boss Ved Donaldson will know how much food and feed to rustle up.

This is the last big job of the organizing committee, headed by Gary Crawford, whose group has been working for the past six weeks on camp sites and trails.

It's been a big job, because new country is going to be ridden on the four days starting May 24.

It will cover about 100 backwoods miles in the Kapoor district north west of Shawnigan Lake, extending to the Eagle Heights area south of Duncan. Some of the ride will follow B.C. Hydro power lines, some will be on logging roads and some on newly-slashed trails.

The dual job of trail boss and camp boss will be handled by a long-time horseman, club member Roy Jewell, who will meet participants at a pre-ride coffee party May 22 at the Western Horsemen's Clubhouse at Saanichton Fair Grounds. Instructions on assembly will be given then, and rules of the ride explained.

Entries must be postmarked before midnight May 12 and should be sent to secretary Shelia Linfield, Garden City Horsemen's Club, P.O. Box 8, Saanichton, B.C., with $20 entry fee.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Canadian 'Land Bridge' Attractive to Japanese

By AB KENT
Business Editor

According to the Japan Canada Trade Council it will be cheaper to ship goods via "land bridge" across North America than to ship entirely by sea from Japan to Britain.

If the council's figures are correct, they destroy a compelling argument against a land bridge concept using containers and special unit trains that would run between Vancouver — or Roberts Bank — and Halifax or Strait of Canso.

Kent

It has been argued that although the concept of a rail bridge is good, its only redeeming factor would be the saving of some 20 days in shipping time between industrial Japan and the markets of Britain and Europe.

How much of the myriad of commodities exported by Japan would really benefit by this extra-quick voyage, it was asked.

Well, the very fact that Japanese businessmen seem to be sold on the idea should in itself be a sign that the economics can't be all that bad.

The sons of the Rising Sun are proving to be among the world's champion salesmen, backing what appears to be an infinite industrial capacity with astuteness, quality and responsibility.

The council says the average cost of shipping one ton of cargo 12,500 miles from Japan to Britain via Panama Canal is $435. Using a land bridge, the 45-day trip would be reduced to 25 days and 10,630 miles at a cost of $363.

This assumes a Canadian railroad capacity to handle container cargo unloaded at a rate of 1,200 per ship in Vancouver by means of giant cranes, with trains expedited across Canada with only a two-hour pause in mid-continent to connect with a feeder train from the U.S.

Again, at the Atlantic end, huge cranes would take containers from the slow-moving flatcars for loading aboard a second container vessel, virtually without stopping.

The council indicates a Canadian bridge is more likely than a U.S. rail bridge because fewer carriers are involved. In the U.S. a jumble of railroads to deal with has created a red tape barrier that seems unlikely to be cut before next year's deadline.

Land bridge seems to be the good word internationally: an Israeli study done by American economist Jack Friedgut shows how a truck bridge between Eilat and Ashdod would take goods from the Far East to Europe via the Mediterranean.

The advantages here would be two-fold, providing both reliability of shipments whether or not the Suez Canal were open, and permit the use of container vessels that would be too large in any case for passage through the canal.

To be economic, the route would need only 10 per cent of all the goods shipped by container from the Far East, the report to Israel Ports Authority said.

Conwest Exploration Co. Ltd. will concentrate its Canadian exploration activity in the hot north this year, president C. R. Elliott said Tuesday.

This is one of the companies with an interest in the Coppermine River area, in conjunction with Coppermine River Ltd. Conwest is putting up 16 per cent of the money for work being done by Coppermine River Ltd., which so far indicates a copper-bearing zone with more than 3 million tons of ore.

Its grade is reported to be excellent — more than 3 per cent indicated by diamond drilling. Mr. Elliott said this leads the company to expect mining could be profitable, despite the high cost of northern transportation.

Conwest also is involved with five other projects in the investigation of several thousand mineral claims in the same general area.

RASH OF ONTARIO STRIKES

Nearly 15,000 Idled

By The Canadian Press

Nearly 15,000 workers in Ontario were idle in strikes or in sympathy with strikes today.

Most of the strikers were idle in disputes with Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd., involving 5,900 men in Toronto and Brantford, and with Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., involving 2,600 men in Toronto and Bowmanville.

But in London, Ont., 5,000 construction workers refused to cross the picket lines of 240 striking members of the International Association of Sheet Metal Workers whose strike has halted about $50,000,000 worth of construction work.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., the first of an expected series of disputes in the construction industry is to start today when 80 electricians, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are scheduled to go on strike.

The Massey-Ferguson strike involves about 2,500 members of the United Auto Workers union in Toronto and about 3,400 in Brantford. The strike began April 19 in support of wage parity with United States employees of Massey-Ferguson.

The Goodyear strike—in which the United Rubber Worker; union is seeking a settlement similar to that won by the United Auto Workers in strikes against General Motors, Ford and Chrysler earlier this year—involves 2,200 workers in Toronto and 400 at Bowmanville, about 10 miles east of Oshawa.

WON WAGE PARITY

The UAW won wage parity between U.S. and Canadian workers in the settlements with the auto manufacturers. Wages, when parity is reached in 1970, will range from $3.65 to $5.05 an hour.

Goodyear announced Tuesday that negotiations would resume today. The strike began last Friday.

St. Catharines—57 workers at Canadian Warren Pink Division of the Dominion Chain Co. Ltd. seeking 20-per-cent wage increase and cost-of-living bonus;

Brantford—38 office workers at A. G. Spalding Bros. of Canada, a sporting-goods manufacturer, seeking wage increases in the first contract for their bargaining unit, Local 2-350 of the International Woodworkers of America, certified last August.

Britannia Locates New Zone of Ore

BRITANNIA (CP) — A multi-million-dollar plan to open up a large new ore zone at the old Britannia copper mine 20 miles north of Vancouver was announced Tuesday.

Anaconda (Canada) Ltd., operator of the mine whose current production is averaging 2,500 tons daily, declined to give estimates of tonnage and grade of the new zone or exact development costs.

"From what we know the grade is substantially higher than the ore we're currently processing," said W. B. Montgomery, administrative assistant at the mill.

Present ore is averaging 1.2 per cent copper and .4 per cent zinc, he said.

He said a 2,200-foot shaft will be sunk from within the mine's present underground workings to reach the new zone, discovered during a 2½-year drilling program. The new zone is expected to be placed in production by 1971.
